In Old Buckeye.

SUSLAW, Nov. 27, 1886.
EDITOR GUARD.—The people of the Buckeye State dress well for every day in the way of boots and shoes. I do not think I saw a ragged pair of boots or shoes while I was there, and their clothing was of better material than laboring people generally wear, and on Sunday by their fine clothes you would think that there were no poor people in Ohio; yet when you become acquainted with their circumstances you would find that they were in debt for their finery. Everybody keeps a horse and buggy whether they can afford it or not—that is the young men, and every farmer has his carriage and spring wagon besides his farm wagon, but then they have fine roads, all turpiko or macadamized, which cost a great deal to build, but then they will last a long time and are the cheapest in the end. As to stock, they have as good cattle as the country affords, but if we took as good care and as much pains with our cattle we would beat the Buckeyes—to stable our cattle, curry and brush, feed oil cake, chop, corn and clover pasture, would make our scrub the finest cattle. The same way with their hogs, running on clover pasture and standing to all the corn they can eat twice a day, makes big hogs. I helped to weigh a Poland China boar that tipped the beam at 450 pounds. I also helped to weigh a two-year-old stallion of the Hambletonian stock, that drew down 1379 pounds; in my opinion too much high feed, too soft and luby. They have a great many heavy horses rolling fat, and they are worth from $250 to $300 each. There is a new industry springing up in horse flesh, persons from Texas are bringing in Texian ponies, shabrocks, and selling them for $25 and as high as $40 a piece. These ponies suit the young boys, and in a week's time they have them quite gentle. As for sheep, I did not see but one band; they were merinoes, and very small but well wrinkled. Their chickens were up to the standard. I speak knowingly, for I sampled them three times a day while I was there; also the same praise is extended to their sweet potatoes and yams, corn cakes and mush, maple sugar and molasses. As to wheat, most every farmer seemed to have plenty of it such as it was—about like ours during the rust year. It is all second and third grade; more third grade than any thing else. They have to be very careful in seeding, using the drill altogether, no broadcast seeding being done. Wheat was worth 75 cts. per bushel. Corn in the drouth streak would not make 10 bushels to the acre, but where it was seasonable it would make from 60 to 75 bushels to the acre. I saw but two products from Oregon for sale—salmon and shingles. All the stores and groceries kept salmon, and I was informed there was a large and growing demand for it, while the shingles was a new venture and were selling at $4.60 per thousand. Those who were using them said they did not moss like the pine and spruce sawed shingles. There is an enormous volume of business done in Ohio by the railroads; freight and passenger trains run day and night, and on Sundays, and are always loaded. I also noticed four grades in society: Very rich, rich, poor and very poor; the last two being in the majority. Quite a number are affected with catarrh and asthma, which seems to be the prevailing diseases.

The Codlin Moth.

CHICAGO, December 4.—The News' Springfield (Ill.) special of Dec. 3d says: The State Entomologist, Prof. Forbes, says in a bulletin just issued that elaborate experiments made in apple orchards with arsenical poisons show that an average of at least 70 per cent. of apples now destroyed or injured by the Codlin moth and all other insects may be saved to ripening by one or two sprayings with Paris green made in the early Spring while the fruit is not larger than a hazel nut. Observations and analyses have shown that there is not the slightest danger to the consumer of the fruit from poisoning the tree thus early in the season, when the apples are very small. Experiments show, however, that late poisoning is dangerous, and furthermore is without effect upon the Codlin moth. Paris green was found most effective. Experiments were made under widely varying conditions during two successive years and on several varieties of fruit. It is estimated that the general use of the spraying method will effect a saving to the State in the increased value of the apple crop of $1,500,000 annually.

The most beautiful sight, especially to passengers from the cold and now frozen East, says the Grass Valley (Cal.) Tidings, can be seen at Rocklin, Placer county. In the garden belonging to Dina Perkins, and which is close by the railroad platform, are four orange trees now loaded down with ripe fruit. The four trees have on them about 2,000 oranges. When Easterners get to Rocklin they are sure to get close to those orange trees and then they ask a thousand or so questions. The first thing they want to know is if the oranges really grow on those trees or are they only tied on for a show.

The Blaine-Edmunds incident has recalled the following to the well stored mind of Ben. Parley Poore: "Frank Pierce, when President, was so provoked one day by allusions to him in a speech made in the Senate by John F. Hale of New Hampshire, that when the Senator and his wife presented themselves at a reception that night at the White House, President Pierce cordially shook hands with Mrs. Hale, but took no notice of the Senator's outstretched hand, and turning squarely on his heel gave the cut direct."

If Waldemar be disappointed about the Bulgarian business and wants excitement and danger, let him come to America and umpire a baseball game.

Marple, in jail at Lafayette charged with the murder of Corker at that place, became so abusive to the Sheriff recently, that that official decorated his leg with a sixteen pound shackle and locked him in his cell, where he will remain day and night. The conviction of his guilt has grown upon the people there until it amounts to almost a certainty in many minds. It is thought that Marple will soon make a confession, as he has lost the bravado he assumed at first, and now thinks his days are numbered.

Little Jack Horner sat in the corner eating concentrated lye; his mother came in—he had emptied the tin; they will meet in the sweet by and by. He lived at Wheeling, W. Va., and was two years old.
