

The President's Way.

The President's habit of strictly following the law in the expenditure of public funds...

The Philadelphia Press, a thick and thin Republican organ, totes fair. It copies the comments of the Southern press on Andrew Jackson's speech at Macon...

We have seen Governor Gordon kiss five hundred ladies in one day. Says the Atlanta, Ga., Constitution: "On one occasion they came at him in procession, and we noticed with what precision his discerning eye picked out those who should be kissed for their own sake and those who should be kissed from a party standpoint..."

Just make a note of this: The President on his late tour traveled many miles, visited many cities, met millions of people and made many speeches, but he uttered no word that was not in the strictest propriety, nor one that could not be printed in the record of any other public man...

Ulysses Grant, Jr., has just got a half million out of some Colorado mines that proved rich after being thought worthless. We are glad of it. "Buck," as he is nicknamed, is deserving of good luck because he says good things...

In the State of Oregon and in Lane Co. especially the mail service furnished by the Government is far more extensive than before March 4, 1885. There are more trips made, and more routes than ever before.

Henry George hardly knew how to answer the question propounded, but after a thoughtful pause said: "The result of the election will lead to the nomination of Cleveland and to his election. I do not think Blaine will be nominated. I am inclined to believe that Blaine will not accept a nomination if tendered to him."

The city of Atlanta, Ga., voted on the question of prohibition last Monday, resulting in its defeat by a majority of 11,370. About 9000 votes were cast. Two years ago prohibition carried by about the same majority.

President Cleveland read the real estate speculation in St. Paul a lesson by refusing a gift of land near what they called Cleveland park. There was a time in the executive mansion when no gift would be refused, no matter what the object might be, but that time has passed with Republican rule.

James A. Stewart, a clerk in a drug store at Wichita, Kan., has been sentenced to seven years and four months in the county jail and fined $20,800, with costs of prosecution, for violation of the prohibition law.

Mr. Rothschilds—What is it James? Jeems—H'a gentleman h'at the door, sir. "What name?" "E says 'is name h'is Jay Gould, sir." "My stars! Go tell him Europe is not for sale."

Hon. Mr. Sheldon, of Brooklyn, who claims to have spoken to Blaine on the subject of the recent elections, says that he feels the defeat in New York, and is doubtful of a Republican victory in 1888.

An American schooner cruising off Cape Sable picked up a gray goose that floated on the water and brought it home. It proved to be an ambergris, and was worth $89,800.

It will be noticed that all the states classed as "doubtful" in Republican estimates of the electoral vote next year have a habit of going Democratic.

The receipts of the Brooklyn Bridge Co. for October were $80,000. Nearly three million passengers crossed the bridge in that month.

The Hon. Jas. G. Blaine is likely to discover that as a hoodoo Jay Gould can give Brother Burchard nineteen points in twenty.

Goshen Items.

Dec. 1, 1887.

A dance is on the tapis. An occasional sunbeam. Yes, "there goes some more items."

Miss Edith Parker, of Cloverdale, is here attending school.

Miss Brown, of Sinalaw, visited at Mr. McClure's last week.

Mr. Chas. Bennett's injured hand seems not improving as it should.

Mr. P. Berkshire, of Lake Creek, made a flying call at this place recently.

Miss Mary B. Matlock paid friends in the vicinity of Springfield a visit the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. I. Barclay, of Pleasant Hill, are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bennett to-day.

Miss Mattie Berkshire spent last week at Pleasant Hill visiting with her sister, Mrs. E. W. Matthews.

Mr. Jos. Pulman and family, of Amity, Yamhill county, spent a few days recently visiting with the family of A. Keeney.

Now when we mention a gentleman's having been in our midst, we certainly mean that, and that alone, and are not in search of a "licking."

Ducks and geese are beginning to fly high during the time from 10 o'clock Saturday evenings to 4 o'clock Monday morning, and one can almost imagine that they scream to one another, "Look out, for the 'candy man's' abroad!"

It arises in our mind to enquire of our Camp Creek brothers why a certain young man of that section spends so many Sabbath days in the vicinity of Harrisburg, and why their "curiosity," O. C., was not mentioned about the time of the last circus, when he got "left?" so nicely at the bridge?

Mr. Joseph Reed had the misfortune of losing a fine pet deer one day last week. It seems that a red string around its neck, and its being so gentle that it was driven into a barn without an enclosure, was not sufficient proof of its being a domesticated animal, in the mind of one of our citizens, who sought in vain the assistance of a neighbor to kill it, and finally did so himself.

Not many days since a Laorean was heard to remark to an Entaxian "I would not belong to your society." While our society is by no means desirous of receiving this gentleman into its ranks, yet they think it honorable fair that their society should be thus spoken of. There are many disadvantages which the Entaxians suffer, which are but little appreciated by any save themselves.

In former years, this society consisted of a class of young ladies more matured in intellect, as well as in years, than the present members. While the society is now composed of younger members, yet they are, of many of them, full of zeal and anxious to build the organization up to its former standpoint, but are debarred from this by many objective points. The attendance of young men at the University is, at the present, much larger than that of young ladies, and as a natural sequence, the Laorean Society is a larger organization than that of the Entaxians, and as numbers give power, this want has a vitiating influence over the latter.

Another disadvantage is the hour of holding the sessions of the society. From precedent and for many valid reasons, the Entaxians have always met on Friday afternoons, when, tired from a week's study, the attendance at society is really more of a duty than a pleasure, and, indeed, it is often necessary for members to be absent. When Friday evening comes the boys are rested from study sufficiently to make them ready and eager for anything in the form of recreation and they go to their session with exuberant spirits thoroughly enjoying it. During the present year arrangement of classes has been such as to almost despoil the Entaxian society, but with a partial promise of a change soon, we are hopeful. With all these difficulties is it then a wonder that the Entaxian Society is not now doing its best? Some may say, disband; but, no; that is not our intention.

We are going to hold on until we redeem the former reputation of the Entaxian Society, when their members were inferior to no Laorean in debate, parliamentary usage, or any of the points in which it is so essential to be well versed, if we would have ours a thriving organization.

The Excursion to Portland.

A dispatch from San Francisco, dated Nov. 29, says: At a meeting of the committee of arrangements for the celebration of the completion of the California & Oregon, Mayor Pond presiding, it was decided that the commercial boards of San Francisco, with the several boards of trade of California, with four delegates at large appointed by Gov. Waterman, making in all seventy-two, should leave San Francisco on the afternoon of Dec. 10 and proceed to Portland to open the road. The committee in charge will consist of Mayor Pond of San Francisco, W. L. Merry, president of the chamber of commerce, Geo. H. Sanderson, president of the San Francisco board of trade, A. T. Hatch, president of the state board of trade, Frank Dalton, president of the produce exchange, and W. T. Garratt, of the Manufacturers' Association. The Second Regiment Band will accompany the delegation, who will be guests of the city of Portland, as per invitation received from Mayor Gates of that city. The delegates will occupy three cars, and applications have been made for a great number of tickets on the outside. Tickets good for six days, cost but $25.

The Population of China.

London Spectator. It has been the custom of late to disbelieve in the ancient estimates of the population of China; but the North China Herald, a well-informed journal, publishes statistics which strongly support them. It appears that the authorities of Peking have recently taken a census for taxing purposes, and that the village bailiffs, whose interest it is to understate the figures, return the population at 319,383,599. Five provinces are omitted, and their population, as recorded in the last census brings the total up to 392,000,000. Even this figure is regarded as the population of Thibet, Kashgar, Ili and Corea; and the total number of souls ruled by the Emperor of China, therefore, exceeds 400,000,000, and still displays a tendency to increase. As the population of India exceeds 250,000,000, the Indians and Chinese together constitute more than half the human race, a fact worthy the attention of those philosophers who study London and Paris, and then announce that "man believes" this and that. There are many races of men, but some of the foremost among them, e. g., the French and the Arabs, scarcely increase at all, while a few, e. g., the Ottomans, slightly decline. If the process now going on continues for another century, the world will belong in the main to four races, or rather people—the Teutons, most of whom will speak English; the Slavs, the Chinese, and the natives of India. It is quite possible, however, that they may quarrel, and that their march toward the mastery of the planet which else will belong to them like a cheese to mites, may be seriously checked.
