THE APPETITE

May be increased, the Digestive organs strengthened, and the bowels regulated, by taking Ayer's Pills. These Pills are purely vegetable in their composition.

They contain neither calomel nor any other dangerous drug, and may be taken with perfect safety by persons of all ages.

I was a great sufferer from Dyspepsia and Constipation. I had no appetite, and was constantly afflicted with Headache and Dizziness. I consulted our family doctor, who prescribed for me, at various times, without affording more than temporary relief. I finally commenced taking Ayer's Pills. In a short time my digestion and appetite

IMPROVED

my bowels were regulated, and, by the time I finished two boxes of these Pills my tendency to headaches had disappeared, and I became strong and well. -

Darius M. Logan, Wilmington, Del.

I was troubled, for over a year, with Loss of Appetite, and General Debility.

I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, and before finishing half a box of this medicine, my appetite and strength were restored. - C. O. Clark, Danbury, Conn.

Ayer's Pills are the best medicine

The Oldest Inhabitant.

The newspapers have been having quite a controversy over the question as to who is the oldest white settler in Oregon. We had always supposed that Mr. Allan, of the old firm of Allan, McKinlay & Co., antedated all others, but they have found it out that Jean Baptiste Garnier, now residing on the Sin-law river in Lane county, is the man. Mr.

Garnier was born in 1800 at a place on the St. Lawrence river about nine miles from Montreal. In 1823 he was one of a party of sixty-four daring young voyageurs who left Canada for the Pacific Northwest, having eight bark canoes. They were out on the plains all that winter and so reduced by hunger as to be obliged to eat the partridge from their mocassins. In August of the year following they arrived at the Willamette Falls, having lost twenty-two of their number by death. Mr. Garnier was in the employ of the Hudson Bay company twenty-four years, eight of which he resided at Fort

Umpqua, which was about five miles below the present town of Gardiner. The old man is still strong and hearty and has never seen a railroad track nor a train of cars; and the pioneers should not fail to pay his expenses to this city to this city to attend their next annual reunion. His son John is an intelligent half-breed about forty-eight or fifty years of age, and wholly without fear, as the following incident will show. The coastwise travel between Coos Bay and the Umpqua is usually made on horseback or by stage to a place called Barrett's Landing, about three miles from Empire City, across the bay, where they take the steamer for Empire or Marshfield as best suits them.

John Garnier reached there just ten minutes too late for the boat and could find no skiff with which to cross. He went to Barrett's house only to find it locked tight. About an hour later, he walked into the office of the Coos Bay News and asked us for the loan of an old pair of trousers to wear while his own were drying. He had swum his horse across the bay that dark and stormy night because he had promised a man to pay him money he owed him, on that very day. How many men are there in our midst whose punctuality ever would have troubled them to such an extent? We were fairly dumbfoundled at the exploit and asked him:

"John, wasn't it a fearfully dangerous under-taking?"

"No, the tide was ebbing and that was in my favor. And the wind down stream made the bay very smooth--no sea at all."

"But I should have thought you would have been afraid of sharks catching you by the leg and dragging you out of the saddle," said the writer.

"No danger of that," said Garnier, "at this season the sharks never come into the bay. The creeks are all too high, and there is too much fresh water in the bay for that."

Of all the Buffalo Bills and Texas Jacks that have gone to astonish London with their exploits about the "Wild West" there is not one of them that we would sooner trust on a dangerous errand, requiring an equal mixture of courage and caution, than that same good-natured and pleasant-faced John Garnier. We hope to meet him and his father, too, at the next reunion of the Oregon pioneers. The society should advance the old man's expenses from Sin-

Pleasant Hill Items.
