The Strongest Claim to Office.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.
Within a week W. H. Edwards, of Ohio, a chum of Walker Blaine, has been appointed Consul-General at Beijing; William Harrison Bradley, of Illinois, a relative of the reigning family, has been appointed Consul at Nanking; William F. Grinnell, a brother-in-law of Vice President Morton, has obtained the Manchester Consulate, worth somewhere between $30,000 and $50,000 a year, and Private Secretary Hal-ford's brother-in-law has been appointed Postmaster at Champaign, Ill. Missouri office-seekers are deficient in what seems to be the principal qualifications for office under the present Administration. They are not akin to the right persons.

Free Business Wealth.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.
Is it not remarkable that Great Britain, after having suffered for years under the ruinous disadvantages of free competition and free trade with manufacturing countries, do not pay one-fourth of the English wages, should have so much capital to invest in American securities and industries? Republican editors who are howling about the horrors of Free Trade should bring their intellects to bear on this question.

The people on the Isthmus do not view with complacency the rival Nicaragua canal project, and are starting rumors that the people will oppose its construction by force of arms. These rumors, investigation has demonstrated, are absolutely without foundation. There is no reason why the Costa Ricans should oppose the project. On the contrary they have the same reasons for favoring it that the people of the Isthmus had for looking with complacency on De Lesseps' exploded scheme. The large expenditures of money for labor, and the canal traffic which will pass through the canal, when completed, will greatly promote the prosperity of the Central American states.

The Rev. Dr. Cleveland, of Indianapolis is a relative of President Harrison's predecessor. The broad-minded divine recently astonished his congregation by the following words: "In the ninth and tenth years of my ministry I was the pitcher of a baseball club in the State of Delaware, and while acting in that capacity I never discovered that I was doing a wicked thing, nor did any of my congregation ever criticize me for my action. There are religious people in this city who are so peculiarly religious that if they could denounce the popular amusements they would lose half their occupation and all their religion. May we have common sense enough to increase the number of our holidays?"

A tabulated statement shows eight railroads sold under foreclosure in the first six months of 1889. These roads represent 1,575 miles, $48,399,000 of funded debt and $44,274,000 of capital stock. Eight roads have also passed into the hands of receivers with a mileage of 3,690 miles, $66,438,000 of funded debt and $50,112,000 of capital stock. When will Mr. Harrison proceed to invoke the good times which were promised when he was elected President?

The Baptist State missionary of New York reports that of 856 Baptist churches in the State 741 are in the country, and in villages; 337 unable, without aid, to sustain pastors; over 200 of them are pastorless from year to year, and although the membership of the churches in the State has in the last fifteen years increased 18,751, the membership in the country and smaller villages has fallen off fully 5500.

Mathematics has its oddities. The multiplication of 987,654,321 by 45 gives 44,444,445. Reversing the order and multiplying 44,445,789 by 45 a result equally odd is obtained—5,555,555,505. Is that curious or isn't it? And there is plenty more where that came from.

W. B. Barr, of Albany, and one of the stockholders of the Albany & Astoria railroad, recently incorporated with a capital stock of $1,000,000, began work with a party of fifteen men, making the preliminary survey of the route.

The Coast Range, the coast insurance organ, estimates the losses of the insurance companies by the Ellensburg fire at $275,015.

A Georgia farmer prevents his cows from jumping fences by cutting off their lower eyelashes, which makes a fence seem three times as high as it is.

Gov. Higgs, of Delaware, in a New York interview, openly declares the whipping post is in use in his State. He admits it is a relic of barbarism, but declares "it is the only way."

Where is Ed Cantrell?

On Sunday morning, June 30th, this year, Ed Cantrell left his ranch on Summit Prairie to look after a sheep that had strayed from his hand, since which time he has not been heard of. He told his brother that he would return that day, as he did not expect to go far. He announced his intention of going to a neighboring camp, which camp he never reached, although he started in that direction. What has become of him is a mystery. His brother Jim and others have searched for him without learning anything whatever of his whereabouts. It is believed by some that he has been foully dealt with; by others that he has skipped the country. The former opinion is the most probable, as he was financially solvent and had no known cause to induce him to leave the country in the manner mentioned. The cause of his disappearance will be thoroughly investigated.—Prineville News, July 13th.

What Others Think.

A traveling detective writing to the Pendleton Oregonian, from Salem, says:

I think the Oregon Penitentiary is one of the best managed institutions in the United States. Irons are never used here on the shoulders and legs of prisoners, nor is solitary confinement resorted to except in extreme cases. To my surprise the prisoners all work faithfully under the supervision of Warden McKinnon. The successful way he controls so many criminals is worthy of public notice and commendation. The condition of the Oregon penitentiary has surprised the traveling detective who in his business of secretly investigating the prison affairs of different States.

Joseph Hedges, an old and respected citizen of Oregon City, attempted suicide at that place, July 12th, by cutting his throat and trying to cremate himself in a burning barn. His wife discovered him in time to save his life. He had lost his position as foreman of the pulp mills now in course of construction at Oregon City. The fact preyed heavily on his mind and several times since his discharge he showed symptoms of insanity. Although he is 60 years of age, he will live, but it is feared his reason has entirely flown.

The people of Ellensburg have gone to work with energy to rebuild the city. Men have been engaged shooting down brick walls through burned districts, which were menacing the safety of workmen and pedestrians. There is great activity all over the district removing debris, excavating cellars and laying foundations. Thus far contracts have been made for forty-two brick buildings at an average cost of $12,000, aggregating over half a million. A great number of frame buildings are going up outside the fire limits.

A Horrible Murder.

A dispatch from Empire City, dated July 15, says: Eastenhever, a tenant of John Gilman on a farm near Coquille City, while returning from his work yesterday evening, was waylaid and attacked by John Gilman near his home, but succeeded in making his escape and gave the alarm. A large party from Coquille City was immediately organized and returned to the farm, where they finally found to-day the bodies of Eastenhever's wife and child, who had been murdered and the bodies buried near the house. A ready-made grave was also found for the husband.

Gilman and his wife were arrested, and the circumstances point conclusively to their guilt. Gilman wanted them to leave, which they refused to do until the bodies had expired. Gilman, the murderer, has been safely lodged in jail here. When under fear of immediate lynching, he confessed to the deliberate killing of the woman and child and the intended killing of the husband, and also admitted killing George Morris a year ago, of which he was suspected at the time. He was only saved from lynching by hurrying him from Coquille City before a crowd had fully organized. He denies that his wife was an accomplice.

Jay Gould has lost several opportunities to redeem his reputation from greed and covetousness. His latest chance was afforded by the Johnston calamity. With seven thousand miles of railroad and other properties aggregating $75,000,000, he sends $5000 to the sufferers. George W. Childs, of Philadelphia, worth 10 per cent of Gould's wealth gave ten times as much. With few exceptions the rich men of our nation have not loaned their purse strings to any noticeable extent.

The New York directories claim for that city a population of 1,775,000.

The bamboo tree does not blossom until it attains its thirtieth year, when it produces seed profusely and then dies. It is said that a famine was presented in India in 1812 by the sudden flowering of the bamboo trees when 50,000 people resorted to the jungles to gather the seed for food.
