A Distinguished Clergyman's Testimony.

Rev. R. M. Pickens, President of the Methodist Protestant Church of South Carolina, writes from Greenville:

"About four years ago I was attacked with what the physicians pronounced neuritic rheumatism, accompanied with erysipelas. My appetite failed me entirely, and I had an intermittent pulse and very irregular pulsations of the heart. A terrible pain soon came into my chest and shoulders, and I became so helpless that I could attend to no business at all. The pain was movable, and would sometimes pass from one part of my body to another. Finally the erysipelas broke out on my left hand and arm, and produced much swelling in this way, and of course used a great many kinds of medicines, but nothing gave me relief. Friends finally persuaded me to try Swift's Specific. I noticed a decided improvement while taking the first bottle. I continued its use until I had taken about one dozen bottles, when I found myself sound and well again, with no sign of disease left except a stiffness on my hand, a result of the erysipelas. While taking the medicine I gained on an average two pounds of flesh per week. I think S. S. S. a valuable medicine, and I frequently recommend it to my friends."

What is It?

That produces that beautifully soft complexion and leaves no traces of its application or injurious effects? The answer, Wisdom's Robortine accomplishes all this, and is pronounced by ladies of taste and refinement to be the most delightful toilet article ever produced. Warranted harmless and matchless. F. M. Wilkins, agent, Eugene City.

Delays are Dangerous

You say, well, 'tis only a slight cold, look out, it may lead to an inflammation of the lining of numerous air cells of the Lungs this is Pneumonia. Or to spasmodic contractions of the fibres of the air passages, which is Asthma, or the inflammation of the lining membrane of the throat and tubes which pass through the Lungs, which in the first stage is called Bronchitis, and may lead to consumption. Santa Ana is delicious in flavor, certain and perfect in its result. A few doses will relieve, a thorough treatment cure the above named diseases. Every bottle warranted by all druggists.

Don't Believe It

When told that F. M. Wilkins, the druggist, is not selling "Wisdom's Robortine" for the complexion, the most elegant and only really harmless preparation of its kind in the world, and giving a beautiful picture card with every bottle.

California Cat-R-Cure.

The only guaranteed cure for catarrh, cold in the head, hay fever, rose cold, catarrhal deafness and sore eyes. Restore the sense of taste and unpleasant breath, resulting from catarrh. Easy and pleasant to use. Follow directions and a cure is warranted. By all druggists. Send for circular to ARHETINE MEDICAL COMPANY, Oroville, Cal. Six months' treatment for $1.00; sent by mail $1.10. For sale by all druggists.

Farm for Sale

I have for sale 220 acres of land known as the Gillilan farm; 25 acres good timber and the remainder all prairie. All under fence; good house and barn; good orchard and other improvements. The place has an abundance of good spring water and is situated one-fourth mile from the Pleasant Hill school house, one of the best school districts in the county. For further particulars apply to T. G. HENDRICKS.

SCROFULA

I do not believe that Ayer's Sarsaparilla has an equal as a cure for Scrofulous Humors. It is pleasant to take, gives strength to the body, and produces a more permanent result than any medicine I ever used.
—E. Haines, North Lima, Ohio.
I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in my family, for Scrofula, and know, if it is taken faithfully it will thoroughly eradicate this terrible disease.
—W. F. Fowler, M.D., Greenville, Tenn.
For forty years I have suffered with Erysipelas. I have tried various remedies for my complaint, but found no relief until I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After taking ten bottles of this medicine I am completely cured.
—M. C. Amesbury, Rockport, Me.
I have suffered, for years, from Catarrh, which was so severe that it destroyed my appetite and weakened my system. After trying other remedies, without relief, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, in a few months, was cured. — Susan L. Cook, 909 Albany st., Boston, Mass.
Ayer's Sarsaparilla is superior to any blood purifier that I ever tried. I have taken it for Scrofula, Canker, and Salt-Rheum, and received much benefit from it. It is good, also, for a weak stomach. — Mills Jane Peiros, B. Bradford, Mass. ff

Humors, Erysipelas, Canker, and Catarrh,

Seven Ages of Woman.

All the world's a wardrobe. And all the girls and women merely wearers; They have their fashions and their fantasies; Throughout her seven stages. First, the baby, Befuddled and brooded in her nurse's arms; And then the trim-topped school girl, with her bouffant; And small-boy scolding face, tripping skirt-waggingly; Coquetishly to school. And then the flirt, Ogle like Circe, with a business attitude kept on her low-cut corset. Then a bride, full of strange fancies, yet vigilant at glance, Seeking the woman's heaven. Admiration. Even at the altar steps. And then the matron, In fair, rich velvet with suave satin lined, With eyes severe and skirts of youthful cut full of dress saws and modish intonances, To teach the girls their parts. The sixth age shifts Into the gray yet gorgeous grandmannas, With gold pin-nez on nose and fan at side. Her youthful taste still strong, and worldly-wise.

In sumptuary lay, her quivering robes, Proving of Fashion and Le Follet, pipes Of robes and bargains rare. Last scene of all, 'Tis ends the Sex's Mode-ward history, In second childishness and sheer oblivion Of youth, taste, passion, all—'en love of dress, —Boston Advertiser.

A Desirable Mother-in-Law.

Boston Globe.
She—James, I am willing to become your wife, but I wish it to be distinctly understood that if I marry you mother is to make her home with us.
He—Live with us always?
She—Undoubtedly, James. I cannot desert her. She was all the friend I had until I met you. She must come to live with us.
He—Well, er—
She—But she will not be a burden upon us, James. She has about $7,000 a year from the dividends on her shares in the Old Colony.
He—And you want her to live with us when we are married?
She—I do, James.
He—Certainly, my darling $7,000 a year from dividends! Gracious! Sadie, she shall live with us. She shall be respected and admired by her mother-in-law. Sadie, I always admired your mother. She is one of the noblest, one of the most kindly and affectionate women I ever saw.
She—Then that is settled, James?
He—Settled, Sadie, you bet! She shall come and live with us the moment we are married.
She—Oh, James, you are so kind.
He—Don't mention it, Sadie. Don't mention it. I hope I have a soul in me. Your mother shall come to our house and shall have a home there as long as she lives.

The Three Met Again.

During the triennial convalescence in Chicago, nearly eight years ago, two men stood in front of the Leland Hotel. A third man approached them with an armful of pamphlets, and offered them for sale. One of the men first mentioned was a New Yorker, the other was at home. They took a book and after scanning it over the New York man said: "This book is rank treason, and you ought to be locked up for hawking it on the street." The Chicago man said to the peddler: "You ought to be hung for trying to sell such a book as that." The man of the pamphlets looked up, and the New Yorker and Chicago man soon separated. They never met again until last Friday, and both were witnesses to the hanging in the county jail. The New York man said to his Chicago friend: "There is a man on the scaffold whom I have seen before. Who is it?" "That is Parsons, the Anarchist. He is the man who met you and I seven years ago in front of the Leland Hotel. He was hawking his pamphlets then. You said he ought to be locked up and I said he ought to be hung. The drinks are on you." The New York man opened a bottle after the hanging.—Chicago Tribune.

In some places in China debtors who are unable to meet the claims of their creditors are punished with the loss of sight. In the case which came under Dr. Morrison's observation it was the debtor's son who was the victim of the diabolical custom. He was tied hands and feet, and deprived wholly of the sight of one while that of the other would have been lost but for timely surgical aid. The offense was that the poor fellow's father owed the remorseless Shylcock forty taels, or about fifty dollars.—London News.

FARM FOR SALE.—A farm containing 290 acres, situated 3 1/2 miles from Eugene and 2 1/2 miles from Irving, is offered for sale at $20 per acre. There are 130 acres under cultivation; 80 more is open land. The rest is timber land furnishing abundance of wood of all kinds, close to market. There are three good orchards on the place. The soil is very rich and well adapted to fruit raising. Will be divided to suit purchasers. Apply to J. J. WALTON, JR., Eugene, City, Or.

Gen. Joseph Lane's Grave.

—Lose thyself in the continuous wood Where rolls the Oregon and hears no sound Save its own dashing—yet the dead are there.

These lines by Bryant involuntarily force themselves on the mind of the visitor to the quiet grave of Gen. Joseph Lane, in the Umpqua valley, a mile from the hamlet of Roseburg, Oregon. Conspicuous in military life for many years, and in 1860 occupying the second place on the Presidential ticket with John C. Breckenridge at the head, he occupies a lonely grave in the green valley over which Mount Hood stands sentinel. His wife lies by his side. The mausoleum is neat and plain. On a white slab of marble is inscribed:

In memory of
GENERAL JOSEPH LANE,
Born Dec. 14, 1801,
Died April 19, 1881.

Another stone bears the inscription:

In memory of
POLLY, Wife of
General Joseph Lane,
Born March 16, 1802,
Died Aug. 16, 1870.

The grounds of the little churchyard are dotted over with a number of oak and pine trees. Shrubs and flowers also adorn the grounds. The grave of the famous man in national affairs is often visited.

Several of his sons live in Douglas county, Oregon. One of his sons, Hon. Lafayette Lane, represented the state some years ago in Congress. He is now as then, a lawyer in Roseburg.—S. F. Examiner.

A Universal Favorite.

The most popular, most enjoyable and cheapest publication on the Pacific coast, is the West Shore magazine, and it should be in every house, counting room and library. The farmers, especially, will find it a clean, wholesome, entertaining family visitor. It is the cheapest illustrated magazine in the world, and has no superior in artistic merit. The West Shore for 1888 will be greatly enlarged in size, and improved in contents, large literary and artistic. A magnificent, large photograph of the "Entrance to the Columbia River" is now being prepared and is superior in every respect to the handsome colored engraving of Mt. Hood issued last year. This beautiful marine picture and the November and December numbers of 1877, will be sent free to all who subscribe now for 1888. A most liberal clubbing list with leading publications is now made up, and will be sent to anyone who desires to take the West Shore in connection with other publications. The subscription price is only $2.50. Address L. Samuel, publisher of the West Shore, Portland, Oregon.

Kettle Was a Brick.

At a late dinner party in this city, the meal being pronounced ready by the butler, a gentleman by the name of Kettle took a young lady to whom he had been introduced by the host down to dinner. The lady was of a decided facetious disposition, and desiring to exhibit her talent in that direction opened the conversation with: "Let me see, I did not quite catch your name when introduced to you in the drawing room just now."
"Kettle is my name," said the gentleman in response.
"Ah, a peculiar name, rather; and are you married, may I ask?"
"Oh, yes," was his reply.
"Then there is a female Kettle," she continued; "and are there any little Kittles, Mr. Kettle?"
"Oh, yes, madam, there are five little Kittles, three with spots and two without."
There was at once a change in the conversation.—S. F. Wasp.

Rev. J. L. Parrish, of Salem, drove the first spike on the Oregon & California railroad, and records a promise made to him by Ben Holiday that he should, if alive, drive the connecting spike that told the road was completed. Mr. Parrish intimates his willingness and ability to perform the service designated if he is called upon to do so. He is one of the oldest of Oregon pioneers, and has kept step with the progress of events, and while he remembers, with the peculiar tenderness of the pioneer, the early days of Oregon, he rejoices with the more recent residents over the new Oregon as marked by the railroad era.—Telegraph.

What about a boy who does not take up with a trade or profession? Look around you and the question is speedily answered. He must eat his hook in any sort of a pond, and take such fish as may easily be caught. He is a sort of tramp. He may work in the brick yard to day and in the harvest field tomorrow. He does the drudgery and gets the pay of the drudge. His wages are so small that he finds it impossible to lay up a dollar, and a fortnight of idleness will see him dead broke.

The new steamer of the Oregon Pacific Railroad Company has been christened "Wm. H. Hoag" in honor of the Vice President of the road. She has received her machinery from the Willamette iron works at Portland, and the carpenters and painters are at work on the interior of her cabins. She will be ready for inspection in a few days. The Wm. H. Hoag is probably the lightest draught boat afloat in the Willamette.

Anarchist Schwab is peeling potatoes in Joliet. He also chops the hash. The other prisoners are a trifle uneasy about getting their food from a gentleman who is rather opposed to the human race.

Recent measurements show that Mount Wrangle, in Alaska, is the highest peak in North America, being 18,400 feet above Cooper river, which at that point is 2,600 feet above the level of the sea.
Having perfected arrangements with parties in Portland, I am able now to find purchasers for lands, more readily than heretofore. If you have land for sale, improved or unimproved, you cannot do better than to entrust your business with us. Terms reasonable. Your patronage solicited.
B. F. DORRIS.
