A Common Cold

Is often the beginning of serious affections of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes, and Lungs. Therefore, the importance of early and effective treatment cannot be overestimated. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral may always be relied upon for the speedy cure of a Cold or Cough.

Last January I was attacked with a severe Cold, which, by neglect and frequent exposures, became worse, finally settling on my lungs. A terrible cough soon followed, accompanied by pains in the chest, from which I suffered intensely. After trying various remedies, without obtaining relief, I commenced taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was Speedily Cured.

I am satisfied that this remedy saved my life.—Jno. Webster, Pawtucket, R. I.

I contracted a severe cold, which suddenly developed into Pneumonia, presenting dangerous and obstinate symptoms. My physician ordered the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. His instructions were followed, and the result was a rapid and permanent cure.—H. E. Stimpson, Rogers Prairie, Tex.

Two years ago I suffered from a severe Cold, which settled on my Lungs. I consulted various physicians, and took the medicines they prescribed, but received only temporary relief. A friend induced me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking two bottles of this medicine I was cured. Since then I have given the Pectoral to my children, and consider it for Colds, Coughs, and all Throat and Lung diseases, ever used in my family.—Robert Vanderpool, Meadville, Pa.

Some time ago I took a slight Cold, which, being neglected, grew worse, and settled on my Lungs. I had a hacking cough, and was very weak. Those who know me best considered my life to be in great danger. I continued to suffer until I commenced using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Less than one bottle of this valuable medicine cured me, and I feel that I owe the preservation of my life to its curative powers.—Mrs. Ann Lockwood, Akron, New York.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is considered here, the one great remedy for all diseases of the throat and lungs, and is more in demand than any other medicine of its class.—J. F. Roberts, Magnolia, Ark. 4f

Yaquina Correspondence.

Yaqina, Or., August 22, 1887.

EDMOND GUARD: For the benefit of those who reside in Webfoot and who are often stifled with smoke or sweltering with the thermometer away up in the nineties and in the shade too, I will say that after a few weeks residence here the weather is lovely; neither too hot nor too cold. Improvements are constantly being made by the Oregon Development Company, by increasing the size of their wharf so as to accommodate to better advantage their handsome and commodious steamships which arrive and depart every few days for San Francisco, laden with passengers, also freight the product of your excellent Willamette and other valleys; and in return they bring tons upon tons of the very excellent and luscious fruits, &c., &c., which our southern neighbors know so well how to bring to perfection. In the sweet by and bye, which is to say a year or two at most when the road is completed to its eastern terminus, then this place will boom, and don't you forget it. A large force of men are employed in tearing down the rocky bluffs and filling up or rather making new ground on which to make more improvements. To show how generous the managers of the O. D. Co. are I will state that besides donating a beautiful plat of ground, from which a grand view of the bay, also Newport is obtained, they have erected at their own expense a building 22x 64 feet to be used as a non-sectarian place of worship.
The Post, a nice, clean, wide-awake paper is published here by Messrs. Van Cleave and Wadsworth. Van is known all over this northern coast as one of the pioneers in the "art preservative."
S. Handster from Dexter is pleasantly located here in the general merchandise business and from the amount of goods he appears to sell must be prospering.

The New French Rifle.

It was the tremendous but previously on a great scale untested power of the needle gun that gave to the Prussians the decisive battle of Sadowa.

Have the French really a weapon that is destined to repeat that memorable experience? If what we read is true, such a thing is likely, the publicity given to the matter furnishing, however, some ground for scepticism.
The weapon is the Lebel rifle. It is light, has great range and wonderful penetrating power. Its weight is less than that of any standard rifle; it kills at two thousand yards, and it sends a bullet through an eight inch brick wall at five hundred.

It is clear that the French government believes in this weapon. It is making them steadily at the rate of three or four thousand a week, and it is also making a special powder for them which is needful for its efficiency, and of which the French war office has the secret and the monopoly.

All this sounds formidable. But the Germans may have some formidable things in reserve also, and that is not rendered less likely by the fact that we hear very little talk about them.

Woman's Courage.

In courage the ordinary woman greatly outstrips the ordinary man. Whether it be reckless, unconscious, or sublime, the element of personal courage that affects a fit at the presence of a real danger. A lady who would not venture from her rural front door alone was often met abroad leading a three-year old child by the hand. When asked if she considered the infant's presence a protection she answered: "In a measure, yes; for when I am alone I feel that I have no rights to be away, and would run from a shadow; but if I were attacked with this child I would defend it to the last. Some persons will account for this on maternal theories. But the lady was not related to the child and she was unmarried."

Not a California Bear.

Anybody can catch a cold this kind of weather. The trouble is to let go, like the man who caught the bear. We advise our readers to purchase of any druggist a bottle of SANTA ABIE, the California King of Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Coughs and Croup Cures, and keep it handy. "This pleasing to the taste and death to the above complaints. Sold at $1.00 a bottle or 3 for $2.50. CALIFORNIA CAT-R-CURE gives immediate relief. The Catarrhal virus is soon displaced by its healing and penetrating nature. Give it a trial. Six months treatment $1.00, sent by mail $1.10.

Having perfected arrangements with parties in Portland, I am able now to find purchasers for lands, more readily than heretofore. If you have land for sale, improved or unimproved, you cannot do better than to entrust your business with us. Terms reasonable. Your patronage solicited.
B. F. DONNAN.

California Cat-R-Cure.

The only guaranteed cure for catarrh, cold in the head, hay fever, rose cold, catarrhal deafness and sore eyes. Restore the sense of taste and unpleasant breath, resulting from catarrh. Easy and pleasant to use. Follow directions and a cure is warranted, by all druggists. Send for circular to ABIE-TINE MEDICAL COMPANY, Oroville, Cal. Six months' treatment for $1.00; sent by mail $1.10. For sale by all druggists.

Delays are Dangerous.

You say, well, 'tis only a slight cold, look out, it may lead to an inflammation of the lining of numerous air cells of the Lungs this is Pneumonia. Or to spasmodic contractions of the fibres of the air passages, which is Asthma; or the inflammation of the lining membrane of the throat and tubes which pass through the Lungs, which in the first stage is called Bronchitis, and may lead to consumption. Santa Abie is delicious in flavor, certain and perfect in its result. A few doses will relieve, a thorough treatment cure the above named diseases. Every bottle warranted by all druggists.

What is it?

That produces that beautifully soft complexion and leaves no traces of its application or injurious effects? The answer, Wisdom's Robustine accomplishes all this, and is pronounced by ladies of taste and refinement to be the most delightful toilet article ever produced. Warranted harmless and matchless. F. M. Wilkins, agent, Eugene City.

THE INDIANA TRAMP.

[Hartford City Dispatch to Cincinnati Enquirer.]

John Owen Snider, the now world-wide famous pedestrian, has purchased himself a little farm of forty acres, and out in the rear of his dwelling we found him at his endless, never-ending task—tramp, tramp, tramp, on and on, never faltering, flagging or tiring of his weariless journey. The thermometer registered 110 degrees in the sun, yet about his beaten track amidst its glare, glitter and burning rays, on he went as unconcerned about its melting heat as if amid the coolest shades of autumn. Not a particle of perspiration was apparent—he was as lithe of form, as quick of step, as congenial, pleasant and ready to converse as nearly three years ago when we first met him on his tireless tramp. We accosted him with "Good morning, Uncle John." He said "Good morning" as cheerily and pleasant as though on a quiet stroll.

"Well, Uncle John, you are still on your endless walk?"
"Yes sir," said he, "and I am now convinced it will be an endless tramp with me, and will end only when I am dead."
"Can't you stop a moment to converse with an old friend?"
"As much as I would like to I dare not. I cannot do so."

"Can't you lay down to rest at night?"
"No, sir, I have been in bed only once in now nearly three years, and then only for an hour, and it made me so tired and sore that I had to run for five hours to rest myself."

"How do you sleep?"
"I sit down in that chair you see there, sleep for about two or three hours, never more than that, and sometimes am walking about my path here when I wake."
"Have you ever tried to stop walking?"
"A thousand times—yes, ten thousand times—I have tried to stop, but the moment I make the effort my legs cramp and pain me so I am compelled to run about for an hour to get them easy again."

"How do you take your meals?"
"You see that large tray there," said he (pointing it out to me), "with those leather straps, I fasten it in front of me, and eat as I walk."
"I am informed that you shave yourself and cut your hair as you travel about. Is that true?"
"Yes, sir, I can shave, cut my hair and bathe myself with as much ease as though at rest."

"You don't mean to say you bathe yourself while walking?"
"I do, I dampen a towel, and while walking about my room, I remove my clothing and bathe myself. I do so three times a week, always in the morning before any of my family is up."

"Have you never been tired of walking?"
"I have answered that question to at least ten thousand people. I never was tired for a moment, only when trying to rest."
"Then walking rests you?"
"Yes, sir; if I am weary I just increase my pace, and after running awhile I get rested and feel first rate."

"Do you like to converse with friends?"
"I do, only when they try to convince me I am a crank, crazy or hypochondriac. I am neither. I would be a fool to tramp about for nearly three years, day and night, for at least twenty hours out of every twenty-four. Crank, crazy or fool, I would give out in that time, sir."

We found the muscles as tense and firm as whip-cord. His pulse numbered 78. We took his temperature; it registered 99, heart beat steady and with good impulse; eyes clear, bright, and pupils equal in size and responsive, intellect unimpaired, "physical" good, digestion perfect, appetite not in the least depraved, and without a single index for a guide to a solution of the malady that affects him. We were forced to give it up and wonder the more at the marvel before us.

"Uncle John, tell us what you think about how you content yourself. In the long dreary night time, when everyone is asleep but yourself—no one to watch or converse with—don't you get sad and tired of living?"
"Well," said he, "you have asked three or four questions at once. I do get lonesome sometimes; then I take a chew of tobacco, whistle or sing, and try to think of the pleasant scenes of my youth, and often gaze at the heavens and try to find new stars and new wonders that appear. Just now I am looking for the Star of Bethlehem."

"Do you ever wish to die and be relieved from your affliction?"
"Can't say that I do. I am concerned about the welfare of my family; want to see them contented, happy and well provided for, then I am satisfied to live on until the journey is ended."

"How long have been walking now?"
"Nearly three years; it will be in October next."

After shaking hands and bidding Mr. Snider good-day we left him as we found him, still tramping about his beaten path. When nearly out of sight we looked again; he was still at his task alone, head erect, the same swinging step in a circle from right to left. On he went, as contented and serene as though sitting in the shade conversing with friends. We calculate that now he has been walking one thousand days, twenty hours of every twenty-four.

At the rate of four miles an hour, eighty miles a day, he now has encompassed fully eighty thousand miles—over three times around the world—id less than three years, and yet his journey is not ended.

In a conversation with the family about Mr. Snider we were informed by them that he never murmured or complained at his lot, was always pleasant and cheerful, and that often he would walk for an hour at a time, supported by some member of the family, sound asleep, snoring so loudly as to be heard several rods away; that in sleeping he sat in the arm-chair, breath ed easily, and while sleeping at once began his task.

Every indolent man, every device, every effort at command had been resorted to to get him to forego his tramp; yet, while he listened to their suggestions and pleadings, he would answer them, "It is impossible to stop," and "It would be suicide to do so."
