

THE EUGENE CITY GUARD.

SATURDAY.....SEPTEMBER 3, 1887.

The Merry War.

Brigadier General David S. Stanley, U. S. A., commanding the Department of Texas, moved his heavy artillery to the front on the 18th of August, and played them after this tune:

"I will not say anything to you about Fairchild stealing a landau and being caught and made to give it up, as you are familiar with that. But I will tell you that while General Tuttle was in St. Louis he and his regiment robbed Dr. McDowell's college of all its livers, lights and hearts. Such men as these don't represent all the Grand Army of the Republic. At least they don't represent me in their insults to the President of the United States and Commander-in-Chief of the Army."

Frank Pixley, Republican, concludes an editorial in the Argonaut on national politics, as follows:

Perhaps it will not be amiss to remind Mr. John Sherman, Mr. Blaine, Mr. Roscoe Conkling, of New York, Mr. Edmunds of Vermont, the Republican leaders, editors, and party managers of the East, that it has been demonstrated by the election of Mr. Cleveland that they are not indispensable to the welfare of the country; That the survival, progress and prosperity of the Nation during Mr. Cleveland's one term of administration, may embolden the country to the experiment of entrusting him with another four years of administration."

And yet we have Oregon cranks who can refer to him only as a lecherous nonentity, who didn't fight in the late civil war, and as a disgrace to the high position he holds. Among conservative voters, and especially among business men, Cleveland is making friends every day he lives.—Sunday Welcome.

The ablest man whom Cleveland took into the cabinet, Secretary Manning, is in private life, and is reported to be estranged from the president. At all events the recent vain conspiracy to place the president's secretary Lamont in the control of the Albany Argus and to expel Manning inspires the suspicion that Manning is no longer the trusted friend and manager of the Cleveland boom for re-nomination.—Oregonian.

The above, which first appeared in the New York Sun, was pronounced "a lie made out of whole cloth" by the Albany Argus, whose editor is a son of Daniel Manning, and Daniel Lamont declared it an "unqualified falsehood." At the time this story was published, which declared that Lamont and Manning were bitter enemies, Lamont had been visiting with the latter gentleman for two weeks. This is a sample misrepresentation of the myriads that are now broadcast by such republican papers as the Oregonian.

In describing new varieties of wheat obtained in the United Kingdom from crossing, the London correspondent of Bradstreet's writes under date August 8th, that "a splendid new spring wheat has been obtained by crossing the English April wheat—about the only wheat which can safely be sown after February in this country—with the American golden grain, a hardy and prolific but coarse wheat. The result of this cross is a very early, handsome wheat, with much bigger heads than April wheat has, and of finer quality than golden grain. There is every reason to believe that this new spring wheat will prove a very valuable acquisition to farmers in all countries where spring wheats are grown. The operation of crossing wheat is a delicate one, great care being necessary to do it at the right time."

On the question of a Federal surplus, and the proposition to distribute it amongst the States in preference to reducing the useless taxation which produces it, listen to the voice of Daniel Webster, who said:

The income from customs must be reduced. It must be reduced even at the hazard of injury to some branches of manufacturing industry; because this, in my opinion, would be a less evil than that extraordinary and dangerous state of things, in which the United States should be found laying and collecting taxes, for the purpose of distributing them, when collected, among the States of the Union.

After all, what a ludicrous fellow Foraker, of Ohio, is! A few weeks ago he was turning and cursing and helping Fairchild to palsy the president because he had committed the awful blunder of ordering the return of the captured confederate battle-flags. Now, on behalf of the noble people of Ohio, he is obsequiously inviting this same wicked Cleveland to stop off at Columbus on his Western trip, draw a crowd and partake of hospitalities. Piff, paff puff! General Boun!—New York World.

Captain Vale of Lancaster, Pa., swore that he saw George Weiman wounded in his company during the war and Weiman got a pension and divided it with Vale. The transaction was investigated by General Black and found to be a fraud. Both men are arrested, have confessed their crime and will go to the penitentiary. Captain Vale was one of the men who proposed to resent the President's presence at St. Louis, but now he has other fish to fry.

Who went into the war anyway? Missouri gave Mr. Lincoln 17,028 votes, but sent 85,580 soldiers into the Union Army. Iowa gave Lincoln 70,409 votes and sent to war under the Stars and Stripes 68,680 men. If only Republicans went, that left only 1,729 of them at home—not enough to hold the offices—but we distinctly remember that they held them.—Alta.

Acting Land Commissioner Stockslager has issued the necessary instructions to carry into effect Secretary Lamar's recent order restoring to settlement and entry certain indemnity railroad lands as follows: Southern Pacific Railroad of California about 4,000,000 acres. The Dalles Military Road of Oregon about 1,200,000 acres.

We trust that the northern people will soon learn the Southern Confederacy is defunct—"died on the field of honor"—and that there is no more probability of a new southern confederacy than there is of a confederacy between Virginia and the Northwest-ern States. This is our country—Richmond Dispatch.

Halsted threatens to drive the Administration out of Washington. He is a stung-ree. He wanted somebody to take Lincoln by the heels and beat his brains out in the White House wall, and demanded that Sherman be expelled from the Army for insanity, and Grant for drunkenness.

Edward Freiberger wrote a poem "To Elaine." A Boston printer knew what it was, for he had just read the Pennsylvania endorsement so he changed Elaine to Blaine and so made the poet to declare him:

"A thing between an angel and a flower."

It is great injustice to charge that Mr. Blaine was not interested in the war of the rebellion. He was very greatly interested in it, both in his gun contracts and in supplies to be provided for the army.

August 26, 1887.

Mr. W. M. Miller left last Saturday for Montana.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Close were up from Eugene last week.

Mr. Jas. Parker, of Cloverdale, made this place a visit Sunday.

Born, to the wife of Mr. D. C. Matthews, Aug. 7, 1887, a son.

Mr. Wm. Preston and family, of Eugene, visited relatives here Sunday.

Mr. J. M. Keeney and family, of Jasper, visited with relatives here Sunday last.

Mr. Wm. Williams has leased his farm to Chas. Stevens for a period of five years.

The genial insurance agent, Mr. E. C. Lake, of Eugene made this place a visit Wednesday.

Miss Lizzie Matthews returned this week to Eugene after a month's stay with her parents.

Mr. D. C. Matthews sold a fine band of sheep last week to Mr. W. P. Shelley, of Eugene.

Mr. Emmet Blakely, of Rush island, has been working here during the threshing season.

Miss Manda Bond, of Irving, has been visiting with her sister, Mrs. W. L. Wheeler, during the past few weeks.

Mr. R. E. Williams and Hosea Parvin came in last week from Silver Lake, where they have been in the employ of the Mill Co.

Messrs. H. L. Morgan and C. L. Williams come in from Silver Lake Monday. They will return shortly, having come in after provisions.

Mr. Robt. Williams lost a valuable horse one day last week. The animal was tied to the manger and became entangled in the rope choking itself to death.

Thos. Graham having been disappointed in his fond expectations now offers for sale the improvements on a quarter section of land with good outlet for $250.

Several from here attended church at Tay on Sunday last. Three preachers were present each of which preached a sermon during the day. Basket dinner was had on the ground.

Aug. 31, 1887.

Singing school, under management of W. L. Bristow, will close on Sunday next.

Soon everybody will go hopping. Mr. J. I. Barbre begins picking his hops next Monday.

Jas. Carr, Dave and Archie Matthews contemplate taking a trip to the coast soon, for recreation and recruit.

E. P. Williams has leased his threshing machine to Milt Veatch for the season. Mr. Veatch will run the machine on Fall Creek.

We understand that Mr. H. C. Morgan and family intend moving this fall to Eugene, where they will perhaps make their future residence.

Supervisor A. L. Roney, intends calling out a force of men soon for the purpose of working the road to Backus' ferry. The road is badly in need of repairs.

The Dexter Fouring mill is under course of repairs by Mr. John Horn. When completed we understand that Mr. Al. Parker, of Cloverdale, will take charge of it.

After the elapse of one month we again resume our pen and desire the shake of the paw with Subscriber, Old Boy and Rusty Pen and others, against whom we hold no malice, save that which exists in their own minds.

All are done threshing in this vicinity except Robt. Williams, who has only a half day's threshing. The yield of grain did not come up to expectations. J. M. Parker's field of oats yielded 52 bushels per acre, this being the largest yield of any in this vicinity. Taking it throughout Lost valley, the yield of both wheat and oats is comparatively small.

Uno Hoo.

August 31, 1887.

The San Bernardino Courier says: There is a man in San Bernardino who became convinced, when young, that kissing was wicked, because Christ was betrayed with a kiss. He resolved never to kiss anybody. He has been married twenty years and is the father of eleven children, but has never kissed his wife nor one of his offspring.

Henry George says men cannot own land because they did not create it, and the Omaha World adds that George therefore has no right to his head, because he did not make it. This relieves Henry of a fearful responsibility.

POSSIBLE EXTENSION.—It is probable that in another year Eugene will have another railroad. Recent correspondence on the part of Eugene people with Southern Pacific officials elicits the reply that the extension of the Narrow Gauge from Coburg to Eugene, and eventually to Siuslaw, is seriously contemplated by them. This will be an important factor in the development of Lane county, as it will open what is considered to be very valuable territory. It is to be hoped that some such move will be made by the Narrow Gauge road, as at present it is somewhat irregular in its schedule and not of as much service to the public as it could be made to be.—Albany Herald.

FOR SALE.—A few nice building lots, on easy terms. Price from $50 to $100. Apply to Dr. T. W. Shelton.
