

SHEEN KERRY'S CHICKS.

How They Brought Together Their Owner and Fair Nora O'Lane.

Och, but the hull brood was a pretty lot. There wuz Mister Speckle wid his top-not gold ez a dollar, an' Missus Speckle wid her tin blased feather-tots. An' mesilf ez wuz proud on them all!

But jist acrost the strate wuz me foine-lookin' naybur, Miss Nora O'Lane, wid a garden an' flowers galore, an' sez she: "Mister Kerry, I hate the sight of yer chicksuns!"

"Sez I: 'Guv me a rayson fur it!'" She flurled her curls loike the French ledly she wuzn't. "Sheen Kerry," she sed, "yer feather troibe are a bould set or thaves an' robbers! They've scratched out me plants, an' eat up me fruit and vegetables."

So sez I: "Wat's the ansur?" She thinks a bit an' ansur'd wid a twinkle: "Mister Kerry, I'll take the speckled hen fur me dinner, the morrow."

"Out wid ye fur a hertless wun!" croid I. "Wud ye tak' the muther of ten blissid chicksuns? Faix, an' there's niver a chicken asylum in the hull or Ameriky!"

But Nora jist lafft her purtiest, an' sez: "It's the hen, Mister Kerry, or a grate debt left unpaid."

An' sez I: "I'll niver pay it wid the loife of a innocent feller-craytur, an' that craytur a hillips muther hen!"

"Thin," sez Miss O'Lane, "your'e a bit or a robbur yourself!"

"But I'll mak' restyushun in the marnin'!" returns I, wid emphasis. "You shall hav' som'thin' that's a hape better thin poor old Missus Speckle!"

"An' wat's that?" she said wid a smile.

"I'll jist bring it over in the marnin', an' it's yersilf ez wud do well to be on the watch out."

"Better bring it to-night," sez she commandin'. "Fur to-morrow, I'm off to the fair, wid Teddy Farnum."

"Thin," sez I, "I'll cum crost at the clock stroke of eight, an' moind yo be in an' awaitin'."

An' I jist kipt me worrd loike a man.

Nora wuz pickin' pears by moonlight, whin I opened the gate.

"Hav' you bro't Missus Speckle?" she askt, wid prettified cruelty.

"Och, Miss Nora," sez I, "the poor hen is slape in the coop wid the tin chicken-babies under her wing! I can't bring her, an' troth, I won't!"

"Thin where's your restyushun?"

"Safe in me pocket."

"It's not money I'd be takin'," sez she, thinkin' I wuz 'bout to pay for the mischief dun her crops in dollars an' cents.

An' sez I: "I cou'dn't offer that same, be jabbers!"

She handed me a grate, roipe pear an' her purty w'ite fingers along wid it, an' I jist gathered the hull into me two stout fists.

"Let go my hand!" sez Nora, "an' tak' the pear loike a gintleman!"

"I'm not nadin' it!" croid I. "We're a pear alridy!"

"Yis," sez she, "fayther wud call us a pair of geese."

"I wudn't object so long ez Miss Nora O'Lane wuz wun of the flock," answers I, wid the rale dude gallantry, an' thin I kisses ivery wun of her fingers.

An' nary a bit wud she moind! So me bould arrum steals round her waist, loike 'the cap' or a climax, an' we stud fur a hull minit widout speakin' a loine.

"Misther Sheen," sez Nora at last, "I'm waitin' fur the restyushun you brot me."

An' wid that I grabs a bit of a box from me vist pocket.

It wuz full of a rale gold ring wot glim'd loike a sky star in the blissid Siptimber moonlight. An' quicker thin half of a minit 't wuz clapt on Nora's purty lift hand.

"It's a gold fince complete," sez I, "an' I've got ye safe on the inside, fur there's nary a bit or a bars."

CLEANING SILVER.

Valuable Suggestions on a Matter That Puzzles Many Housekeepers.

Every housekeeper has her own way of doing her housework, and the cleaning of silver is no exception to the rule. Some part of a day every week or every two weeks is set aside for this work, and no matter what may happen this is seldom neglected. All that in every-day use, and usually that which is used very little only on certain occasions, is taken out and given a thorough cleaning. If proper attention were given to the every-day care of silver, there would be no necessity of scouring it every week or even every two weeks. It does not improve silver in the end to clean it too often. If it is solid metal and you should like to pass it off as a family heirloom, by all means scour it as often as you can and wash it in soap suds, and in a short while, if it is of antique pattern, any one will readily believe that it belonged to your great-grandmother, and excuse its appearance by remarking: "They used a great deal of pewter in those days."

If it is plated, which is generally the kind most in use nowadays, the plate will wear off soon enough without any help from you in scouring.

Do not use the same towels you wipe your dishes with for the silver. The coarse crash, though very nice for crockery, is not fit for silver or glassware. The checked towel which comes especially for this work, and can be bought at any dry-goods store, is just the thing, and a half-dozen of these towels, at least, should be in every house. After each meal gather all the silver together, have ready a pan of hot water, in which put a little borax or a few drops of ammonia; into this put all the small silver and let it stand until you have all the things cleared away and are ready to wash the dishes. While going back and forth give the pan a shaking, now and then, so as to separate the silver and allow the water to get to every part of it. By the time the table is cleared the water will be cool enough to allow the removal of the silver without boiling the hands. Take out of the water and wipe it thoroughly dry. In the case of egg, acid fruit or vinegar stains it may be necessary to give stained articles a slight rubbing, but unless the stains are very deep the borax or ammonia will do the work of scouring and no rubbing is required. Silver treated in this way will not need to be cleaned more than once a month, and that it shall be cleaned as often as this will be at the option of the housekeeper. I have known silver that had been cared for as above to go for one year without a thorough cleaning, and then look brighter and nicer than that which had been cleaned every two weeks. When silver ice-water services and tea-sets are in constant use, each piece should be thoroughly washed once a week in hot borax or ammonia water, which will keep them brighter and nicer than frequent scourings would ever do. To be sure, the cream pitcher will have to have a daily washing the same as the small silver. When there is no ammonia or borax at hand use clear hot water. Never on any account use soap in the water unless you want your silver to lose its luster and look like pewter. In using the ammonia a half-teaspoonful to a large pan of water is plenty for a large quantity of silver, and usually a quarter of a teaspoonful is sufficient. It is with ammonia as with many other things, a little of it does a great deal of good, but a great deal of it may do more harm than good.

For the general cleaning use ammonia and whiting. This can be bought already mixed, or may be prepared at home by mixing in a dish ammonia and whiting to the consistency of cream. Make only a little at a time, as it dries very quickly. Have a large and a small piece of flannel, a piece of chamois and two tooth-brushes. With the small piece of flannel apply the mixture to the articles to be cleaned, rubbing but very slightly, as the mixture does the work with only slight assistance. Use one toothbrush for applying the mixture between the prongs of the forks and into all rough and chased work, and the other brush to remove it when dry. As each article is cleaned lay it aside without wiping until all are done. Commence with the first article cleaned and wipe thoroughly with the large piece of flannel, using the dry toothbrush for all chased work and crevices. When all are wiped well go over them again with the piece of chamois for a final polish.

Silver not in general use can be cleaned in this way, wrapped tightly in flannel, or that lacking, newspapers will do, packed away in a dry place, and when wanted taken out as bright and clean as on the day it was put away.—Boston Budget.

No Cause for Complaint.

"How are times, Uncle Jerry?" he asked an old colored whitewasher on the market yesterday.

"Very fa'r, sah—very fa'r."

"Then your business is rushing, eh?"

"Seems to be, sah. My wife has ained ober fo' dollars at washin' dis week, and de chill'en has picked up a suit of clothes an' a basket of vittles. I can't complain 'sah—can't complain."

—One bad example in a town is like a rat-hole through an earth dam.

—The 60,000,000 people in the United States consume weekly about 6,600,000 bushels of wheat, thus using up all but a small percentage of the crop. Europe needs about 25,000,000 bushels a week, or 1,300,000,000 bushels a year. The European yield in 1887 was about 1,200,000,000, so that there will be about 100,000,000 bushels to be supplied by other countries.

—Boston is at a loss to find a dumping-ground for the several hundred thousand cart loads of dirt that are annually gathered from her streets. Heretofore it has been deposited on the low land about the city, but this is now nearly all filled up. The sending of the dirt to the suburbs is considered out of the question, owing to the great expense attached.

—There is an exhibition in a Pittsburgh show window, an image which was dug up by a farmer who was plowing near Montgomery, Ala. It has a human head upon a bird-like body, with a fan-like, and is carved in stone. The face is purely Egyptian, and across the head is cast something resembling an amice, placed in such a manner as to leave the entire forehead revealed. The figure is 12 1/2 inches long and 9 1/2 inches high, and weighs 21 pounds.

—A new occupation recommended for semi-invalids by a Philadelphia writer is the making of artificial fish for fishing purposes. The tools required are a small pair of sharp scissors, a pair of spring pliers, a long pin, and a small piece of cobbler's wax. The materials are breast and tail feathers of fowls and game, with silver and gold tinsels, a little fine sewing silk of all colors, some Berlin wool, stained gut, and hooks of various sizes.

—Jack McCloy, the noted Niagara Falls guide, accomplished another of his daring feats recently by removing an advertising sign on one of the small islands above the falls which the reservation commission has long wanted removed. McCloy crept through the water that was rushing along at a twenty-five mile rate with the aid of a spike and rope to the island. It is stated that Jack will be presented with a medal for saving the lives of several persons by the Government.

—The introduction of the incandescent electric lamp has offered the means of providing the diver with a better illumination for his work under water without adding any great additional complication to his dress. By means of a small lantern screwed to the upper right-hole of the helmet a fifty-candle incandescent lamp can be carried in any way, which leaves the hands of the diver perfectly free and at the same time insures that the rays of light shall always follow the direction of his glances and fall upon his work. A powerful reflector concentrates the beam.—Public Opinion.

PEACE ON EARTH

Awaits that countless army of martyrs, whose ranks are constantly recruited from the victims of nervousness and nervous diseases. The price of the boon is a systematic course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the finest and most genial of tonic nervines, pursued with reasonable persistence. Easier, pleasanter and safer than to swash the victimizing department with pseudo-tonics, alcoholic or the reverse, bedrugging, nerve food, narcotics, sedatives and poisons in disguise. "Tired Nature's sweet restorer, balmy sleep," is the providential recuperant for weak nerves, and this glorious franchise being usually the consequence of sound digestion and increased vigor, the great stomachic which insures both is productive also of repose at the required time. WEAK LUNGS MADE STRONG.

Persons who stay indoors all the time and lean over a counter or a desk, sooner or later discover that their lungs are giving out. Editors are often thus afflicted. Erasmus R. Sutherland, editor of The Eastern State Journal, White Plains, New York, writes:

"I have used ALCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS in my family since 1868. In that year I had an attack of pneumonia from which I was not expected to recover. My lungs were left in a very weak state. I commenced using ALCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS, wearing them constantly three months, two on the breast and two on the back. The result was surprising, at least to me. The pains in my lungs had left me, and I felt like 'a giant refreshed with new wine.'"
