Arrival of Lobsters.
[Astorian, Jan. 22d.]
Thirty boxes of lobsters arrived yesterday morning from eastern waters. Of the thirty, twenty-seven were taken on the Gen. Canby in Pacific waters; two were sent to Shoal-water bay, and one to Gray's harbor. They were all sizes, some of the largest being a foot long, and having formidable claws. They were in moss and sea water from the Atlantic ocean, some of it after being brought across the continent being poured into the Pacific.
The lobsters are full of spawn, and if all goes well, we may, in the sweet bye and bye, have lobsters served up on Astoria tables in the highest style of culinary art.
Mr. Johnson, the gentleman now in charge of the lobsters, believes that there are about 200,000 lobsters in the lot, and that each lobster contains from 20,000 to 30,000 eggs. If each of these eggs should develop into a lobster, and say half of these lobsters should each produce 20,000 to 30,000 more eggs, and nature should take its course, the water would be stiff with lobsters in a comparatively short space of time.
The lobsters came from Wood Hole, Mass. They are original Yankee lobsters. In the same car with the lobsters came 5,000,000 white fish eggs, that is eggs that when mature, give rise to the celebrated white fish that are found in the great lakes. They are to be turned loose in various fresh water lakes in this section of the Union. Anybody who has a fresh water lake, and wants to stock it with genuine white fish will hear of something to his advantage by addressing Mr. Johnson who is at home in a big fish car sidetracked at Portland.

The Wrecked Steamer.
Yaquina Republican.
The Yaquina Bay is to be stripped of everything to her main deck. When the work of dismantling is finished, nothing will remain of her except the iron hull and her two iron decks. The machinery is all being taken apart so as to be removed with the least difficulty. When all stripped, the two holes in the bottom stopped up and her hatches closed, we believe a high tide will float off the hull. So far as can be seen her lines are as perfect as the day she went ashore. Two scoops of rock have been dumped in between the vessel and the jetty and she now rests firmly in a bed of rock and cannot move an inch more toward the jetty. Bob Campbell says he will save every bolt and pin of her machinery in perfect condition. The after cabin, staterooms, etc., have not been damaged a particle and are being taken down in sections this week. What disposition will be made of the hull we have not learned but presume it will be sold.
An agent of the foreign insurance companies, in which the steamer was insured, is now en route to this country from England, and that on his arrival a thorough investigation of the loss of the vessel will be made.

"Lish" Stopped at the Harem.
Al Zieber, the politician, was recently telling a crowd in Portland about a lecture Gen. E. L. Applegate delivered there once on a former "Lish" overheard the narration but preferred his own version of the incident. He said: "It was a good many years ago, d'ye see, when they were raising funds for the Portland library. The wise men and philosophers who were getting it up, d'ye see, engaged me to lecture. They agreed to pay me $100 an hour, d'ye see, and I was to speak for five hours for $500. I concluded to speak for two hours and a half each evening. The time arrived, d'ye see, and the lights of the Ori Fino shone over a throng of philosophers, wise and intelligent men, and the fairest and brightest ladies in the great metropolis of the Pacific Northwest. The subject of my discourse was 'The Koran and Mahomet.' This, d'ye see, took in a wide range of subjects, and of course I had to mention the harem which is spoken of in the Koran, d'ye see. Well, at the conclusion of my remarks on the first evening I got as far as the harem. In order to properly round off my remark I said, 'here I will stop for the night,' d'ye see. Well, do you know, that this innocent remark of mine just brought down the house. I thought the philosophers, the wise and intelligent men and the fairest and brightest ladies of the metropolis of the Pacific Northwest had gone crazy. It seemed to me, d'ye see, as if every one present had put on the cap and bells and was playing the fool over my innocent little remark. They roared, shouted, stamped and hooted like a lot of wild Indians, d'ye see."—Bandon Recorder.

PACIFIC TEA CO.

More Foreible Than Elegant.
The Astoria Pioneer thinks the Portland Oregonian is not favorable to the railroad through Salem and the rich valley intervening from the O. P. railroad to Astoria, consequently the Pioneer man feels constrained to express his feelings, which he does in the following emphatic style: "That ostentatious crank of the Oregonian is evidently worked up raw over the idea that Astoria is to have a railroad, despite his efforts to the narrow-minded business men of that inland seaport (?). He never loses an opportunity to give Astoria a stab. Never mind, Harvey, old boy, Astoria needs none of your assistance. She is going to have a railroad that will tap the rich and golden fields of Marion, Linn, Lane, Polk, Yamhill and Washington counties, and bring their gain right here to ship to all parts of the world."

Guying a Hotel Keeping Preacher.
Rev. J. R. N. Bell, clerk of the defunct railroad commission and editor of the Roseburg Review, is also one of the lessees of the Chemeketa hotel at Salem, and notwithstanding he announces to his guests that he has made arrangements with his partner to the effect that he receives no profit from the bar, the Governor's private secretary told him the other day that it was generally suspected that he transferred the bar gains to the wood account, and Siglin from Guos, horrified his reverence by stating in apparent seriousness: "Bell, it is admitted by members of this legislature—and they are all good judges—that you keep the worst whisky in the state.—Welcome."

The Government Wins.
The trial of the suit brought by the United States against J. W. Brasfield and Lydia Brasfield, to condemn certain lands at Yaquina Bay to the use of the government, was decided last week.
The jury remained out less than half an hour, and returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff, stipulating that the land should be condemned upon the payment to the Brasfields of $1450 and the costs of the trial, and the court gave plaintiff a judgment on the verdict. That the government got a good bargain is not disputed. Defendants asked $4,500 for the property, which sum the government engineers refused to allow. Now that the case is settled, work will be taken up and pushed vigorously ahead on the improvements.

A traveling man, stopping at the Lee House, Campbellsburg, Ind., on learning that a lady in the village was suffering terribly with cramp colic, gave the lady a bottle of medicine, which he had with him and requested her to take it to the sick woman. The medicine relieved her promptly and she believes saved her life. It was Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, the promptest and most reliable medicine in use for Bowel complaints. Sold by Osburn & Co.
Cholera Morbus is one of the most painful and dangerous diseases, many deaths resulting from it each year, usually because it is not properly treated. The most severe cases may be cured by using Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Sold by Osburn & Co.
Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was used with great success during our epidemic of bloody flux. I do not know of a case that was lost where this remedy was used. One of my friends, about six miles from here, had a child that was given up by the two doctors who attended it. He then used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and the child recovered. All who have used it speak of it in the highest terms. Wishing you abundant success for the good you are doing, I am, Very Truly Yours,—P. E. LAMENDER, P. M., Chestnut, Amherst Co., Va. Sold by Osburn & Co.

Give Them a Chance!
That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them. When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well. Call it cold, cough, croup, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or, any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of them. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boscher's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you, you may depend upon this for certain.

A Birdseye View of the World.
There is a widespread demand by all readers and students for a work that shall furnish compactly and attractively, all the essential facts and statistics of the different regions of the world, and the races that inhabit them. All this information has been industriously sought, carefully tested and proved and is brilliantly told in one handsome and handsome volume by Ouesime Reclus, the famous French geographer and savant.
The author has really succeeded to a surprising degree in accomplishing his purpose. It is a wonderful book and there is no other like it. It is just what its title represents it to be—a book all around the world—but it is the world seen through the eyes of the largest intelligence and described with inimitable vigor, freshness and picturesque grace, combined with studious and painstaking accuracy. The result is the story of the world. The more the volume is looked into the greater is the sense of its wide scope and its masterly preparation. Attractive reading for the family gathered around the evening lamp, it is also a handy book of immediate reference for the busy man who would illuminate his daily news with more accurate information.
In brief, a great deal of hard work, painstaking and skill have gone into the preparation of this volume; which is no ordinary penny concern—presenting a huddled mass of patch-worked facts to the innocent reader under the pretense of encyclopedic information. It is what it professes to be, a short view of all the peoples and countries under the sun, so arranged and digested that a great deal of useful and interesting knowledge is packed handily in a limited space. While a child would never tire of the fascination of the facts illuminated by 371 illustrations of which 99 are full page, the most thoroughly read man will find on every page something, the importance of which he never realized so fully as when a geographical expert presents it with scientific effect in attractive phraseology. The man who prepared this work is a genius in such efforts. There are no weak spots in it. The publishers have done their best for the mechanical parts of the work, and their enterprise leaves nothing to be desired in that respect.
The J. Desiring 813 Market St., San Francisco, Cal., are the sole agents for the work this side of the Rocky mountains and all applications for agencies should be addressed to them.
The highest cash price will be paid for wheat by F. B. Dunn.

Indians can't stand civilization. Some enemy of the Chemawa Indian school, near Salem, last week gave the Indian pupils enough money to buy instruments for a brass band. The first time they tried their tooters and things, Daniel Boone, in trying to learn the ophicleide, ruptured an artery in his abdominal throat and was buried next day. Another named Stumps, who monkeyed with the trombone, is dangerously ill with swelling of the larynx. The Indian brass band is all broke up.—Ea.
Hazen Hickley, 81 years old, had for several years been supported by Kleeckat county. He was very ill last month and it was decided to send him to his sons in Chicago, one of whom is worth $30,000. He met with a cold reception; he had no room for him. The old man was placed on a train and shipped back, broken hearted, to Goldendale. "The boys," the old man said, "seem to have forgotten the many long, hard days' work I did for them." He has since died.—Chehalis Vindicator.
