High Priced Cigars.

"For 25 cents each," said the proprietor of one of the largest and most fashionable cigar stands on upper Broadway, "you can buy as good a cigar as one wants to smoke. The difference in flavor between that and the one that costs $1 is too slight to be noticed almost. You can't make a great many young men believe that though. I used to have a wealthy young customer, who quarrelled with me once because I didn't keep a cigar that sold for more than 50 cents."

"I told him I would order some for his special benefit. After he had gone I took 50 of the 25 cent cigars, wrapped them carefully in tin foil, and put them in an old box with a tag stating they cost $1 each. The next day he came in and asked me if I had filled his order. I told him that at a great personal inconvenience I had done so, and then I handed him out one of the dollar brand. He took five and never could be induced to smoke any other. "They cost a great deal," he used to say "but the flavor is so fine that they are more than worth it."

"I want a medium strong cigar," said an old gentleman who now entered the store. "Yes, sir," responded the cigar man as he handed a number of small cigars. The old gentleman laid down a quarter and took six cigars. "That isn't the kind of a man who pays a dollar for 25-cent cigars," we said. "No," answered the dealer. "He leaves that sort of folly for his son. He is the father of the rich young man."

A fine bell has been cast and finished by W. T. Garret for the United States government. It will be used as a fog signal on the coast of Puget Sound. It is identical in size with the bell made for Trinity church of this city some years ago, which has heretofore been the largest on the Pacific Coast. The new bell weighs 31,000 pounds and has a clapper of 104 pounds weight. It is claimed that its sound, which is rich and clear in tone, can be distinctly heard at a distance of ten miles. The place where it is to be located is called Point Conception. The clapper will move automatically by the action of the waves. The first bell ever cast in this city was sent to Mazatlan and hung in the tower of the cathedral.—S. F. Chronicle.

David B. Hill, of Elmira, Democratic candidate for Governor of New York, was born in Havanna, Schuyler (then Chemung) county, on August 29, 1844, and was educated at the academy in that town. In 1870 he was elected to the state assembly and 1871 he was re-elected. Hill served one term as alderman in the Elmira common council, and at the expiration of his term in 1882 he was elected mayor of the city. In September of 1882, he was nominated for the position of Lieutenant governor on the Democratic state ticket, and was elected in November. Governor Cleveland's election to the presidency in 1884, raised Mr. Hill to the Governorship. For a number of years Mr Hill was proprietor of the Elmira Gazette. The Governor is a bachelor.

Douglas county now owns a "poor farm," the county court having bought J. Booth's place of 400 acres for $7,000. The Review says: "The cost of maintaining the poor per year is now in the neighborhood of $3,000, and it is thought that it will be reduced to a mere nominal sum." We shall see.

Cure For Piles.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, joints and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, flatulence, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A moisture, like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, after getting warm, is a common attendant. Blind, bleeding and itching piles yield at once to the application of Dr Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the tumors, allaying the intense itching and effecting a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Address the Dr Bosanko Medicine Co., Piqua, Ohio. Sold by Osburn & Co and W. S. Lee, of Junction.

Wheat Must Go Up.

The Mark Lane Express, a dealing English authority, in a recent editorial says: "Farmers hold your wheat—if you can. That is the advice which, for the first time in my life, I venture to give. Since I have been acquainted with farming there has not been a year when the policy of holding wheat was so strikingly desirable as at this season. In view of future supplies current prices are something like an insult to growers. In America there is about the worst crop on record; in south Russia a failure of the crop is reported, in the rest of Europe, including the United Kingdom, the aggregate yield will probably be under the average; and Australia has very little more to send us this year. There is a good crop in India, it is true, but it will not come here freely at current prices. Whence then shall we get the 16,000,000 or 17,000,000 quarters we will probably require to import? We receive wheat in small quantities from so many sources that there is no fear of scarcity, but we shall certainly have to give a higher price than we are now offering before the end of the cereal year just begun, in order to supply the population with bread. If farmers do not flood the market with the new home crop, a rise will probably take place soon; but if they follow their usual practices it may be deferred until foreigners will get nearly all the benefits of it. Let English farmers keep in mind the fact that circumstances bearing upon the wheat supply are very peculiar this year, justifying a peculiar policy among growers. As a rule it does not pay to hold wheat; but this year I am convinced it will pay."

What a sermon there is in that brief cable dispatch of Tuesday which tells the American public that according to the "statistics just gathered," the population of Ireland is "under five millions!" This is not an official census, it is true, but it is the result of careful inquiry. The return is otherwise probable, for the census of 1881 (four and a half years ago) gave but 5,174,836, toward which figures the numbers of the Irish people had been receding for nearly forty years. The census of 1841 showed a population of 8,175,124 on the island, but each decennial census since then has brought a decrease, until in 1881 there was a loss of three millions out of the eight millions of 1841. In point of numbers the country has been thrown back a hundred years, for the census of 1801 amounted to 5,365,355! There is no glory for Great Britain in that exhibit.—Astorian.

Oregon claims a part of the glory of the good yacht Puritan's victory in the international race for the queens cup. An important part of the Puritan is from Oregon, which fact is explained by the following paragraph from the Boston Herald of September 8th: "The masts and spars were made by Pidgeon of East Boston, and are of the best Oregon pine. The mast is 78 feet long, 1 foot six inches in diameter; top mast, 46 feet long, 1 1/2 inches in diameter; boom, 76 feet long, 14 inches in diameter; gaff, 47 feet long, oval shape, 8x10 inches, bowsprit, 38 feet outboard, 16 inches in diameter.

There is gold as well as silver in the New England hills. An old miner, who was one of the first to go into the Black hills country, pronounces the "prospects" in a certain section of Vermont, not 100 miles from Ludlow, to be superior to those that started the famous boom some years ago for Deadwood and the country round about. It is certain that there is a vast amount of wealth yet untouched in the mountain country to the east and north.—Boston Globe.

St. John declares that "the Republican party will never succeed again. An organization that hang and burn in effigy an opposing candidate, to influence opinion, does not deserve success in an enlightened country." There is no denying that Mr St. John tells nothing but the frozen truth.

On the 15th instant the Postoffice Department advertised proposal for carrying mails from July 1, 1886, to June 30, 1890, in several states including California and Oregon.

The State Fair.

The Willamette Farmer, a staunch friend of agricultural societies, has this to say of the State Fair just closed: "So far as the fair is concerned, it seems to rank about with the recent efforts of the society. Stock of all kinds is there in numbers and of excellent breed. The display of all domestic animals is most creditable. The pavilion is barren of products and the thousand articles of handiwork that should appear there. There are various opinions about the success of the fair, its management, etc., but upon one point all agree. The agricultural show was meager, but the raons were fine. Of course there are some of all these things, but not nearly enough to make a creditable display. All the buildings devoted to machinery and manufactures are empty. No Portland implement house makes a display. Take the fair as a representation of our state's agricultural product, and it is lacking; as to mechanical work of home manufactures, it is almost destitute. There were horses and races, and we heard parties talking of swindling games practiced under the society's license. There has been failure somewhere to make the fair what it ought to be."

The Governor, the Secretary of State and the State Treasurer were by act of the last Legislative assembly created a board to compute and levy the amount of state tax necessary to pay the expenses of the state government for the ensuing two years. Considerable inquiry has arisen as to what the levy will be. Owing, however, to the conditions imposed the board will be unable to determine the amount until they have received from all the counties abstracts of their respective rolls for 1885, and thus enable them to ascertain just the amount of taxable property in the State. Upon their receipt the board will act without unnecessary delay. As yet but one assessment roll has been received, that being from Columbia county. Appearances would indicate a falling off in the amounts as returned by the counties and compared with those of 1884.

A Washington special to the San Francisco Bulletin under date of September 23d says: The President has determined to remove E. J. Dawne, appointed some two or three months since as United States Judge for Alaska. This is the appointment out of which grew the caustic letter of the President to one of the indormers of Mr. Dawne, who after recommending him found fault with the appointment. The President has received several letters from Oregon, from which state Dawne was appointed, representing strongly that he is unfit for the place, and he is still very indignant at the manner in which he was imposed upon by those who asked for the appointment, and it is quite safe to say that not one of them will ever obtain a favor from the administration.

The consumption of liquor in this country is officially reported by the authorities at Washington as amounting to 69,156,903 gallons of spirits, 19,189,953 barrels of fermented liquor and 20,508,345 gallons of wine. Estimating the population at about 58,000,000 the average consumption appears to be about 1.2 gallons of whiskey for each person yearly, over 10.25 gallons of beer and .35 of a gallon of wine. The quantity of beer consumed appears to be about 505,000,000 gallons. In other words, the people of this favored land drink about two gallons of liquor for every bushel of wheat that they consume.

Three hundred and fifty-eight criminals who have escaped from Georgia in the course of the last thirteen years are "wanted" in that State. The rewards offered for them aggregate $100,000.

Grecian mythology tells us that the inventor of the saw once found the jawbone of a snake and used it to cut through a piece of wood, then imitated it by jugging an iron plate, and thus made a saw.
