Resolved, That the thanks of the Execuive Committee of the Board of Regents of the University of Oregon be and they are

First-To Thos. G. Reames, M. W. Grand Master of A. F. & A. M. of Oregon, and his subordinate officers, for the efficient and highly satisfactory manner in which the ceremonies of laying the corner stone of the University building on the 28th of July were conducted.

Second-To Prof. J. W. Merritt, of Jackonville, for the interesting, learned and instructive address delivered by him on that occasion, and we regret extremely that he will not consent to the publication of the same, as we deem it worthy of a careful perusal by our thinking people.

Third-To P. H. Farrell, Esq., of Eugene City, who generously donated his time and kill in preparing the corner stone for the University building.

Crouch's Patent Incubators.

July 10, 1876, Frank Crouch, of Oakland, Memorial Services to be Held at the obtained a patent on an invention for ventilating houses. The instrument on which the patent was obtained consisted of a pair of plates of thin brass or other light material shaped like dinner plates, or more like a pair of cymbals, soldered together at the edges. The vessel thus formed was filled with a fluid very sensitive to heat, which expanded very rapidly with the increase of temperature, and as readily contracted with the fall of the mercury. By attaching this to levers and other mechanical appliances, services at the Court House SATURDAY EVENdoors, transoms, etc., opened and shut by the expansion or contraction of this little instrument, as the temperature demanded.

Soon after the patent was issued, Dr. U. B. Scott, of San Jose, Cal., bought one of The mail stage leaves here regularly every the "regulators" to apply to an incubator Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings that he was manufacturing, with the promise at 11 o'clock, returning the next day followthat if it worked he would purchase more. In the U. S. Circuit Court last Monday Judge Deady decided the old case in which the Mr. Silvey Stewart, son-in-law of Senator Government sued Wm. i. Adams, former collector of customs at Portland, for $12,800 lost in transit to San Francisco nearly twenty years ago. The Judge held that Mr. Adams was not officially responsible for the loss of the money, which was stolen from his stateroom, nor were his sureties responsible for his actions while so engaged—a decision which appears to be just.

The executive committee of the Western Union Telegraph Co., at its meeting in San' Francisco last week, subscribed $5000 to the Grant monument, and a resolution was passed that the managers of the company be instructed to receive subscriptions from the pub-lic, and notices to that effect will be displayed in all W.
