Massachusetts a Future Democratic State.

Patrick A. Collins, the eloquent orator and sound Democratic statesman was recently interviewed about the condition of political affairs in Massachusetts. Under certain conditions there is but little doubt that Massachusetts will cast her electoral votes in 1888 for the Democratic nominee for President. The drift is all that way. The report of the interview is as follows: Representative Collins, of Boston, is in Washington looking after some business before the departments. He intended to give up Congress after the 4th of next March so as to be able to devote his time to his law practice, but he was practically forced to run again, owing to the fact that the Democrats in his district could not agree upon his successor. In talking about the election in Massachusetts Mr. Collins said: "The Mugwump of Massachusetts has become a Democrat because he is satisfied with the management of the Democratic party in the State. There were a few local influences at work here and there, but the campaign was fought on the tariff and not at all on the policy and record of the Administration. It is a great tariff reform victory, and the Democratic gains do not half express the desire for tariff reform which exists in Massachusetts. Some of the Republican majorities were narrow, and in many instances, men who at least want to have the tariff altered to suit the altered condition of the country and the people voted the Republican ticket through force of habit, and because they had never voted anything else. But the force of habit will weaken. Massachusetts is marching steadily toward the goal of Democracy, and a wiser and a better tariff. In 1868 the State gave Grant a Republican majority of 77,000. That has been steadily decreased until at the election just held it has fallen as low as 9,000. It would be a great thing to expect Massachusetts to go Democratic in the Presidential election two years hence, but it would not surprise me and I have a strong hope that it will."

How much faith can be put in the prediction of the monopoly tariff advocates, may be judged from the ruinous results, they predicted when the duty was reduced on wool. From that date until to-day the price of wool has steadily advanced. If any tariff man knows why wool sold for less than the duty on it when we had a higher duty on it than now, he should speak. The floor is "hisn!"

John H. Mitchell, we are pleased to say, states that he is truly wedded to the Republican party, and that he never committed political bigamy with the Democratic party. He said that the Mormons of Nevada voted the Republican ticket to the last man on the 2d inst, and the knowing ones, think this is what causes Mitchell's sojourn in the high moral pinfold. Elective affinities, you see.

In the election for Representative held in Multnomah county last Tuesday, David Goodsell, Rep., was elected, receiving 1418 votes against 470 for J. J. Kelley, Labor candidate. Kelly would have been elected if he had not repudiated the Democracy at the last minute. The Democrats either failed to vote or voted for Goodsell.

A colored Republican candidate for a local office in St. Louis ran 4,000 votes behind his ticket. While the go. o. p. shows a tender solicitude for the interest of the colored man, they never forget to scratch the aforesaid c. w.'s name off their ticket. Why is it!

We shipped abroad 6,490,370 bushels wheat in October, as compared with 3,878,016 for the corresponding months in 1885. Where is the home market the Republican party has built up by over a quarter of a century of protection!

In South Carolina colored teachers are paid $24.48 per month, while white teachers in Maine get $16.22 per month. This statement has no real significance if you don't want to see it that way.

The Democratic press of New York is after the World with a sharp stick. Mr. Pulitzer will need the cheek of a brass foundry to much longer keep up his pretence of publishing a Democrat sheet.—S. F. Alta.

The Railway Age announces that the new mileage of railroads completed in the United States this year will exceed 7,000 miles.

One third of the entire taxes of Alabama is devoted to sustaining the public schools. That is a creditable showing.

Atlantic steamers carried 280,000 immigrants last year and their fare amounted to $6,000,000.

When the Legislature met in 1885 there was $500,000 in the State treasury. This surplus was brought there by high taxes, and not in the least by an economical State Administration. Hon. L. Bilyeu, a Democratic representative from this county introduced a bill under which the expenses of the state could be exactly estimated and the state levy made therefrom. The estimate of the present Board of tax commissioners is that only about half as much money will be required next year as was this year, and the tax levy for next year is consequently much lower, for the reason that under the law as drafted by Mr. Bilyeu, the people or this state cannot be taxed to bring a half million dollars surplus in the State treasury. The Salem organs of the Moody Administration who are advertising the economy of his rule should explain why or how it is he expended a tax of from five to eight mills in the years of their administration, when they estimate the expenses of a Democratic administration at 2 1-2 to 3 mills. The truth is it takes more money to run the State, than ever before, and there have been no reforms in the executive departments of the State, and the practical reforms in the State Legislature have been accomplished by Democrats like Mr. Bilyeu. We can say with truth that the antic performances and disgraceful quarrels and rowdiness of the Republican majority in the two last Legislatures were disgraceful in the last extreme. Bills were conveniently torn, mutilated and lost, and the sessions on the part of the majority was one long jangle and keen pursuit of spoils and emphatic reassertion of rancorous Know-nothingism. The man who believes in the last Republican Legislatures in the Moody Administration, the Fish Ladder, etc, and who thinks that the State expenses have been diminished one-half in one year's time, under any rule or in any state, is a fool positive, hopeless and beyond cure.

In the West the Democratic firmament is spanned by a big Democratic rainbow. At least three Republican States have broken ranks and included Democrats in their delegations to Congress. And what Minnesota, Nebraska and Iowa have done other Republican States will do after a while. The indications are brilliant and assuring of a grand Democratic sweep in the next national canvass. The party of the Constitution, of personal liberty and personal rights has taken on new and a new destiny.—Examiner.

The salary of the Superintendent of public instruction of the State is equal to that of the Governor, with the addition of $500 for traveling expenses. It is not that this salary is too high that it calls out comment, but the comparison shows the salary of the Governor to be a beggarly one, and as a consequence the office is one which no man of moderate means, no matter how capable in judgment or well equipped in common sense and general knowledge, can afford to accept.—Telegram.

A rumor prevails in railroad circles that a party of surveyors have been sent out to survey a line for a railroad along the Columbia river from the Canadian Pacific into Portland. If a practical route is discovered work will be commenced at an early date. It is stated that Mackay is behind this enterprise.

The bulk of the Chinese export of tea now comes to San Francisco instead of being sent by the Suez canal as formerly. Twenty million five hundred and twenty-five thousand two hundred and eighty pounds of tea have been received on the Pacific coast so far, while the canal has carried only 7,592,040 pounds.

The canvass of the full official vote of San Francisco was compiled last Tuesday. The vote on Governor is: Bartlett, 17,449; Swift, 15,675; Bartlett's plurality in San Francisco, 1774; Swift's plurality outside of the city, 1147; Bartlett's net plurality in the State, 627.

Mohawk Items. Nov. 25, 1886.

Rain. Deer are more plentiful since the rains. Light fall of snow Saturday and Sunday. A wedding is talked of in the near future. Born, to the wife of A. Montgomery, a son, Mr. J. H. Whitmore and family, of Eugene, have moved back to Mill creek. The recent rains have raised the streams some, much to the delight of the saw mill men. The edger in the Mill creek mill is nearly completed and will be ready for use in a few days. Mr. B. F. Woods intends hauling lumber to Eugene with oxen. He is building a sled and will be ready to haul in a few days. The infant son of W. Matthews was taken ill Monday. Dr. Harris, of Eugene, was called and pronounced the complaint catarrh. Messrs. Redey Scott and Stowell, and two other gentlemen whose names we did not learn, were on Mohawk hunting last week, but failed to capture anything. JACR.
