THE EUGENE CITY GUARD.

SATURDAY . . . . . NOV. 2, 1889.

Gov. Pennoyer and the Mules.

Going down on the train Tuesday from from Salem to Portland was Governor Pennoyer, who when joked about his difficulties with the railroad and the fish commissions, said he believed he had done more service to the State himself in one instance than the whole of the railroad commission.

"You know," he said, "that the State had lately bought an asylum farm, and a fine piece of property it is, too—a section of land about four miles from the asylum, where we want to erect some cottages, and keep a large number of the patients out there, both for the benefit of the State and for their own good.

"Well, a while ago Dr. Lane went up into Douglas county to buy mules for this farm. He purchased nine and had them shipped to Salem, and the freight charge was $108.90, or $12.10 cents apiece. The bill came in at a meeting of the board when I was not present, and was audited and allowed, but when I learned of it I concluded it was pretty high, being almost Pullman car rates for the same distance. I also discovered that it was a greater charge than the schedule rates for mules from the same point to Portland, 52 miles farther.

"So I at once wrote to Mr. Koehler, stating these facts, and here is his reply." Here the Governor exhibited a letter from Mr. Koehler, in which that gentleman acknowledged that there was an overcharge of $28.90 the proper one being but $80, and promising to refund the excess. "So you see I saved the State $28.90," said the Governor, laughing, "which I believe is more than the commission has earned."

Two Hundred and Twenty-five Salmon a Minute.

[N. Y. Sun]

"The thing that amused me most on the Pacific Coast," said a New Yorker recently returning to that side of the continent, "was the Oregon salmon fisheries. Think of 4,000 men doing nothing for several months in the year but catching, cleaning and canning salmon and you may grasp some little idea of the stupendous character of these fisheries. I visited a wheel fishery near Dalles City. Imagine a wheel forty feet in diameter and eight feet across the face, resembling an immense water wheel. Instead of paddles this wheel is fitted with three buckets, made of coarse and strong wire screening. The wheel is fastened to a shaft, to which is fastened machinery that lowers and raises it at the will of the operator. The buckets are so constructed that anything that enters them is thrown towards the center and to one side, where there is an opening above the water line that leads to a large tank. The buckets open down stream. When in operation the wheel is lowered six feet in the river, up which the salmon are making their way in untold numbers. The force of the water revolves the wheel, the average revolution being five per minute. As it turns the buckets scoop up the salmon, which are forced back and out of the opening in the side of the wheel into the receiving tank. One wheel may safely be calculated to run into the tank seventy-five salmon a minute, or 225 a minute for the three.

$350,000 FOR OREGON.—From Major Lovell, assistant Secretary of State, the Astorian learns that the commonwealth is in a fair way to receive $350,000 long due from the Federal government to the State. This $350,000 represents the aggregate of a war debt that the State assumed some years ago. This war debt represented Oregon's quota and was paid by Oregon, bonds being issued and warrants for the amount of these bonds having been paid. Secretary McBride and Assistant Secretary Lovell have just finished the job of collecting the proofs of the payment of these bonds and forwarded the claims with such proof of payment to the general government department of claims. It is not believed that there will be any delay in the payment of this claim.

The following is a very curious puzzle: Open a book at random and select a word with the first ten lines, and within the tenth word from the end of the line. Mark the word. Now double the number of the page and multiply the sum by five. Then add twenty. Then add the number of the line you have selected. Then add five. Multiply the sum by ten. Add the number of the word in the line. From this sum subtract 250, and the remainder will indicate in the unit column the number of the word, and in the ten column the number of the line, and the remaining figures the number of the page.—Burbank Times.

Chili is to have the longest and largest mining tunnel in the world. It will enter from Iquique to Huntagia. It will be eight miles long, fourteen feet wide and twenty feet high. In going less than 600 feet the tunnel will have attained a depth of 1200 feet, and at the end will tap the Desculadora mine at a depth of nearly 3500 feet. In its course of eight miles it will cut over eighty lodes. From the first of these they will begin to take out ore soon after the tunnel is started.
