The Oregon Blood Purifier is Nature's own remedy, and should be used to the exclusion of all other medicines in all diseases of the stomach, liver and kidneys.

The First Sign

Of failing health, whether in the form of Night Sweats and Nervousness, or in a sense of General Weariness and Loss of Appetite, should suggest the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This preparation is most effective for giving tone and strength to the enfeebled system, promoting the digestion and assimilation of food, restoring the nervous forces to their normal condition, and for purifying, enriching, and vitalizing the blood.

Failing Health.

Ten years ago my health began to fail. I was troubled with a distressing Cough, Night Sweats, Weakness, and Nervousness. I tried various remedies prescribed by different physicians, but became so weak that I could not go up stairs without stopping to rest. My friends recommended me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which I did, and I am now as healthy and strong as ever.—Mrs. E. L. Williams, Alexandria, Minn.

I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla in my family, for Scrofula, and know, if it is taken faithfully, that it will thoroughly eradicate this terrible disease. I have also prescribed it as a tonic, as well as an alternative, and must say that I honestly believe it to be the best blood medicine ever compounded.—W. F. Fowler, M. D. D. D. S., Greenville, Tenn.

Dyspepsia Cured.

It would be impossible for me to describe what I suffered from Indigestion and Headache up to the time I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was under the care of various physicians, and tried a great many kinds of medicines, but never obtained more than temporary relief. After taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for a short time, my headache disappeared, and my stomach performed its duties more perfectly. To-day my health is completely restored.—Mary Harley, Springfield, Mass.

I have been greatly benefited by the prompt use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It tones and invigorates the system, regulates the action of the digestive and assimilative organs, and vitalizes the blood. It is, without doubt, the most reliable blood purifier yet discovered.—H. D. Johnson, 383 Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Delays are Dangerous.

You say, well, 'tis only a slight cold, look out, it may lead to an inflammation of the lining of numerous air cells of the Lungs this is Pneumonia. Or to spasmodic contractions of the fibres of the air passages, which is Asthma; or the inflammation of the lining membrane of the throat and tubes which pass through the Lungs, which in the first stage is called Bronchitis, and may lead to consumption. Santa Ale is delicious in flavor, certain and perfect in its result. A few doses will relieve, a thorough treatment cure the above named diseases. Every bottle warranted by all druggists.

Clara Foltz Answered.

I see that Clara Foltz contends that every woman who has a baby should receive a pension. She says it is an awful thing to have a baby. Well perhaps it is. I can't speak by the card, for I never had one yet. I notice, however, that married women who have never had any babies are sensitive on the subject and would willingly trade the best piece of furniture in the house for a real live baby of their own.

I think it "awful" not to have babies. What proud young mother would part with her brand new baby for the highest office in the gift of the U. S. Government? "Not much," would be her indignant reply. I don't think the baby crop needs any encouragement. In the glorious climate of San Diego county the baby crop never fails. It is the only crop we can raise in every section of the county without irrigation.

Our usual output of babies is immense. If congress should enact a law absolutely prohibiting babies, the little cherubs would nevertheless continue to arrive after the good old fashion, and they would shake their chubby fists in defiance at Uncle Sam.

Mrs. Foltz believes that strong-minded women ought to have the right to vote. That proposition fills me with suspicion. They might get some new and popular way of having babies, and try to enforce it by a constitutional amendment that would create a dreadful amount of trouble. A government pension encouraging babies might lead to over-production.

I think too much of babies to ever want to see them a drug in the market.

I don't think that most women want to vote. If they really do, all they have got to do is to go on a strike, and refuse to have any more babies until the tyrant man yields to them the full political rights demanded.

If they would all stick to this position such a clamor would be raised everywhere that Congress would have to pass a law enfranchising women.

I also notice that the ladies who object to having their sex have babies are those who haven't had any babies lately themselves. I think the safest plan would be to let the baby question remain in statu quo. The men might want pensions for the honor of being fathers. Ladies who disapprove of babies need not have any. This is a free country and they are at perfect liberty to spare themselves the inconveniences of maternity.—"Mary Jane" in S. F. Chronicle.

The Potato Bug Abroad.

Herr Conrad Kroner, a gentleman devoted to agriculture and the sciences on the Lower Rhine, has lately succeeded in getting himself into the centre of a galaxy of troubles. Herr Kroner's pet branch of learning was entomology, and, hearing of the famous potato bug, the gentleman wrote last Summer to a friend living near Minneapolis to secure him a few specimens. The friend had no trouble in filling this simple order, the only requisite being that he should go any cool evening into his potato patch and grab at a vine to secure a handful. The samples were shipped to him and, to Herr Kroner's great delight, arrived in excellent condition. To observe their habits to better advantage he placed them on one of his own vines, made copious notes of enormous scientific value upon their methods of chewing up a crop and getting married, and was thus enabled to forward to the scientific society of which he was a shining light a paper which made him the pride and envy of all.

Last spring, however, this happy condition was somewhat reversed. Herr Kroner's neighbors are mostly growers of Kartoffel, and were astonished to see a new and previously unknown ravager at work among the sprouts, in such numbers as to insure their total loss. Specimens were submitted to Herr Kroner and he blandly informed the simple-minded farm folk they were potato bugs. The scientific societies corroborated this diagnosis, and furthermore stated that in their opinion the bugs were of foreign importation. Then a meddlesome lawyer stepped in with the assertion that as Herr Kroner had imported the bugs he might as well foot their bills, and nineteen lawsuits, with damages enough to cover everything Herr Kroner owned, including his salvation were at once begun. Meanwhile the bugs serenely pursued their way among the acres in spite of Paris green and warts of mandamus, and the situation at present would indicate that the German love for American bugs is rapidly becoming rancid. Herr Kroner has fled the country.

A drive through the hop region south of Utica, N. Y., shows the crop to be in a fair condition as far as it goes. The reduction in acreage amounts to fully one-third. Contrary to expectations, the vines have done fairly well and now give indications of about half a crop. Several growers have contracted their yield at 20 cents a pound. The yield will be less than half that of 1885. Prices promise to be 20 cents or better, and some think they will reach 30 or 35 cents. The yield for the state is estimated at 50,000 bales.

A telegram from the hop region of New York states that the yield will be less than half that of 1885. The yield for the state is estimated at 50,000 bales.

Yaquina Correspondence.

YAQUINA CITY, August 3, 1887.

S. Handsaker of Dexter is here taking in the sights. Mr. G. W. Handsaker the popular merchant from Pleasant Hill was here last week and was followed by his mother, Mrs. S. J. Handsaker, and sister, Miss Luella Handsaker, who after spending a few days at this place and Newport returned home well pleased with the country hereabout.

Newport is situated four miles down the Bay and is in full light, and is connected with this place by a regular line of steamboats that ply between the two places. Newport is famous as a watering place, where hundreds of persons come from far and near to enjoy the very excellent surf bathing, to be had here, to feast on fish, clams, rock oysters, etc. etc. While a great many persons stop at the hotels and boarding houses which as might be expected abound here, with the best of accommodations at from $1 to $2 per day. Others, and their name is legion, come prepared to camp out, and if I am permitted to do so, would suggest to all who wish to take a rest of a few weeks from toil and hard labor, that this is the cheapest and most agreeable way to come. Persons who come here to stay for a short time should arrange to leave Albany on either Wednesday or Saturday, as on those days excursion rates are given to all and it is better to take a ticket for the round trip. Again do not come with a lot of baggage, but clothe yourself in good warm clothing for it is so far as I have seen always cool here. For the satisfaction of my friends in Webfoot I will say that after a stay of about ten days I feel like I had improved 999 per cent.

RETBED.

Hops and Hop Picking.

A letter dated Alex Seavey's ranch, on the McKenzie river, near Eugene, in comparing the hop crop in that vicinity this year with last, says that owing to the dry weather it will not be as good this year. The picking season will be later also, thus throwing it into the threatening part of the rainy season, which will cause the hop growers to put in all the pickers practicable to secure the crop. The hop crop is of more importance in the Willamette valley than many would suppose. A fifteen acre yard will distribute a $1000 among pickers—when white—mostly women and children. A dozen families living in a single valley in the foot hills of the coast mountains earned, in Tom and Bill Seavey's yard, last year, $406.50, and this was only a fraction of what they paid for picking, pole-pulling, etc.

The hop yards near Eugene are of great value to the settlers on the new lands and the business does, in this way, a great deal of good. One merchant in Eugene advanced $6000 last year for hop picking. There was probably $30,000 paid out in securing that crop there last year. The Siletz and Warm Spring Indians were there, also some Chinamen. The Indians are good pickers, picking clean off the poles, ground and in the boxes, and they leave the bulk of their earnings with the merchants. There are some large yards near Lebanon, Lion county, which are mostly picked by Chinese. The settlers in the hills ought to do all the picking. The earnings from it will be an important factor in the problem of how to make both ends meet. From two to four seven-bushel boxes are picked daily per hand at 40 or 50 cents per box.—Oregonian.

Sergt. Bates to Gen. Tuttle.

DES MOINES, Ia., July 30.—Sergt. Bates, now living in Florida, has read Gen. Tuttle's speech, in which is foretold another rebellion, and has written the General a letter, in which he shows how impossible it is to produce anything that might not become contraband of war, and adds:

"We have fine pasture lands and might turn our attention to the breeding of jackasses, but we are satisfied that we can never compete with Iowa's leading production. Since your great speech we have concluded to abandon the enterprise and leave Iowa in the undisputed enjoyment of what we trust may prove to be a profitable monopoly."

In closing Sergt. Bates says: "You will please excuse my note addressing you by your Christian name, as I have never heard it. Indeed it is only quite recently that any of us ever heard of you by any name. I have inquired about you of several former citizens of Iowa, now residents here, and they all with one accord assure me that they know no more about you than they did about Gaius before that loyal patriot bled in fame; but as there never was and never will be but one Gen. Tuttle you will doubtless receive this letter."

FILED FOR PROBATE.—On Monday afternoon the will of Ben Holladay, who died in Portland, July 8th, 1887, was filed for probate in Portland. He bequeaths to his wife Esther his Portland residence and all its appurtenances and the sum of $50,000; to his son Ben Holladay, Jr., all his interest in the steamships Pelican and California; and the remainder of the estate to his grand-daughter Maria, daughter of his daughter Jennie, now deceased, formerly wife of Count Arthur de Portales. His brother Joseph Holladay, Henry Hampton and L. M. Barlow, executors of the will, without security. Joseph Holladay filed the will, and a petition asked that he be appointed executor and Geo. W. Welder administrator of the estate. The estate is valued at $500,000.

An Albany dispatch of August 9th, says: "W. F. Read, A. Rhodes and Robert Brown, who, with A. B. Woodin, recently discovered a silver lode in the Cascade mountains, left to-day for the purpose of engaging in mining operations on the same. They had a test made of the rock in Portland, and it was pronounced of sufficient value to induce them to sink a shaft and make a further prospect of the value of the mine. They took with them giant powder, drills, etc., and propose to give the mine a thorough test. It is located nearly at the source of the Santiam river. The party will proceed by team as far as practicable, and pack their supplies the remainder of the way." This discovery is immediately north of the Blue river mines.

The Heppner Gazette says: Pap Stroud, traveling partner of Uncle Sam and Gov. Whitaker in the internal revenue business, is this week honoring Heppner with his portly presence. Before engaging in his present missionary field Pap was one of the largest partners in the Oregon and California railroad. Everybody in this neck of woods knows Pap Stroud and are glad to know that he is able to be about.
