How to Destroy the Bible.

First get rid of all the copies in all the languages—there are 150,000,000 copies, say, of the Old and New Testaments in one book and portions of the book—you must have all these piled together into a pyramidal mass and reduced to ashes before you can say you have destroyed the Bible. Then go to the libraries of the world, and when you have selected there every book that contains a reference to the Old and New Testaments, you must eliminate from every book all such passages; and until you have so treated every book of poetry and prose, exciting all ideas of grandeur and purity and tenderness and beauty for the knowledge and power of which the poets and prose writers were indebted to the Bible—until you have taken all these from between the bindings and turned them into ashes, leaving the emasculated fragments behind—not until then have you destroyed the Bible! Have you done it then? Once more. Go to the courts of law, and having sought out the parables and codes, you must master every principle of law and study what it may have derived from the Old and New Testaments, and have all such passages removed from the code of jurisprudence. You must then go through the galleries of art throughout the world, and you must slash and daub over and obliterate the genius of the artist has produced—not until then have you destroyed the Bible. Have you done it then? What then? You must visit every conservatory of music, and not until the world shall stand voiceless as to its masters, not until then have you destroyed the Bible. Then you must visit the baptisteries of the churches, and from the baptismal roll you must erase all Christian names—the names of John and Mary—for they suggest the Scriptures, and the register is stamped with the Bible. Have you done it then? No, there is one copy of the Bible still living. It is the cemetery of the Christian. The cemeteries, while they exist, are Bibles, and to suppress the book, to let no trace of it be discovered, you must pass from gravestone to gravestone and with a mallet and chisel cut out every name that is biblical and every inspiring passage of Scripture graven thereon. To destroy the Bible you must blot from the memory of every Christian its promises and comforts. Not until you have done all this can you destroy the Bible.—Dr Guard.

An Apt Illustration.

Henry George in his book "Protection or Free Trade," illustrates the protectionist idea in this fashion: "Imagine a village of, say, a hundred voters. Imagine two of these villagers making such a proposition as this: 'We are desirous, fellow-citizens, of seeing you more prosperous, and to this end propose this plan: Give us the privilege of collecting a tax of five cents a day from every one in the village. No one will feel the tax much, for even man with a wife and eight children it will only come to the paltry sum of five cents a day. Yet this slight tax will give our villagers two rich citizens, who can afford to spend money. We will at once begin to live in commensurate style. We will enlarge our houses and improve our grounds, set up carriages, hire servants, give parties, and buy much more freely at the stores. This will make trade brisk and cause a greater demand for labor. This, in turn, will create a demand for agricultural productions, which will enable the neighboring farmers to make a greater demand for store goods and the labor of mechanics. Thus shall we all become prosperous.'"

George Washington was the father of his country, but his brother Samuel seems to have done his best to deserve a similar title. He died at the age of 46, having been married five times, and leaving behind him a numerous progeny, from whom most of the Washingtons now living are descended.

There is a woman in a circus in Paris who jumps from one horse to another while the horses are going around the ring in opposite directions.

Silver Declining.

A dispatch from Butte, Montana, under date of Aug 3, says: Grave alarm exists throughout the mining districts of Montana over the decline of silver. The Inter Mountain estimates that 50,000 people in the Territory are dependent on the mining industry and cognate enterprises, including merchants, farmers and mechanics. The recent depreciation of ten cents per ounce in silver represents the profits of mining companies, which will have to close down unless a reaction occurs. Lead and copper mines in which silver is an important by-product are also seriously crippled. The Glendale works, employing 1000 men, will shut down on the 15th. The Alice, Moulton, Lexington and Wykes works, and many other great enterprises which for years have paid heavy dividends and employ thousands of men, cannot run if the present depression in the silver market continues. Great paralysis of business will result unless a change speedily occurs.

Butte is a substantial city of 22,000 people, entirely dependent upon mining, 5000 miners being employed. The copper smelters will continue in operation, but with decreased profits. The silver mills of Montana represent an investment of $200,000, and mining machinery as much more. The silver product of the Territory the current year, estimated at $12,000,000, will be suddenly cut short, and fully 12,000 miners will be thrown out of employment. The people are still brave and hopeful, but indignant at the action of Congress and the administration.

Reports of other mineral States and Territories to the Inter Mountain are to the same effect, and directly affect the personal interests of a million western people.

A Frightful Accident.

Mr A J Goodrich, messenger for the Transfer company, informs this paper that a sickening accident occurred yesterday at Borthwick & Paine's mill, between the Cascade locks and Wood river, on the Washington Territory side. At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon Adam Kennedy and Jacob Shuttle were sent down the road to repair one of the flumes. There are two flumes running side by side, one for the transportation of slabs and the other for timber; both are three quarters of a mile long, and as an evidence of the propelling power of the water it is only necessary to say that it requires timber twenty seconds to reach its destination from the starting point.

These men were repairing the timber flume, when one or more of the slabs leaped over, completely knocking out the breast of one of the men and literally cutting off the head of the other. Of course their death was an instantaneous one. Adam Kennedy was a native of Nova Scotia, 35 years of age, and has a wife living here. Nothing is known of Jacob Shuttle.—Telegram, Aug 7.

Down south boycotting is being set down upon quite emphatically. The United States marshal of Virginia has served a notice on the officers of the Richmond typographical union and the editor of the Labor Herald prohibiting them from publishing in that paper or elsewhere the names of persons who are patrons of a boycotted firm in that city which employs non union printers. Judge Bond of the United States court issued an order in Baltimore, which order prohibits the persons enjoined from causing or inducing publicly or privately others to boycott the firm. The Labor Herald is virtually suppressed for one edition, having matter now printed which would render the paper liable under the injunction. The order is the most far reaching one ever issued in the direction of preventing boycotting.

At a recent meeting of Texas editors the proprietor of a brewery sent a written invitation to them to come over and inspect his establishment. Ten seconds after it was read a light dust might have been seen settling down on the empty chairs in the hall—if there had been anybody there to see it.

She Wanted a Patent.

Once when Grant was President there came to the White House a letter addressed to the President in person. It was from a woman in Kansas, who said she had read in the papers that Mr Grant before he went into the army was poor, and that, though he had won fame and was then President, she did not doubt that he was poor yet. She had a scheme to make him rich. She had invented a corn sheller—a machine that not only shelled the corn and separated it from the cob, but by the reversal of a wheel at will it would grind corn and cob together, and so furnish a fine food for stock. The lady inclosed some roughly drawn plans and asked if "Mr Grant" would not get her a patent and accept a half interest in the invention to compensate him for his trouble. But she added: "Mr Grant," I must ask you not to say any thing about this to my husband, for he is very jealous, and it might get us both into trouble. "Mr Grant" did not "say anything" to the husband, but he did, good-naturedly, send the letter and its inclosures over to the Patent Office to see if the innocent woman might not in some way be benefited. It turned out that the idea of a corn sheller was original, and, with some modifications and after further correspondence through the Patent Office—this time with the lady's husband, who did not prove to be a bit jealous—a patent was granted. "Rufus" Ingalls got hold of this story, and whenever he and Grant were together in a suitable crowd Rufus would get it off with great gusto. Rufus would add (when he dared), "The President and I used to shell 'corn' together up in Oregon and Washington Territory, but we didn't use any such invention. Our cylinder was made of glass, and we got away with a good many bushels."

On last Sunday evening, at Panaca, Nev., at about half past 9 o'clock, Elias Hunt was struck by lightning. He was engaged in washing his hands in a basin of water that rested on the stove, when the lightning came down the stovepipe, hitting Hunt on the shoulder, and running down his arms and side, entering the floor and tearing up the planks. Hunt was paralyzed for a day, but is now much better. Hunt is now probably happy in the thought that lightning never strikes in the same place but once.—Ploche, Nev., Record.
