WHAT IS IT?—A gentleman claims to have seen a singular-looking monster on the other side of the river, opposite the west end of Skinner's butte, the other day. He described it as about four feet in length, with a blackish scaly skin across like a snake, and a belly like a lizard. It had short flippers, with feet the size of a small hand, and in traveling went part of the time on its feet, then crawled like a snake. It had a large mouth. When pursued it went into a hole. We do not vouch for the truth of the story, but the narrator is a reliable, sober man, and is not addicted to the use of the stimulant that is said to be productive of snakes of extraordinary shapes, colors and fancies.

NEW MEAT MARKET.—Note the ad. of Boehm & Brandner, of the new meat market on the corner of Eighth and Olive streets. They have had large experience in the business, especially in the making of all kinds of sausages. The best of beef, mutton, pork, etc., kept constantly on hand.

The picnic at this place on the 15th ultimo, was a decided success. A large number of people from far and near were in attendance and everything went smoothly and to the satisfaction of all present. Several short and pointed speeches were made, and excellent vocal music furnished.

A HUNDRED YEARS OLD.—J. R. Syton, of Polk county, is perhaps the oldest man in Oregon. His hair is white with the snow of many a winter; if he lives until September 26th, he will be one hundred years old. His mind is clear and his memory remarkably good. He rises early and gets the beauty and freshness of the morning; his time is spent mostly in reading and walking. Lane county's oldest citizen is 87 years old. His name is Hosea Brown and he lives in Siuslaw precinct.

PATRIOTIC POETRY.—A gentleman by the name of J. B. Hughes, afflicted with the poetic fever, writes from Albany to the Editor of the Register, enclosing a copy of the Fourth, offering a poem of twenty stanzas, to be read as part of the exercises, and incloses the first and tenth stanzas as samples. Mr. Hughes has mistaken his calling. He should take a flask of fish bait and go fishing on the Fourth instead of endeavoring to make men desperate and bloodthirsty with his poetry.

Personal.

W. A. Potter went to the Siuslaw Thursday morning. L. Billy attended circuit court at Albany this week. Mrs. Wesley Shannon is on a visit to Marion county. O. W. Hurd, of Florence, visited Eugene this week. D. E. Rice returned from a trip to Portland Tuesday. Leo Gerhart spent several days in Corvallis this week.

Healthful Summer Resorts. We can heartily and truthfully endorse what the Prineville News of a recent issue says of the splendid summer resorts at the hot springs and vicinity on the McKenzie. The news says: Mr. R. Graham, who returned this week from the region of hot springs across the Cascades, says that the lava bed crossing on the McKenzie route is in excellent traveling condition, the company having put it in good repair for the accommodation of all who may wish to cross the mountains by that route.

Eugene as Seen by the Benton Leader. The editor of the Benton Leader visited Eugene last week, and writes home to his enterprising journal as follows: "I arrived in Eugene at 10 P. M. The commencement exercises of the State University were in progress during my stay there, and were largely attended. The exercises were all very fine. There were four graduates this year, two gentlemen and two ladies. There is one thing that is particularly noticeable about the city of Eugene, and that is the fine condition of the streets. There is no filth about the city, no stagnant pools of water, no rubbish piled up in the alleys, but everything is nice and clean. There are a great many elegant residences, lawns and handsome business houses, which are a credit to the city. In the afternoons the streets are alive with fine carriages, bugles and gaily-dressed people, giving it a city air. Eugene is very much in need of a new court house and public hall, which, they say, will be built in the near future. Sunday, I, in company with several others, ascended the high butte near the city, upon which is built the observatory for the students of the University. From this point you have a grand view of the city and surrounding country. I should like to have gone into the observatory and examined the telescope, but found the door locked and had to content myself with walking around it and gazing upward, wondering how the brick and cemented, and the appearance of stone. Upon this hill is a very large reservoir of water, which supplies the city by means of numerous pipes through which the water is carried. The water is pumped from the river by a large engine into the reservoir. I have told how the water got in."

USELESS ELEPHANTS.—The elephants belonging to Self's circus became so unruly after the performance at Corvallis Thursday evening that their keeper could not get them back on the cars. After trying all arts of persuasion on them, they succeeded in getting three of them aboard, but the two largest ones would not succumb, and their keeper was compelled to walk with them to Independence. The elephants must have got "stuck" on the town and wanted to remain.—Benton Leader.
