

SMALL INVENTIONS.

Tires which enriched those who first recognized their utility.

The New Jersey man who hit upon the idea of attaching a rubber erasing tip to the end of lead pencils is worth $50,000.

The miner who invented a metal rivet or eyelet at each end of the mount of coat and trousers pocket to resist the strain caused by the carriage of pieces of ore and heavy tools, has made more money from his letters patent than he would have made had he struck a good vein of gold-bearing quartz.

Every one has seen the metal plates that are used to protect the heels and soles of rough shoes, but every one does not know that within ten years the man who hit upon the idea has made $250,000.

A large sum was also enjoyed by the inventor who invented the inverted glass bowl to hang over gas jets to protect ceilings from being blackened by smoke.

The inventor of the roller skate has made $1,000,000, notwithstanding the fact that his patent had nearly expired before the value of it was ascertained in the craze for roller skating that spread over the country a few years ago.

The gimlet-pointed screw has produced more wealth than most silver mines, and the Connecticut man who first thought of putting copper lips on the toes of children's shoes is as well off as if he had inherited $1,000,000.

The inventor of the automobile who had inherited $1,000,000, but who has been so successful in his inventions, has had an income of $10,000 a year from his invention.

A minister in England made $50,000 by inventing an odd toy that danced by winding it with a string.

The man who invented the return ball, an ordinary wooden ball, with a rubber string attached to pull it back, made $1,000,000 from it.

The person who invented the most recent popular toy, "Pigs in Clover," will be rich before the leaves turn this autumn. He was poor last November.

THE HOME BROKEN UP.

A story that may be duplicated in every Great City of the Land.

If you want to get an idea of the number of people who are at work down-town—men, women, boys and girls—take your stand any evening at the intersection of Washington and State streets, from which point more street cars pull out than any other in the city. The stream of humanity seems endless. Each hurrying home, and each apparently happy that the day's work is done. I stood there the other evening watching the hurrying throng, when a boy about fifteen years old, with his tin lunch-box, was passing. I thought I knew him, and spoke his name. He turned back and looked at me under the gas-light.

"You don't know me?" I asked. He said he didn't, but when I told him my name he said, "O yes," in his boyish way, and offered his hand. I had not seen him for six years. When I last knew him he was one of a family of three children; his father was a prosperous merchant, and his mother was a woman of culture and devoted to her home, which was as pretty as a picture.

"Where is your father?" I asked. "He's living out in the country; he is not doing anything now."

CURRENT SUPERSTITIONS.

Information Obtained from Old Women in Countries Near and Far. The funeral procession must not cross a river.

The last name a dying person calls is the next to follow. A dish-cloth hung on a door-knob is a sign of death in a family.

The corpse must not pass twice over any part of the same road. To dance on the ground indicates disaster or death within a year.

Whoever works on a sick person's dress he or she will die within a year. If a hoe be carried through a house some one will die before the year is out.

Whoever sits at a table the one who rises first will not live through the year. The person on whom the eyes of a dying person last rest will be the first to die.

Whoever counts the carriages at a passing funeral will die within the year. To break a looking-glass is a sign of death in the family before the year closes.

If three persons look at the same time into a mirror one will die within the year. The clock should be stopped at the time of death, as its running will bring ill luck.

If one dies, and no rigor mortis ensues, it indicates a speedy second death in the family. If a bear is drawn by two white horses death in the neighborhood will occur in a month.

It is unlucky in a funeral for those present to retrace the house where death has occurred. If rain falls on a new-made grave there will be another death in the family within the year.

If the grave is left open over Sunday another death will occur before the Sunday following. To keep the corpse in the house over Sunday will bring death in the family before the year is out.

It is unlucky to pass through a funeral, either between the carriages or the files of mourners on foot. If rain falls into an open grave another burial in the cemetery will occur within three days.

At a funeral entering a church before the mourners means death to some of the entering party. To put on a bonnet or hat of one in mourning is the sign that you will wear one before the year is out.

If any one comes to a funeral after the procession starts another death will occur in the same house. In Switzerland, if a grave is left open over Sunday, it is said that within four weeks one of the village will die.

If, during sickness, a pair of shears be dropped in such a manner that the point sticks into the floor, it indicates the death of the sick person. When a woman who has been sewing puts her thimble on the table as she sits down to eat, it is a sign that she will be left a widow if she marries.

A common saying in England is: "Happy is the corpse the rain falls on." This belief exists also in the United States. Thus it is said that if rain falls at the time of the funeral it is a sign that the dead has gone to Heaven.—Chicago Mail.

The Carpet Moth. Several Methods of Attacking and Destroying This Household Pest. Where carpets are used and only taken up once a year at "house-cleaning," the conditions are very favorable for the carpet bug's increase, particularly where the house-cleaning is hurriedly done. When a house has once become infested, nothing but the most energetic measures will completely rid it of the pest, and in complete riddance is the only hope, as in a year a very few individuals will so increase as to do great damage. At house-cleaning time then, as many rooms should be hared at once as possible, and the house-keeper should go carefully over the rooms, removing all dust, and with a hand-atomizer charged with benzine should puff the liquid into all the floor cracks and under the baseboards until every crevice has been reached. The carpets themselves, after thorough beating, should be lightly sprayed with the same substance, which will quickly evaporate, leaving no odor after a short time. The inflammability of benzine should be remembered, however, and no light should be brought near it. This done, before relaying the carpets, it will be well to pour into the cracks a moderately thick mixture of plaster of Paris and water, which soon sets and fills them with a solid substance into which the insects will not enter. Then lay around the borders of the room a width of tarred roofing-paper, and afterward relay the carpets. This thorough treatment should answer in the very worst cases, and in a house so cleaned the insect will probably not regain a foothold during the ensuing year. Cloth-covered furniture which may have also become infested should be steamed or also treated with benzine, and chests or drawers in which infested clothing has been stored should be thoroughly sprayed.

Another method of treatment consists in laying a damp cloth (an old towel or a folded sheet will do) smoothly over the suspected part of the carpet, and ironing it with a hot iron. The steam thus generated will pass through the carpet and kill all the insects immediately beneath. If not too laborious, an entire room could be treated to advantage in this way.—Good Housekeeping.

First citizen—A rat was the last measure passed by the Legislature; do you know? Second citizen—Yes, I do. Happened to be in the gallery at the time. It was a quart measure filled with beer.—Burlington Free Press.

Every bicyclist should use his personal influence to secure good roads, but his duty does not require him to get off his wheel over the handles and smooth the highway down with the back of his neck.—Somerville Journal.

The Seattle Fire

Clearly demonstrated the convenience of having a Complete Printer's Warehouse near at hand. In twenty-four hours after the conflagration, Palmer & Rey, of Portland, had a "Control" Press on the ground for the publication of the various newspapers and the following day furnished 4000 pounds of Roman Type, together with cases, stands, stones, proof-presses, rules, etc., and some 200 fonts of advertising type. In addition to this material, they have since furnished the Times Publishing Co. with a Double Cylinder Press, with two folders, and 10 Horsepower Engine and Boiler, also complete press of News, Advertising Type, etc., and other papers complete outfit.

The Post-Intelligencer Publishing Co. purchased of them an improved "A-1" Perfecting press, which will turn out 24,000 copies of their paper per hour. Hereafter the Post-Intelligencer will stereotype their forms, as do all the mammoth dailies in the East.

All the first-class job offices placed their orders with Palmer & Rey, and have received the bulk of their goods, comprising in part, 2 Air-Spring, 4000 lb. 2-revolution Pony Campbells, five Cal. Reliable Gordons, two Cal. Reliable Pony Cylinders, several cutters—Palmer & Rey make, and Excelsior Engine and Boilers and a full line of the latest Job face of Type and material.

The feeble tremble before opinion, the foolish defy it, the wise judge it the skillful direct it. Disarming an Unseen foe. "This was sometimes a paradox," as Hamlet says, "since, to seem is often to be."

Humility is most serviceable as an undergarment, and should never be worn as an overcoat. The "Goss" Perfecting Press. Has been selected by the Post-Intelligencer Co., of Seattle, in preference to all other well-known presses, and they have ordered one of Palmer & Rey, Portland, and will hereafter print all the forms at the rate of 24,000 copies per hour. George Augustus Sala. English writer, on his last Australian trip, wrote as follows to The London Daily Telegraph: "I especially have a pleasant remembrance of the ship's doctor, a very experienced maritime medic indeed, who ten years ago most kindly during a horrible sea sickness and spasmodic asthma, provoked by the sea fog which had swooped down on us just after we had left San Francisco. But he doctor's prescriptions and the increasing warmth of the temperature as we neared the Tropics, and, in particular, a couple of ALCOCK'S PORT'S PLASTER'S clapped on one of the chest and another between the shoulder-blades—soon set me right."

The Seattle Fire. Proved that Palmer & Rey had the only stock in the Northwest. They supplied all the newspapers and job plants which were burned out.
