

THE EUGENE CITY GUARD.

SATURDAY AUGUST 6, 1887.

General Tuttle was not the only Iowa General that "fit into" the year. There was General Corse, who defended Allatoona Pass from 1 o'clock a. m., October 3, 1864, and received General Sherman's famous dispatch on which is based "Hold the Fort, for I am Coming." Corse was wounded by a bullet that plowed his left temple and carried away the outworks of his ear, but with head bandaged and clothing soggy with blood he kept up the fight against hopeless odds. The Confederate commander at last sent in a flag of truce giving Corse five minutes in which to surrender. "To avoid a useless effusion of blood," Corse replied, "We are ready for the effusion whenever it is agreeable to you." In the final charge he turned the Confederate assault and opened the way for Sherman's march to the sea. We may be permitted to observe that General Corse is not a palsey peddler. He is a Democrat, and always has been. -Alia. Gen. Corse is the Democratic postmaster for the city of Boston, Massachusetts.

Thomas Edward Powell, nominated by the Ohio Democrats, in convention, at Cleveland July 21st is forty-three years old. He is of Welsh descent, and was born in Delaware county, Ohio. While a student at the Ohio Wesleyan university in 1864 he enlisted as private in an Ohio regiment, and served four months. Subsequently he graduated, and having studied law with Col. W. Reed, formed a partnership with him. His political career began in 1872, when he was a speaker for Greeley. In 1875 he was nominated for attorney general, and had the distinction of defeat by a smaller majority than Col. Wm. Allen. Contrary to his wishes he was nominated for congress in 1882, and though defeated by Gen. James S. Robinson, he reduced the Republican majority to 400. In 1884 he headed the Democratic electoral ticket, and in 1885 he served as chairman of the Democratic state convention. During the past four years he has had a law office in Columbus.

The three new war cruisers being built by the Government, will be as good vessels of their class as may be found in the world. The new vessel carrying the pneumatic guns which will shatter down 10,000 lbs of dynamite on the deck of an iron-clad, is nearly completed. One of Ericson's torpedo boats which will destroy any vessel afloat, is being constructed, under the supervision of the inventor himself, the most eminent engineer in the world. A new first-class war-ship equaling the best in the English navy will be built next year. The powerful boats built by John Roach, after antique models can then be sent to awe the Kanakas in their Island home which work they may accomplish without much danger to themselves. Those ships represent $400,000,000 spent in sixteen years by Republican administrations.

The National Veterans Association, of Iowa, composed of Union soldiers, who fought in the late war to the number of 10,000 have presented resolutions to the president, condemning the utterances of certain members of the G. A. R. who threatened to insult him at St. Louis, approving his veto of the dependent pension bill, and condemning the efforts of those who seek to kindle the flames of sectional hate, as unmanly and unpatriotic, and meriting the contempt of intelligent men. These are many words, and they come from real soldiers who were done fighting years ago, when the bounty-jumpers and substitutes and three-months men just begun.

The laws which collect the surplus in the treasury are all Republican laws, and no later than last winter the entire Republican vote in the House of Representatives were cast against even considering a change in these measures. Nine out of ten Democrats voted for urgent consideration. The surplus in the United States Treasury is held there by Republican votes in the House and Senate against the opposition of the Administration, and the leading Republican paper of the United States explicitly makes these statements. It is ardent hypocrisy or ignorance which attempts to arraign Democrats for Republican measures.

Secretary Lamar has a peculiar pension case under consideration. A widow has filed a claim for pension arrears allowed but not paid her husband. It is shown by the evidence, which is not disputed, that the woman killed her husband, was for this tried, convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment. The question arises as to whether, under the circumstances, she shall receive a benefit which if not for her murderous act, would have accrued to her husband. The case is puzzling the law officers of the interior department.

The platform ratified by the Ohio Republicans at their convention in Toledo is amusing as to some of its planks. On the liquor question, "the party pledges itself to such further legislation as may be necessary to keep abreast of enlightened public sentiment." That is to say, the party pledges itself not to offend anybody, if it can help it; it pledges itself to do what Mr. Pickwick has very sagely advised us to do, namely, to howl with the largest mob.

Mrs. Blaine, writing from Scotland, says that her husband is enjoying excellent health and has danced several times on the green. She adds that Mr. Blaine has not danced on the green before for several years. The last time that Mr. Blaine danced on the green was, we believe, in 1884, when he came out in his front yard to get the final returns from New York State. -Examiner.

New Orleans Picayune, Dem: The results of the late war has settled facts, rather than principles. The question of secession has been removed from the sphere of politics both because the defenders of that doctrine were defeated in a decisive war, and because they have formally and distinctly renounced it.

Mr. Jefferson Davis has referred with a degree of bitterness to attempts at his assassination. He is also aware that there was a movement to hang him on a sour apple tree? Those were trying times.

About $60,000 was spent to raise the safe of the flagship Cumberland, in the belief that it contained a surplus of coin. At last it was raised and opened and found to have in it just $46.

A white man has been making North Carolina colored men into Free and Accepted Masons for $2000 apiece. At that nominal price he gave them seven passwords and eighteen grips, and they are happy.

Philadelphia American (Rep.): Mr. Cleveland is not a rhetorician. He is "no orator as Brutus is," but as we know him all, "a plain, blunt man, who only speaks right on." And that is what people like.

We understand that in every county in the State the Prohibitionists are determined to make this year such a demonstration of their strength as will induce sincerity and respect in dealing with them. -New York Star.

Gen. Beatty, one of the most prominent Republicans of Ohio is the author of the following eloquent sentence, Blaine being the gentleman referred to in all of them: Keen in his scent of money, not particular as to means of its acquisition and lavish in its expenditure in his own political advancement with an element of meanness so audacious that it does not provide against exposure.

He was Garfield's evil genius, his detractor while living, most eloquent eulogist when dead.

He used the power conferred by a high official position to enforce his private animosities and execute personal vengeance.

His nomination in '88 would simply multiply the mugwumps of New England by ten, these would be reinforced in every Northern State by better Republicans than Blaine ever was.

He cannot carry New York, he couldn't even touch bottom in Indiana, and it is doubtful even if he could carry Ohio.

In short he is a plumed knight who does his fighting with his jaw and employs a substitute to incur the risks of battle.

The people have had enough of him and his spotted record.

Senator Thurman has made a strong speech in favor of popular approval of the Democratic platform and candidates in Ohio, in saying that President Cleveland is sure to be renominated because "He is a man of undoubted honesty and undoubted courage. The American people like a brave man and an honest man and everybody must admit that Mr. Cleveland is both."

Mr. Jas. G. Blaine astonished the world in a speech with the information that Sydney Smith, the celebrated wit, was a Scotchman, and an honor to the land of his birth. As some of the most biting sarcasms on that people were the productions of Sydney Smith, it was plain that Blaine was talking of something he knew nothing about, a habit he has. "Soft sawder" and "taffy" is Blaine's whole stock of trade, and the Scotch are not much impressed with his wisdom.

The national debt showed a decrease of $15,000,000 in June, making $109,000,000 for the fiscal year. These facts are very disappointing to those prophets who foretold that under a Democratic administration the national debt would be repudiated, and the rebel debt would be paid. -Corvallis Gazette, Republican.

Another insult to General Paralyzer Fairchild. The city of Petersburg, Virginia, was recently illuminated in honor of Massachusetts veterans of the late war, who were visiting with them.

"The sweating sickness" has broken out in France, and alarm is caused by discovery that it was anciently a dangerous epidemic. Edward, the Black Prince died of it.

A colored lawyer in New York sadly declares that he finds more race prejudice in the North than in the South.

Kentucky gave the Democratic State ticket 20,000 majority at the election of last Monday.

Besides the crooked cotton transaction, Gen. Tuttle is accused of getting away with a landau. Nice man Tuttle.

John Roach died worth $2,500,000. The navy he built wasn't worth a 30.00.

"THE NEW PARTY." -Henry George has a six-page article in the July number of the North American Review, which begins thus: "The era in American politics which began with the candidacy of Fremont closed with the defeat of Blaine." This is both terse and striking. It is also true. The republican party is dead.
