"The Oregon Democracy."

The Democrats of Oregon have never objected to the Oregonian printing forgeries, and laying them at the doors of English papers, or of charging that the late lamented Andrew Jackson, who signed a radical bill...

A German Opinion.

The veteran Republican editor of the Chicago Staats Zeitung, recently said in an interview the following: "I begin to believe that the Republican party has outlived itself, and that after the election this Fall it will go to pieces..."

New York.

The Oregonian of Tuesday quotes the New York Tribune at length making, from that paper's standpoint, it appears that Harrison's chances for carrying New York was good. The N. Y. World, however, which generally is very reliable, says: "The Tribune is engaged in the easy work of carrying New York for Harrison..."

Sworn To.

Edward F. Gould, Secretary of an Indianapolis Lodge, K. of L., has sent to John C. New, who offered $2000 for this proof, an affidavit of Jacob Schwartz, which affirms that he heard Benj. Harrison say in 1877, that $1 a day was enough for a laboring man to live on...

President Cleveland on Monday affixed his signature to the Chinese Exclusion bill, which now becomes a law. Under its provisions no Chinese laborer can hereafter enter the United States. The Pacific Coast owes much to the President and the Democratic party for the passage of this measure...

The Examiner publishes the final official returns of the election in Maine, from which it appears that the Republican plurality is 18,655 as against a plurality of 19,709 four years ago, showing a net Democratic gain of 1654 votes. The prohibition vote four years ago was 1157 as against 3121 this year, showing a net prohibition gain of 1964...

The supplement that has been sent out by Democratic papers containing extracts from the Oregonian in favor of revenue reform from 1881 to 1887 is causing the versatile and flexible editor of that paper considerable worry and trouble...

Grover Cleveland in 3 1/2 years has signed nearly the same number of private pension bills as did the Republican presidents in the 16 years preceding. He vetoed the Disability Pension Bill, and so did Gen. Grant when he was President. M. S. Quay, Chairman of the National Republican Committee, himself a soldier, approved Cleveland's veto...

Newspaper estimates of the crowd attending the Blaine speaking in New York, vary: The highest is the Tribune's, 50,000, and the Times' the lowest, 8,000. Other estimates are: Sun, 30,000; Morning Journal, 25,000; World, 20,000; Herald, 15,000. The associated press bar said 100,000.

The British lion does not now mind having his tail twisted. It has been rejoined with a royal swivel in the middle and can be harmlessly done to a turn, serving at the same time considerable delight to the twister.

Rosee Conkling's opinion of James G. Blaine: "He has grown suddenly rich out of government jobs." This is the man Harrison would put at the head of his cabinet.

If Michigan is a sure Republican State why does Blaine go there to canvass it. The only other states he speaks in are the doubtful States of Connecticut, New York, New Jersey and Indiana.

In the city of Indianapolis, Ind., nearly 2,000 Union veterans belong to the Democratic Legion.

How it Works.

Albany, N. Y., Argus.

Farmers who are finding out how the tariff works, will find the following facts instructive: The Ames shovels, made in Massachusetts, are sold wholesale on the American side of the Rio Grande river for six dollars a dozen...

Dis-ton's saws, made in Philadelphia, we believe, are sold in Mexico at a discount of twenty per cent on the price in the United States.

American agate ironware is sold in Mexico at sixty per cent discount on the list price. The same ironware is sold in the United States at only thirty five percent discount.

Here is the testimony of the late President James A. Garfield, when a member of Congress: And I know, moreover, that for nearly two years the wholesale price of American salt in Toronto, Canada, was a dollar lower per barrel than the same salt was selling for on the New York side of the lake...

That is the manner in which this "blessed" tariff works. The farmers of the country will find it a queer and interesting thing to study.

Relieving the Rich.

That was a home thrust of Mr. Mills in his Brooklyn speech in which he enumerated the taxes removed from the rich by the Republicans and mentioned the burdens left upon the poor.

The taxes abolished by these professed guardians of workingmen included those on incomes, on railroads, on banks, on telegraph and express companies, on manufacturers (3 per cent), and on articles of import not produced in this country—chiefly luxuries.

These were all taxes on the rich. And the Republicans repealed them. More than 75 per cent of the existing tariff taxes are collected upon articles of universal necessity. The poor pay the same rate as the rich—a most unjust and oppressive arrangement.

A Free Trade Bill.

Last Tuesday a Republican Free Trade Bill was introduced in the Senate, and it is promised it will have the support of all Republicans in Congress. By it the duties on sugar and rice are cut down, in the interest of China, and numerous other cuts and a large free list, show that the Republicans are determined to ruin the country and perpetrate the laboring classes. The big reductions are made on luxuries, in the interests of the poor man, of course!

In Dunkirk, N. Y., forty-two Irish-Americans voted for Blaine four years ago. Now all but three of them belong to a Cleveland and Thurman club. In Buffalo Blaine received fully 600 Irish-American votes. Harrison, it is said, will not get fifty.

Give Them a Chance!

That is to say, your lungs: Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them. When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well. Call it cold, cough, croup, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you, you may depend upon this for certain.

The Lost Money Case.

The following is the syllabus in the case of Sovereign, app., vs. Yoran, resp., appeal from Lane; decided Tuesday Judge Lord rendering decision:

At common law the finder of lost property has a valid claim to the same against the world except the true owner and he was bound to hold it for the owner and was liable for misdelivery, but the provisions of our statute as to lost property have modified this rule.

Where money was found hid in the earth, and the surroundings evidence that it was intentionally deposited in the place found for safe keeping, but the defendant not knowing to whom it belonged, and there being no marks on it, or other indicia by which the owner could be known, and the defendant treated it as subject to the provisions of such statute: Held, that such money was not lost money, and not subject to distribution according to such statute.

Money or goods that are lost are the only kind that can be said to be found. It is property that the owner has involuntarily parted with, and not property that he has intentionally concealed in the earth for safe keeping.

It is not the purpose of our statute to treat money or goods hidden and found as lost property when the owner is unknown, but the statute is intended to apply only to what may be properly denominated lost property.

As the effect of the statute is to innovate the common law rule in destroying the title of the owner to lost property, after the lapse of a certain period, upon compliance with its conditions: Held, that it ought not, by construction or otherwise, to be extended to cases which do not come plainly within its purview, or other than those which upon the facts may be properly considered lost property.

Money or goods, when found, although the owner is unknown, which have been hidden in the earth by the owner for safekeeping, cannot be considered as property of which he has casually or involuntarily parted with the possession; or lost property to which the statute applies, and, in such case, if the finder undertakes to deal with it as lost property, his acts thereby will not impair or divest the title of the owner or defeat their rights to its recovery.

Where the defendant, after having pursued the mode prescribed by the statute for lost property to discover the true owner of money which had been found concealed in the earth under the floor of the barn for safe keeping, and such means failed to ascertain to whom such money belonged, and there being no marks on it to indicate its ownership, upon the assumption that the statute applied and that the finder would be liable to suit unless distributed according to its provisions, delivered it as therein prescribed: Held, that in doing this the defendant asserted no right or title of himself to the property or dominion over it, or assumed the right to dispose of the property by virtue of any claim of title over it, but that he acted in good faith upon the mistaken assumption that the law required him to do what was done, and was therefore not liable for conversion, and could not be prejudiced by the instruction complained of.
