It shall be unlawful to sell, barter, trade, give, or in any manner furnish to any minor under the age of eighteen years, any tobacco, cigars or cigarettes in any form or any compound in which tobacco forms a component part, without written consent or order of such minor's parents or guardians, and when such minor has no parent or guardian, then in that case consent may be given by the county court, setting for the transaction of county business, upon proper application in the county in which said minor resides.
Sec. 2. Any person violating the provisions of this act shall, upon conviction, be fined the sum of not less than twenty dollars nor more than fifty dollars.
Sec. 3. Justices of the Peace shall have jurisdiction for all offenses arising under this act.

Give Them a Chance!
That is to say, your lungs: Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them. When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well. Call it cold, cough, croup, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you, you may depend upon this for certain.

What is It?
That produces that beautifully soft complexion and leaves no traces of its application or injurious effects? The answer, Wisdom's Robertine accomplishes all this, and is pronounced by ladies of taste and refinement to be the most delightful toilet article ever produced. Warranted harmless and matchless. F. M. Wilkins, agent, Eugene City.

The Teacher
Who advised her pupils to strengthen their minds by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, appreciated the truth that bodily health is essential to mental vigor. For persons of delicate and feeble constitution, whether young or old, this medicine is remarkably beneficial. Be sure you get Ayer's Sarsaparilla.
"Every spring and fall I take a number of bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and am greatly benefited." — Mrs. James H. Eastman, Stoneham, Mass.
"I have taken Ayer's Sarsaparilla with great benefit to my general health." — Miss Thirza L. Crerar, Palmyra, Md.
"My daughter, twelve years of age, has suffered for the past year from General Debility.

A few weeks since, we began to give her Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Her health has greatly improved." — Mrs. Harriet H. Battles, South Chelmsford, Mass.
"About a year ago I began using Ayer's Sarsaparilla as a remedy for debility and neuralgia resulting from malarial exposure in the army. I was in a very bad condition, but six bottles of the Sarsaparilla, with occasional doses of Ayer's Pills, have greatly improved my health. I am now able to work, and feel that I cannot say too much for your excellent medicine." — F. A. Pinkham, South Moluncus, Me.
"My daughter, sixteen years old, is using Ayer's Sarsaparilla with good effect." — Rev. S. J. Graham, United Brethren Church, Buckingham, W. Va.
"I suffered from

Nervous Prostration,
with lame back and headache, and have been much benefited by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I am now 80 years of age, and am satisfied that my present health and prolonged life are due to the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla." — Lucy Moffitt, Killingly, Conn.
Mrs. Ann H. Farnsworth, a lady 79 years old, So. Woodstock, Vt., writes: "After several weeks' suffering from nervous prostration, I procured a bottle of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken half of it my usual health returned."
The following from the pen of Mr. L. P. Bardwell, editor of the Marion, (Iowa) Pilot, will be of interest to many of our readers. He says: "It is with pleasure that I certify to the real merits of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I have used it in my family for years and have always found it most excellent, and especially for colds, croup and sore throat. It is safe and effective." For sale by Osburn & Co.

Another Railroad Scheme.
The Roseburg Review (the editor of which, having been a clerk of the board of railway commissioners in a position to get the inside railway news) contains the following important railway talk, in which Eugene is directly interested:
"A great many people speak loudly against railroads as monopolies, and in many instances it is only too true. We say give us a monopoly from here to Coos bay and we will promise not to 'kick' much. Mr. Pengra and others with whom we have talked recently have a proposition of this sort. Start at Ogden, thence on the Central Pacific route to Winnemucca, thence in a more westerly direction to Coos Bay via Roseburg or Drain, whichever is the most accessible, thence to Eugene City and by way of Salem, thence via Tillamook and the final point being Astoria. The gentlemen who have this project under consideration are not impracticable men, but men who know what they are doing. A part of this great coast system will be built at an early day we believe. From Coos bay, opposite Empire City or Marshfield, to the Siuslaw and thence to Eugene City will be built before you imagine. We got a peep under the curtain. The Eugene people are neither dead nor asleep. Now what is Roseburg going to do about a road to connect with the same? We had better look to our interest somewhat it seems to us. From New Orleans to Portland the great system of the S P was only by piecemeal. Give us a railroad to Coos bay.

Pesthouse and Poet.
The California Athens follows the example of its ancient prototype in at least one respect—it is ungrateful to its benefactors. Joaquin Miller settled in Oakland and threw himself into the life of his adopted home with poetical enthusiasm. He praised the place in print and in speech. He was always foremost in projects for its adornment. Recently he gave it fifteen acres of his cherished land, earned by hard brain toil, for a park.
Just after this last act of benevolence, Oakland repaid Mr. Miller's generosity by deciding to put a pesthouse just back of his place, where it would ruin the value of his property, both as an investment and as a home. The poet is naturally hurt. If they are going to put the pesthouse there he says they might as well put it in his front yard, and has offered five acres of his best land for the purpose.

A Roseate View.
Oregonian: One of these days the history of the Sautian mines will be written up, and there will be a strange tale of early discoveries, and how far back as 1860, people went into the mountains prospecting and that in the summer of 1865 Amos McDonald, a Scotchman, made the astonishing discovery of the White Bull ledge. How companies incorporated to build roads, sawmills, and set up and operate a quartz mill, and that it proved that their discoverer lit upon a "chimney," very rich in gold, but the main ledge did not pay. Then the mountains were abandoned, and for years nothing was done. In the course of time other prospectors and workers went there, and work recommenced, and at length good mines were found, and the enterprise of the faithful was rewarded. About the year 1900 there will be live towns planted in those mountain gulches, railroads will reach them, and there will be the everlasting din of machinery pounding and grinding all through the twentieth century, cleaning up millions of treasure. People will wonder how it ever was that so many years passed and so many prospectors could find nothing, when the mountains were fairly alive with treasure. There has been a great deal of prospecting done on the headwaters of all the streams that put into the Willamette from the Cascades, and it is well known that gold, silver, lead, copper and iron exist there in abundance. In course of time there will be better reduction methods and the Cascades mountain mines will do a good part for the future of our state.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.
Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP, for children teething, is the prescription of one of the best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and has been used for forty years with never-failing success by millions of mothers for their children. During the process of teething its value is incalculable. It relieves the child from pain, cures dysentery and diarrhoea, griping in the bowels, and wind colic. By giving health to the child it rests the mother. Price 25c a bottle.

Plea for the Public Schools.
Critique the public schools as we please, we are obliged to own, after investigation, that they offer to every child who enters them certain advantages which no private wealth can buy. In our cities and large towns they are, to begin with, as clean as the decks and cabin of a man-of-war. Every child who enters them learns, so far as the school room influence goes, habits of neatness, method, decorum and punctuality—points of training hardly to be surpassed in their importance, not only for the mental, but for the moral nature. When I enter such a school room, and come upon fifty little people marching in procession to or from their seats, obedient to the wave of a finger from the resolute youth or maiden who has them in charge and when I reflect that all across the continent, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, this same process is going on, then that modest teacher's work rises to sublimity, and seems one among innumerable shuttles that are together weaving the vast web of a new generation.—Harper's Bazar.

That Horrible Narrow Gauge.
Of all the railroads in this wide world, that narrow gauge up the country takes the banner. From Portland to Dunbar the road is in very good condition; but from there on south no better description could be given than that expressed by the fellow who said it "consisted of a few pieces of rust and a right of way." May the good Lord deliver any other section from such a calamity. Nine hours to run 60 miles.—Astoria Transcript.

THE PRETTY LADY CLERKS.—Some of the most beautiful and pleasant features of the last session of the legislature were those of the lady clerks. They added vivacity to the session, and ornamented the corridors and committee rooms—some of them were things of beauty or joys forever, or words to that effect. They came high but the whole had to have them or at least thought so. But some of the most charming of them raised the very old Harry with a number of bills. The enrolled bills, which will become laws, are many of them, full of glaring clerical errors, that will cause no end of annoyance. For instance, the legislature amended the law in regard to health officers, in order to locate a new one at Yaquina bay, and attempted to leave the old one at Coos Bay, and made it read Coos Bay. The lady clerks so far as their ability to earn their pay from the state was concerned, were for the most part dead failures. It will pay all future sessions of the legislature to hire competent clerks and pay them good wages. It can be done at about one-third the expense incurred for clerk hire by the late session.—Steelman.

Litchfield, Ill., was wonderfully excited last week over an occurrence that for a time was so inexplicable as to border on the supernatural. In boring for gas the heavy drill caught at a depth of 300 feet. After some work it was released, and when brought to the surface it was covered with blood. The amazed drillers instinctively leaned over the hole. They heard a dull rumbling noise, and presently heard a sepulchral voice calling out to them, "You have killed somebody down here." The horror-stricken men fled. They spread the news and the town was turned upside down in an hour. Hundreds went to the well and gazed open-mouthed at the bloody drill and the mysterious cavity it had made. Not until late in the evening was the mystery solved by the presentation of a bill for $50 by the Litchfield Coal Co. "for one mile killed by 'the drill.'" The explanation was simple. The coal company's mine extended under the gas company's territory, and their best mine had been in the way of the drill when it had pierced the roof of a branch of the mine and was killed.

A RARE RELIC.—Col. Kelsey showed us the other day a continental bill of the United States of the denomination of one dollar, says the Benton Leader. It has the imprint of the printer who printed it. It was issued in 1779. It has on it the motto in Latin, "ant mors aut decora vita," which means "either death or an honorable life." The colored thought he had lost the bill, as it had been laid among some papers. It is worth more than the dollar which it calls for. One a most wishes it could talk. What a story it could tell of the dark days when it circulated among the fathers of the republic.

Another white girl has married a full-blooded Sioux Indian, and will compete with Cora Bellow Chaska as a dime museum attraction. The latest "frank" is named Gertrude Britton, and she was a seamstress at the Yankton agency in Dakota. Her copper-colored lips bore the name of Wellington. After all there is nothing surprising in a Britton admiring a Wellington.

It is estimated that the public debt statement will show an increase in the debt for the current month of $7,000,000, caused by the excess of expenditures over receipts. And yet our contemporaries contend that Congress can go on indefinitely making all sorts of new appropriations without nearing the bottom of the surplus.—Ex.

At a recent Farmers' Institute meeting in Illinois, the committee on resolutions presented in effect the following: That the natural sciences are so involved in agriculture as to indicate a manifest prosperity in making them a part of our common school education.

Hiram Mitchell, son of Senator Mitchell, is dangerously ill at Washington with typhoid fever and his condition is such as to give considerable uneasiness to his family.

The paper mache ceiling in the assembly rooms at Albany, N. Y., cost the state $110,000 more than it ought, through a clause smuggled into the contract.

Addition to Springfield.
Kelly's addition to Springfield is now upon the market, and persons desirous of purchasing lots, blocks or larger tracts of from five to forty acres, can be accommodated at low prices and upon liberal terms. The object is more to build up and settle the locality than to skin the emigrant or purchaser. This is a most desirous tract of land, and for richness of soil, business facilities and all other advantages which go to build up a prosperous community, is not excelled by any location in the state of Oregon.
