Beecher on the Parsons.

Henry Ward Beecher amused Mr. Lincoln by telling him the following story about an old school orthodox divine who while attending to his usual Sabbath ministrations managed to discover who of his congregation were absent, his first duty on Monday morninf being to call on the absentees and to find out why they were not at church. Among those whose places were often vacant was one man who cared little for the sanctity of the holy day or the reproof of the minister. On taking his usual Monday morning rounds, Dr. P.—— was sure to visit Mr. C.——, as we will call him. Said the good man: "Why were you not at church yesterday?"

"Mr. C—," said the clergyman, solemnly, "there will be no preaching in hell."
"Well, it won't be for want of ministers," was the quick rejoinder.

We also feel ourselves under many obligations to Messrs Chrisman and Stouffer for aid in our behalf.

Recently the Spokane Falls Review gave utterance to ideas we like to copy, substituting the name to make it apply here. When a citizen of Eugene desires some article that he cannot buy of our home merchants at a fair price it is right and proper he should go elsewhere to purchase, but the man who will go or send to a foreign city to do his trading when he can get the same quality of goods at the same price of his home merchant, is doing that which will not benefit himself and which does his home community a positive injury. Every man has a legal himself and which does his home community a positive injury. Every man has a legal right to purchase where he pleases; but a public spirited citizen will patronize home enterprise first and go abroad if he must. Such things are wrong—not commercially wrong, but wrong to the enterprising, industrious home merchant who is prepared to give you good bargains. The spring trade is opening, our merchants are ready to sell. If they prosper our city will. If the city prospers it furnishes a ready market for our farmers and they prosper. Prosperity is the ultimate object of legitimate enterprises and industries. Trade with your home merchants and see if it won't pay.

Sheriff Harris of Yamhill county says that Marple, for whose execution on the 2d of June he holds a warrant, is quite unconcerned about the matter and talks and laughs about it as freely as any disinterested person. He appears to have no realizing sense of his perilous position. He says he expects to hang, and if his time has come he is ready to go. The Hillsboro Independent says a petition for the pardon of Marple is in circulation. It will receive but few signatures in Yamhill county, as the belief in Marple guilt is very general there.

A. Stinit, the real estate man concern-ing whom so much has been said, says now that he has a bonanza, which is a bond for a that he has a bonanza, which is a bond for a deed for the town of Newport, at Yaquina, together with the first and second additions to the town, embracing 980 lots and the Newport water works. The bond is given by J. R. Baily and Samuel Case, and is said by prominent attorneys of this city, in whose handa the bond has been placed, to be genuine. The terms are that before January 1, 1888, $50,000 shall be paid for the property. Stinit has sobered up, and if real estate at Yaquina booms as people over there expect, he may really have a bonanza.—Albany Herald.

H. Y. Thompson, attorney for R. E. Marple, convicted of the murder of David I. Corker, of Lafayette, and under sentence to be hanged on June 2, has filed notice of appeal in the office of the clerk of the circuit court for Yamhill county and the transcript with the clerk of the supreme court, and the papers have been served on Prosecuting Attorney Belt. The case will be argued May 24th. The grounds ou which the appeal is taken are as follows: "First—The indictment does not charge the defendant with any crime. Second—There was no verdict of the jury upon which to base said judgment any sentence. Third—Said judgment and sentence were pronounced by the court without legal power or lawful authority. Fourth—That the death warrant does not conform to the laws relating thereto, or to the judgment of the court in said action against the defendant."
