Trial of A. C. Brown.

EGGERS CITY, OREGON.

The verdict of the jury: We, the jury, find A. C. Brown guilty of offering to the public one of the best Cleveland bay stallions, with over twenty respectable farmers, who have colts from this horse, to testify to his good and uniform breeding.

We, the jury, find him guilty of offering one of the best registered French Canadian stallions.

We, the jury, find him guilty of offering to the public two of the best Kentucky Jacks ever brought to this coast.

We, the jury, find him guilty of wanting to buy and pay the highest price in cash for mule colts, from good large mares, at six months old.

Every one invited to examine this fine selection of good stock when in the city and find a verdict according to the evidence produced.

Your respectfully,

A. C. Brown & Co.

VERITY.

A PARTNERSHIP ROW.—The advertising firm of Peterson and Milliken is a concern of the past, and had it not been for the cool nerve of the senior partner of the firm might have been dissolved in blood. Peterson and Milliken had an advertising contract with the Mechanics' Fair Association last year, and it appears from what can be learned that the partnership settlement had not been of a satisfactory nature to Milliken, which engendered bad blood between the two men, who are brothers-in-law. Last Monday evening Milliken is alleged to have forced open the door of Peterson's room, located in the three-story brick building on the southeast corner of Market and First streets, and rushed into the apartment with a revolver in hand ready to shoot the man Peterson.

The latter then clinched his antagonist and wrestled the weapon from his hand. He then left the room, locking Milliken in and went in search of a policeman. Peterson shortly after returned with Chief of Police Parrish and another officer and they conveyed Milliken to the station house. After the excitement had cooled off Peterson declined to make a complaint against his quarrelsome partner, and the matter was dropped.—Portland Telegram, Wednesday, Feb. 29. Milliken is affectionately remembered by many of our citizens, as the person that collected money from them for attending dancing school.

NEW BANK.—The Bank of Oregon opened for business on Monday, Feb. 27th, in the new building next to F. B. Dunn's. This bank is incorporated under the State Laws and has a fully subscribed capital stock of $100,000, of which $25,000 is paid up in cash leaving stockholders liability $75,000, thereby securing to depositors in connection with a first-class steel lined vault and burglar proof safe with time lock, the very best of protection. From the well known standing of the board of directors and officers we predict for this bank a prosperous career.

From Coyota.

Feb. 27th, 1888.

Editor Granger.—The Coyota Literary Social Club met pursuant to adjournment with President McElloch in the chair. After the reading of the minutes we initiated four members. Then debated the question, "Which is the most powerful, the press, the pulpit or woman." The judges decided in favor of woman. Some of the members think the reason the question was decided in that way was because the judges were all ladies. The next order was select reading: two of the pieces were taken from the Grange. But the fun came under order of merriment, wit and humor. First chapter of "Widow Bodett" by Mrs. A. J. Nighswander which brought down the house. Another piece called "The Beautiful Steer," caused roars of laughter. There was a fine declamation rendered by A. J. N. "The Liquid Sparkling Red." Frank Nighswander spoke "Not so Easy." After which we had violin music accompanied by the bones, which was very entertaining. Our next subject for debate is, "Resolved, That Free Trade is preferable to High Protective Tariff in the United States." Leaders on the affirmative F. M. Nighswander, negative, Jim Crow. Now, Mr. Editor, come next Sunday and enjoy a literary feast.

F. M. NIGHSWANDER, Cor. Secretary.

Masonic Temple Dedicated.

Last Wednesday evening the new Masonic Temple, the handsome structure of its kind south of Portland, was dedicated by the Oregon Masonic Grand Lodge. Over three hundred members and guests from Lane county and abroad were in attendance. The dedicatory services were quite impressive and enjoyed by those assembled. Good music was one of the features of the evening. After the services all repaired to one of the lower rooms in the Temple and partook of an excellent and bountiful repast especially prepared for the occasion.

Then those who "tripped the light fantastic toe" were invited into another room, and they danced until midnight; the remainder adjourned to the lodge room and spent the evening in social converse, etc. The Masons may well feel proud of their Temple, and the manner in which they celebrated its dedication.

ALL ABOARD FOR OREGON.—The stream of immigration has begun to flow for 1888, and it promises to land a large number in the Northwest. Sunday's Northern Pacific train brought 152 immigrants, and Saturday's had 125. In conversation with A. D. Charlton, assistant general passenger agent of the Northern Pacific, it was learned that of the largest number of immigrants that ever visited the Northwest will come this Spring and Summer. The past Winter has been so severe in the East that thousands have become disgusted with the rigor of the climate, and will seek homes on the mild Pacific slope. The rush will be greater, Mr. Charlton says, than it was during the Comr d'Aleut mining excitement, when the Northern Pacific carried more passengers than were ever transported by a transcontinental railroad before in the same length of time.—Portland News.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—I have just finished making the enumeration of school children in District No. 4, Lane county, Oregon. If I have failed to take the names of any children living in said district, the parents or guardians will please report to me at once.

Archbishop Gross preached in the Catholic Church Sunday morning and evening and Monday evening to very large audiences. He is an eloquent and logical speaker and all present enjoyed a rare literary treat.

Dr. Carpenter, late superintendent of the insane asylum, and for many years a practicing physician in Portland and Salem, died at his home in the latter city Sunday morning, after an illness of several months.

A purgative medicine should possess tonic and curative, as well as cathartic properties. This combination of ingredients may be found in Ayer's Pills. They strengthen and stimulate the bowels, causing natural action.

Almost miraculous are some of the cures accomplished by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In the case of R. L. King, Richmond, Va., who suffered 47 years with an aggravated form of scrofula, Ayer's Sarsaparilla effected astonishing results.

The Oregon penitentiary has 239 prisoners, and the inmates of the insane asylum of the states numbers 450. The people evidently need more brain food, or probably the footings would be more equal if a few score of untaught knaves were added to the criminal list.
