LUCK STRIKES NEW YORK.

LET. RAILWAY PASSENGERS. They Have Rights Which Train Employee 30 Are Bound to Respect. An interesting case has lately been -20 decided by the court of last resort in 30 10 Pennsylvania, where the plaintiff had recovered in an action against the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway Company damages to the very unusual amount of $50,000. The suit was 270 brought on account of severe and permanent injuries which the plaintiff re-10 ited express train running eastward from Cleveland, O., He had a ticket 11 which entitled him to a first-class pas-10 sage from Cleveland to Erie, and about midnight he took his seat in a car of the limited express, to which he was directed by a brakeman standing by. It appears, however, that ordinary tick-4 35 ets are not good on this train, for 1 75 which a special rate of fare is charged. The plaintiff was ignorant of this fact 1 09 until the conductor refused to take his ticket, telling him that it was "no good;" and that his orders were to stop the train and eject immediately per-1 10 sons who endeavored to ride on such tickets. The plaintiff offered to pay his fare in money, and when this offer was refused, begged that at least he should be carried to the next station. The conductor, however, would not accede even to this reasonable request, but stopped the train and put off the plaintiff where there were many tracks and switches, where locomotives were constantly passing and where "broken trains" were "floated." While trying to reach the nearest station the plaintiff was struck in the back by some object which the jury must have inferred was either a locomotive or a car, and so received the injury on account of which the suit was brought.

The railroad company in their de-fense contended for a principle, which, if once established, would be extremely convenient for such corporations and quite the reverse for their passengers. They maintained that travelers by rail are bound to know the rules of the road in regard to the tickets which they buy just as a citizen is bound to know the laws of his State and city; and consequently that the plaintiff, in taking a seat in the limited express, was a trespasser, and could lawfully be treated as such by the company. The court rejected this pretension, saying: "A passenger who has an open way to an open car going to the place to which he bought and holds a ticket, without knowledge that the ticket is not good on such car, is not to be treated as a of them talking to each other wrong-doer, endeavoring to ride without payment of fare, or to ride in a car which he knows his ticket gives no right to enter." The plaintiff, thereof the poor and needy from to eject him. Another point as to dam-"take the biggest tin pail there that "punitive" damages, that is damgo get it full of beer. Hustle ages which would be more than a com-resif, because I'm dry." ture of a punishment-might be given if the jury found that the plaintiff was put off from the train at a dangerous place. The court sustained this ruling saying that the act of the conductor amounted either to wilful misconduct ood fortune often comes when least ected and smiles upon those who plaintiff could have recovered punitive or exemplary damages against him, he could also recover them against his emelta, of 41 Marion street, whom the ployer, the railroad company. The le goddess favored in a most agree- court added with some humor: "It is unnecessary now to consider whether the company may put off a trespasser to whom it owes no duty, at a place nen belonging to the Italian colony where there is probability that he will
