PIONEER. A Missing Man.

The East Oregonian says: The many friends of Hon L. B. Rhinehart of Union county are anxious to the verge of distract tion over his continued disappearance and long silence, his wife and family being great-ly alarmed. Mr. Rhinehart left Union county six or eight weeks ago with a hand of cattle, intending to sell them in Eastern markets. When last heard from he was in Nashville, Tenn., and had not yet disposed of the stock. The last message received from him by his wife was dated a month ago, and since that time not a word can be learn ed concerning his whereabouts. Letters and telegrams have been sent in vain to the hotel in Nashville at which he was stopping, and his relatives and friends are wild with anxiety regarding him. Being of a free, frank, open and un-uspecting nature, it is beginning to be believed that he has been lured to his death for the purpose of robbery-that he fand sold the stock, the band being worth about $5,000, and obtained the money therefor, and that some villian or villians became aware that this large sum was in his posses sion, and murdered him for his money.

is more conjecture, however, although his disappearance can hardly be explained on any other hypothesis. It is sincerely hoped for the sake of his wife, family and friends, that he may yet return safe and sound.

> Prof. and Mrs. Condon went to Portland Friday morning, and the professor promised h a classes that they need not recite again until Tuesday. For some reason they re turned Saturday, and now the Prof. says that it is a poor welcome home he gets, to come and find every one wishing he had stayed and sorry to see him back.

> The last debate of the Eutaxians was on the question, "Resolved, that Raleigh's fate was justifiable." Affirmative, Elva Galloway, Emma Derris, Ansa M. Roberts; negative, Jessie Park, Ada Sharples, Nelli Snodgrass. After stating that it was the most equal debute she had ever been called on to decide, the chair rendered her decin-ion in favor of the affirmative.

The Eutaxian party given by Miss Sharples last Friday evening was a delightful af-fair as every one agreed. The girls began an impetus to genuine prospect work in that district. There are doubtless many more val uable ledges there, but a fittle picking on the surface is all that has been done to many of them. It requires that tunnels should be run and the mines opened before holders of ledges can expect any benefits.
