Says a San Francisco dispatch of Nov 27th; The California & Oregon extension of the Southern Pacific is being pushed forward with the greatest energy. The immense force of men at work there, besides vast quantities of men at work there, enables the railroad to be con structed with great rapidity. On the 5th of next month the road will be opened to Edge-wood a small place about twenty miles from present terminus of the road. The grade of the road from Donamuir to Summit is steep, being seventy five feet to the mile, while on the down grade to Edgewood the fall is 116 feet to the mile. From Edgewood to the base of the Siskiyou mountains the construction of the road will be plain sailing, but on reaching that point it will be very difficult and costly. A force of men were sent up to the Siskiyou of Wednesday last to commence work on the large tunnel that has to be constructed in the

For years they have continually lost horses from off the range, which they were unable to account for, yet key were certain that they were being stolen. The stockmen believed there cessfully operating in this county, driving place of his destination upon the day his father off their horses, pretending to make sales first one to another until the horses were got and that he is only too glad to get back to to market. Currin, it is shown, sold some horses in the Willamette valley, which were atolen from the range here, though which he claims to have bought from strangers traveling through the county, and it is generally believed among the stockmen here that he was one of the members of a gang of thieves, and his part of the transaction was to get the horses to market and dispose of them. At all events, he has been caught in disposing of stolen property, and will in all proba bility be given an opportunity of explaining to the Circuit Court how he come in possession of them.

county, was tried in the U S Circuit Court Wednesday night Felix Currin, the man who is confined in the old coop which we call the county jail, gave Deputy Sheriff Combs considerable trouble. Early in the evening a basser-by heard some noise in the jail as if furrin were trying to break out, and informed Mr Combs who investigated the matter and Mr Combs who investigated the matter and found that the lock of the front door had been tampered with, but Currin was in bed. Later in the night another alarm was given and Mr Combs again found Currin in bed, but very much excited. He said some of his "pals" had come to the jail and tried toget him out, be thought for the purpose of killing him, and beaged Combs to protect him, as he was sure they would kill him if they got him out. Very little credit is attached to Currin's story, but a cupri has been placed over the jail, and he a guard has been placed over the jail, and he who tries to rob it of its occupant is liable to be treated to a dose of buckshut.

The above from a Prineville exchange needs elicited so much comment during the early no comment. It virtually declares that because horses have been stolen from Crook county, Mr Felix Currin shall be punished, and justifies the vinifictiveness of his accusers in arresting him over and over again yeu.
