SEVERAL VILLAGES INUNDATED.

South Visited by Destructive Floods—Two Hundred Lives Lost.

NEW ORLEANS.—Details of the destruction by storm at Sabine Pass and Bayou come in slowly, and yet indefinite, though they all agree that there has been great loss of life and property. Two brothers, Pomeroy and Pomeroy, were picked up by the schooner Andrew Baden in Sabine Pass. They had been in the water for six hours, clinging to their caps and yaws. Their mother and sister, Mrs. Capt. Junker, her son and daughter, of the party, were lost. The Pomeroy report that fifty lives were lost at the Porter house, where the people had collected as the best place of safety. Many persons are missing. All greater loss is reported from Johnson's Bayou. Whole families were swept away, and not a house was standing within five miles of the bay.

A special from the Mississippi quarantine station says: "One of the most terrible and damaging hurricanes since 1880 prevailed in this neighborhood yesterday and last night. For thirty consecutive hours the wind blew a regular hurricane from the northeast, driving the waters from the bay and destroying the property of the unfortunate inhabitants of this place, who hurriedly become reconciled to their fate. No orange crop this year, and by the heavy frost of last year, the later trouble, however, would have been surmounted had it not been for the disastrous storm, which leaves the majority of the most industrious and surviving people almost penniless. The storm, or more properly called cyclone, was in such violence as to blow away leaves of seven years' standing, and carrying destruction to late plantings. Last night all the inhabitants of this place waded a distance of five miles in water three feet deep, to the United States custom house, for refuge. Dr. Abey, quarantine physician, and his family were driven from their home and forced to seek refuge in the custom house." "The number of lives lost is estimated at fully 200."

A Destructive Gale. N. Y.—A terrific gale, accompanied by rain, set in here this morning, and continues with increased violence. At midnight the wind is blowing at five miles per hour. The island, inhabited by squatters, is flooded and waters pour in huge waves over it. Twenty-nine houses have been totally destroyed, and over 100 persons are homeless. People are losing their household effects to the water. Officers were sent to the island, and the family of Charles Lambert, who was saved, but his wife and daughter were drowned. Several persons were reported missing. The placement of houses on Canal street flooded, the inmates taking refuge in upper floors. The roof of the Western Transportation house was blown off, causing a blockade on the Kawanna track. Michigan and Ohio streets are completely flooded. All lumber yards on the island are wrecked. The damage to shipping is very great. Barges are being over Evans' dock, and a number are reported smashed. This evening the rear wall of the new Music hall went down with a crash. No one was injured.

A Race Tragedy. BERHAM, N. C.—A lamentable affair between students of the North Carolina State University and negroes took place in Chapel hill. It resulted in the death of one student and the wounding of two others. For some time a bitter feeling has existed between the students, especially the students killed, Jacob A. Freeze, and one who is supposed to have shot at him, and from time to time they had quarreled. Two students who had spent the evening in the house while passing Barber's house were killed and stoned by some of the negroes. The young men hastened to the University, and, rousing up the students and four others, easily induced them to give assistance in seeking revenge. On reaching the house they tried to force their way in, at the same time calling on the negroes to come out and give them satisfaction. The reply was a volley from a second-story window. The fire was returned by the students, but so far as learned, none of the negroes were injured. Freeze was instantly killed, a bullet passing through his heart, and two students were wounded. Seven negroes have been arrested, and fears are expressed that they will be lynched by the students.

Wedding of Midgots. NEW YORK.—A wedding occurred on the stage of a museum in the Bowery last evening. The bride was Miss Lucy, 19 years old, twenty-two inches in height and twenty-two pounds in weight. The groom was Gen. Rheinbeck, who weighs 150 pounds, is thirty-six inches in height and 21 years of age. The pair were seated on a small table in the center of the stage the bride wore a train of white silk, with lace front. The bridesmaid was Miss Annie Bell, a stout fat woman.

Charles Budd, employed in the New York & Rio Grande yard at Granite, was attempting to jump a moving freight train full under the wheels, which passed over his neck, arm and legs, severing them completely. He was the son of the agent at that place.

Kanaka Jack, who has been a Jefferson county (W. T.) charge for over 13 years, costing the county nearly $5000 to support, has been sent back to the Sandwich Islands.

A boy named Hollbrook accidentally shot the top of his head off at his father's ranch on White Bird, near Grangeville, Idaho, while climbing a fence with a loaded shotgun.

H. C. Allen of Healdsburg, Cal., was carrying a crosscut saw one day recently. He stumbled and fell in such a manner that an artery in his hand was severed, and he nearly bled to death.

The skeleton of a man with this address, "A. J. Soule, residence, 1156 Post street," was found in an unoccupied sheep camp near Huron, Cal. The supposed cause of death was heat and thirst.

At Colfax, W. T., a dispute arose between Cash Cole, a prominent sporting man and pugilist of Palouse City, and Bill Lennan, which resulted in three shots being fired into the body of Cole. Lennan acted in self-defense.

Recently a farmer on the Malad river, Idaho, named James Burnett, left three of his children, the eldest aged 12 years, to guard a vegetable patch against rabbits, when the children were attacked by coyotes and the two youngest were killed.

On the Cascade division, nineteen miles of track has been laid beyond Ellensburg, and one or two miles on the other side of the tunnel. Of the remainder of the division, about sixty miles have been graded, leaving fifteen and a half to complete it.

The complete catch of codfish by the fleet from San Francisco this year amounts to 1,232,000 fish, averaging about three pounds each, or an aggregate of 1847 tons. This is the smallest catch for five years. There were caught among the Choumagin islands 566,000, Behring sea 239,000 and Ochotsk sea 427,000.

In Washington Territory, under the gross earnings law, the total receipts from railroads in 1884 were $48,954.78. In 1885 they were $50,377.10; or a total in the two years of $99,332.88. The cost of collecting was about one-tenth of one per cent. One-third of the amount went to the Territory, and the rest to the several counties traversed by railroads, according to the mileage.

George Bailey was guarding a corral full of sheep one night recently, near Cloverdale, Cal., when no less than seven lions rushed out of the brush and made a simultaneous attack on the frightened animals. Bailey had a Winchester rifle, and he at once commenced pumping lead, with the result that he killed two lions, mortally wounded another, and the rest ran away.

An incendiary fire destroyed 200,000 cords of wood and one mile of William's flume, between Anaconda and Silver Bow junction, Idaho. The water had been turned off, and the flume and wood being dry, burned fiercely. The loss is fully $75,000. The wood was for the Colorado smelter, to which the loss is a great embarrassment. There has been bad blood over the right of way since the flume was built, about a year ago, and one man was killed over the affair.

According to the report of the governor of Montana, that Territory is suffering greatly from drouth. He estimates the population at 120,000, a gain of 10,000 since last year. The cattle of the Territory are worth $50,000,000 and number 1,500,000; horses 130,000 head, and sheep 2,000,000 head. The products of the mines for the year are thus estimated: Gold, $3,450,000; silver, $9,600,000; copper, $8,000,000; lead, $1,250,000; total, $22,300,000.

Derose, Connolly and Maxwell, three tramps, were convicted at Lytton, B. C., of the murder of a Nova Scotian named Dielman and sentenced to be hanged on the 24th of November. The murder was peculiarly atrocious, Dielman having about $7.50, which the others wished to possess themselves of.

Failures in Washington Territory for quarter ending September 30th last, 12, representing liabilities of $44,272, and assets of $23,500. Same quarter last year, 31, with liabilities of $140,624 and assets of $112,000. Oregon failures same quarter, 1886, 30 liabilities $204,933, assets $69,700; same quarter 1885, 32 failures, liabilities $109,499, assets $65,130.

Henry Miller, working in the Gorilla mine at Grundy, Mono county, Cal., was instantly killed recently. It is the custom of the men employed at the mine to ride up on the tramway until they arrive at a certain station, when they get off. It seems that Miller failed to alight at the proper time, and his face and chin caught on the upper edge of the chute, nearly tearing the head from the body.

Earl Cross, a bell boy, and Lu Livingston, a pantry boy of the McQueen house of Miles City, Montana, appropriated a quantity of valuables consisting of clothing, shotguns, rifles and revolvers worth about $200, belonging to the guests of the hotel and ran away with them. They also stole a skiff belonging to the ferryman and started down the Yellowstone river.

Their boat was found near the river bank full of water, a whole knocked in the bottom and some of the missing articles in it. It is thought the two boys were drowned, as the Yellowstone is a very treacherous stream, and the boys were totally unacquainted with it. Both were under 18 years of age.

Laura Virgil, who lately obtained a divorce from Harry Mainhall, the actor, encountered the latter in front of the Alcazar theater at San Francisco, and drawing a small horsehair laid it with great vigor upon his head and shoulders. A scuffle ensued between the couple for possession of the whip, and friends coming to Mainhall's aid the scene was ended. Mrs. Virgil, Mainhall's former mother-in-law, who accompanied her daughter, resumed the attack and delivered a couple of blows with a heavy parasol upon the actor's head. The women then departed. The cause of the attack is attributed to an alleged insulting note sent by Mainhall to Miss Virgil.

A remarkable instance of presence of mind and intrepidity occurred on a local train from San Francisco to Berkeley. The train from Berkeley happened to miss a switch at Shell Mound, where it passes the train from San Francisco, and the two trains sped directly toward each other. The engineer of the train from San Francisco saw that a collision was inevitable, and in order to protect the passengers from injury he ordered down brakes, disconnected his engine from the train and shot the engine away in advance of the cars, so as to receive the force of the shock on it. The engineer of the Berkeley train, in the meantime, did all he could to check his engine, and succeeded in so reducing the speed that when the collision came it was comparatively slight, and did but a few hundred dollars' worth of damage. Many of the passengers were considerably frightened, but no one was hurt.

Willie Brough, 12 years old, who created an excitement among superstitious people near Turlock, Cal., by apparently setting fire to all objects by his glance, and who is held responsible for the destruction of $3000 worth of farm property, has been expelled from a Madison county school, near Turlock, on account of his wonderful freaks. The Brough family refused to have anything to do with him, believing him possessed of a devil. The boy was taken in by a farmer and sent to school. On the first day there were five fires in the school; one in the center of the ceiling, one in the teacher's desk, one in the teacher's wardrobe, and two on the wall. The boy discovered all, and cried from fright. The trustees met and expelled him that night. One Turlock insurance agent has given notice that he will cancel all policies on property occupied by the boy. The neighborhood of Turlock is in a furor of excitement about the mystery.

It is now stated that Capt. James B. Eads, whose jetties at the delta of the Mississippi have rendered him a man of mark and fame throughout the civilized world, is shortly to visit Oregon. It is not the deepening of the water on the Columbia river bar that brings him here but the examination of The Dalles, with a view to constructing a steamboat railway about those formidable obstructions to inland navigation.

SPANISH VENDETTAS.

A Striking Instance of the Intensity of Family Quarrels in Spain.

About a year ago a gipsy named Moralis was assassinated at Zorza, in the province of Caceres, by one of his comrades named Silra. The latter was in due course tried and condemned to death, but his execution did not satisfy the vengeance of the victim's family. There had been ill-feeling between the two families for three years, but there had been no open quarrel until the murder of Moralis. Soon after the execution of the murderer, which took place last month, the two families met on their return from a fair near the town of Caceres. They had their mules and cattle with them. There were about fifty on each side, including women and children. A regular pitched battle ensued, revolvers, knives, and sticks being freely used by the men, while the women employed their nails with considerable effect, and the children threw stones indiscriminately. The result of the struggle was that the heads of the two families were both killed, two of the women, and several of the children. There were ten or twelve wounded, and the bodies of the dead were horribly mutilated. If the mounted police had not interrupted the fight, there would have been many more lives lost. Several of the mules were killed, and the baggage of the two families was strewn about in such disorder that the road for nearly half a mile looked as if a large army had beaten a retreat along it.—Madrid Letter.

—Is the age of chivalry past?" asked a contemporary. Oh, no. Only last week a young man in town married a red-headed girl with a wart on her chin.—Norristown Herald.

—Brown—I never see Mrs. Snooks now. I used to be sweet on her, but she was quite uneducated—had not even learned the rudiments of grammar. Smith—Haden't she though? I hear she knew enough to decline an ass. though.—Judge.
