

THE EUGENE CITY GUARD.

SATURDAY, MAY 4, 1889.

"America for Americans."

It is quite interesting to note the revival of the Knownothing sentiment in the Republican party.

It was only last week that Bishop Newman, a prominent Republican, compared the European immigrant unfavorably with the negro of the South. Last Tuesday at Chicago Republican Justice Miller of the United States Supreme Court delivered an address, bitterly abusing him. The San Francisco Chronicle a few days ago editorially asserted that our country was filled up and that it was time for the country to stop immigration here.

Quicker than was expected the Republicans rally to the knownothing motto, unfurled by the Republicans of Eugene last Fall, "America for Americans."

Did Not Know It Was Loaded.

The last Legislature passed the Portland charter without a thorough examination. It now turns out that it continues the present board of police commissioners indefinitely. The Sunday Welcome says:

And now it is discovered that a villainous conspiracy against the elective rights of our citizens was perpetrated at Salem in the last days of the legislative session, and as usual, the simple, guileless, innocent legislators who voted it, "didn't know it was loaded," and are now greatly exercised at the ridiculous plight they are in to answer to their constituents for their reusancy and want of ordinary common sense. They have conspicuously advertised themselves as floundering heads, and Mr. Joseph Simon, who set the trap for his credulous game, is laughing in his sleeve at their squirming out of a position his tough-headed conscience does not permit him for perpetrating. When a party in power sends its attorney at a railroad company as well as the recognized head of all the political chicanery for his party, to the legislative halls to make laws for the people, it should be understood and recognized that his first duty is to his employers, and that is why it was impossible to effect needed legislation in railroad matters at this session of the Legislature. He paid attorneys in places of power stood in the way; and that is also why the machinery to hold the future elections in the hollow of his hand was smuggled through in the innocent-looking amendments which our innocent legislators now discover with horror; they didn't know it was loaded.

Old Age with Sorrow.

That was an affecting incident in Washington the other day when Pension Commissioner Tanner received the resignation of General Sigel. Tanner said he remarked "how General Sigel's horse had splashed mud over me as I stood in the ranks and he galloped along the line with his splendid staff, and here he was a broken old man, offering me his resignation." And who does not sympathize with the gallant soldier who, in his old age, finds his life embittered by the dishonorable conduct of his son? The old soldier, having first demonstrated that his own integrity stands unimpaired, has handed in his resignation as pension agent in New York City, and seeks in retirement a refuge for his grief and gray hairs.

Washington's Relatives.

From the various lists of descendants of the Washington family, both living and dead, that have recently been published, it is shown quite conclusively that whatever debt the nation owes to the Father of his Country at the beginning of the century has at least been partially redeemed by the Government's liberality to his relatives in every branch of the family.

Those who have enjoyed the honors and emoluments of office are legion, and in no lines of service has this been made more conspicuous than in the army and navy. The Washingtons, Lewises and Lees have been military names for nearly a century. Thirty years ago there were no less than four Washingtons in the army, and two of them were Colonels, one being lost in 1858 in the steamer San Francisco.

But the navy was the favorite branch of service for the house of Washington. If one could pick out half a dozen captains and commanders who were connected with the family, the Washingtons, Kennons, Parkers, Lewises, Berks, Marstons—all Virginians—were doubtless among those who married the sisters and cousins of the Father of his country.

Another lesson in "protection." Senator McMillan, of Michigan, has a large establishment for the construction of freight cars at Detroit. A suggestion comes from influential quarters at Washington that import duty should be charged on Canadian-built freight cars coming into this country over Canadian railroads. It is estimated that there are 3500 such cars in use on our railroads.

Senator McMillan wants them sent back and replaced with cars from his shops. Should he succeed in his "protection" designs, Canada, will, doubtless, levy duty on American-built cars, and the commerce between the two countries will be again obstructed. Great is "protection," especially in United States senators.

Class Spreckle's beet sugar factory, at Watsonville, Cal., was in operation sixty-one days last year, consuming 14,677 tons of beets, and producing 1640 tons of sugar. It paid an average price of $5.04 per ton for beets; the cost of manufacturing the 1640 tons of sugar was $148,247, and the sale of the product brought $172,817, making a net profit of $24,570, or 15 per cent on the capital invested. The factory, during its operation, gave employment to 130 men. Its capacity has since been doubled. The farmers who sold the beets are reported to have cleared from $40 to $45 an acre for their crop.

The great salt tract, which is being organized, with $10,000,000 capital, for the purpose of controlling all the salt works in the United States, is another of those private enterprises which were so ably championed by Mr. Blaine in the last presidential campaign. Those private enterprises appear to be multiplying under this beneficent "protection" administration. When all the necessities of life are thus controlled, the people will be able to appreciate, to the fullest extent, the blessings of republican policy.

The "Twentieth Century" pertinently remarks that it is a very absurd thing for Mr. Andrew Carnegie to be exclaiming against "monopoly." The man who makes a million and a half out of his workman's labor, and while doing so reduces their wages, is well qualified to read lectures upon "monopoly" and its grasp upon workmen.

Patrick McGinnis, the Grant County Murderer, Hanged.

CASTON CITY, April 26.—The Grant County News' special edition gives the following account of the execution of Patrick McGinnis:

To-day Patrick McGinnis, who murdered Deputy Sheriff Robert Lockwood, expired his crime on the gallows. He maintained the coolness and nerve which has characterized his actions since his capture and conviction, and during the past few days of his life when certain doom was staring him in the face, not a tremor, nor trace of remorse or fear of death was visible on his countenance, and in the hour of his death his indifference did not forsake him.

One o'clock P. M. was the hour named in the death warrant for the execution, and when the hour drew nigh, the prisoner, with all shackles removed, in company with the sheriff and deputies and Rev. Father Henrich, of Baker City, proceeded to the scaffold at the rear of the jail. Those who expected to see McGinnis display weakness were disappointed, for instead of being assisted to mount the stairs, he stepped in advance of the guards and bounded up the steps as though eternally young for years removed, and not for only a few short minutes.

Upon being asked by Sheriff Gray if he had anything to say, he protested his innocence and declared that he was not the murderer of Robert Lockwood. His hands were strapped to his sides, his feet secured, the nose adjusted and the black cap drawn over his face, when after a short prayer by the priest, the soul of Patrick McGinnis was launched into the great world beyond, where, if guilty, his protestations of innocence only increase his condemnation. The drop was sprung at 1:15, and in twenty minutes Dr. Leisley and Scott pronounced life extinct, and the body was lowered and placed in the coffin. The victim's neck was not broken, but death was caused by strangulation, although not a movement or struggle was perceptible at any time.

Junction City News.

[Pilot, May 3d.] Mrs J. A. Casteel is quite sick. Junction is awaiting the building of water works. E. Holt, late of the C. P. R. R., is now section foreman.

The Board of Trade had a lively meeting this week.

The condition of Judge G. S. Washburne remains unchanged.

The inaugural centennial was observed with proper ceremonies.

I. A. Mills has been acting as editor of the Pilot during Mr. McCollum's absence.

Grand Master E. L. Smith will organize a lodge of A. O. U. W. here on May 4, 1889, at 8 P. M.

On last Tuesday afternoon, Grandmother Millen received a severe shock of paralysis while sitting on the porch listening to the inaugural exercises, which rendered her perfectly helpless. Grave doubts are entertained as to her recovery, as she is now about 78 years of age. This (Thursday) morning she is no better.

A FAVORABLE OPINION.—Mr. Alexander Mackay, attorney of the liquidator of the Oregonian Railway Company, has returned from a trip of inspection over the line of the company, and found the road in fair condition: bridges, trestles and ties in good order. He thinks the Willamette valley a most charming section of country—a regular garden, but capable of considerable development, especially in the foothills. He considers the great need of the valley is more population, and was pleased to find in every district new people coming in and settling on small tracts cut off the large farms. After seeing the territory through which the narrow gauge roads run, he has a higher opinion of the value of them and is still inclined to be in a hurry about advising the stockholders to dispose of their property at any sacrifice.—Oregonian, May 1.

SCHOOL REPORT.—The following is a true report of school in district No. 68, for the month ending April 26, 1889. Attendance good. Those not absent a day are: Glen and L. Powers, Sallie, Robbie and Ivis Sims, Rena and I. S. Sims, Alvin, Bird and Artie Beknap, and Desie Dresler. Ola Rabb, Teacher.

Can you imagine any ailment that will make a good natured person so peevish, disaffected, ill tempered and cranky as biliousness? There is no reason, whatever, why any one should suffer from Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver and Loss of Appetite, when Dr. Henry's Dandelion Tonic, which every one knows is a certain cure, can be so easily secured. Sold by druggists.

How often do we hear our friends say: "Oh, I am feeling pretty well but have a pain in the back that I suppose will soon be away." But does it pass away? No, not often, unless assisted by some good remedy. Pain in the back is frequently followed by weakness, flushing of the body, mucous and milky discharges, eruptions on the face and neck, dizziness, loss of appetite, general debility and Bright's Disease of the kidneys. If you have any of these symptoms do not delay but save time, money and health by using Oregon Kidney Tea. It is a safe and speedy remedy.

Ladies, do not ruin your complexion by the use of poisonous cosmetics and face powders. If your face is red or sunburned, if you are so unfortunate as to have blotches or pimples on the neck and face, Dandelion Specific will not only cure them like a coat of paint but will most effectively remove all blemishes from the skin and restore it to its natural youthful bloom.

Penleton, Oregon, January 12. Having suffered with my kidneys I was induced to try Oregon Kidney Tea which relieved me in a short time. I take pleasure in recommending it to the public as a safe remedy for kidney difficulties. GEO. W. BALEY.
