

Vancouver Barracks.

A car load of iron pipe has arrived over the O. R. & N., from Pennsylvania, to be used in constructing the system of water works for the garrison at Vancouver. This improvement by the government will be a serious blow to the city of Vancouver, as it will cut off a monthly income of $500 to the city. This establishment calls to mind the boycott which was inaugurated by the soldiers against the town some two years or more ago because of the shooting of a soldier by a private citizen. The soldier had just been paid off, and, imbibing too freely, started to go to a house where he was well acquainted, but made a mistake and got into the residence of a Mr. Connor, to whom he was almost unknown. In walking through the hallway he awakened the owner, who came down stairs and ordered the inebriated soldier out. The order was not obeyed, and the soldier, it is claimed, made an attempt to strike Connor, when the latter pulled a revolver and shot the drunken man.

This occurrence was looked upon by the soldiers of the garrison as an outrage, and led to the most rigid enforcement of military discipline by the officers. Connor would doubtless have been lynched by a mob.

Connor was acquitted of the charge of murder on the ground of justifiable homicide. This verdict enraged the soldiers against the business portion of the city and they concluded to withdraw their patronage from them. Consequently a store was put up at the garrison, known as the "Canteen," where the soldiers could buy anything they wanted excepting whisky. Considering that there are over 500 soldiers at the post, and their average pay is $15 per month, the discontinuance of their patronage so materially affected the town that several stores and a large number of saloons were forced to close.

The water works in question were begun about a month ago, although the artesian well on the hill back of the barracks was drilled much earlier. A large reservoir will be used, and will be kept filled with water by the use of a very powerful pump. About 2,000 feet of six inch main pipe will be laid with all the necessary branches and end pipes. The total cost is estimated at $25,000.
