

CITY AND COUNTY

EUGENE MOVES.

No Longer a Cow Town—Are Lights Ordered—Now For Sewerage.

The Eugene City Council may be slow to move but it always does the right thing in the end. The meeting Monday evening witnessed action on two important questions that have been agitated for some time.

An ordinance was passed obligating owners of cows to keep them off the streets at all times. Heretofore they were allowed to roam the streets, sidewalks, gardens, and farmers wagons during the day time. Eugene is no longer a cow town. Make a note of it.

Another important measure was that of authorizing a contract with the Elec. Light Co. for twenty lights for street lighting purposes. The lights will be of 1500 candle power and will supersede the incandescent lights now in use. The city will pay $2400 a year for the twenty lights and may have more by making pro rata payment. The incandescent system was better than oil for street lighting, but was insufficient considering the rapidly increasing importance of the city. The change will be made as soon as the necessary plant can be secured from the East.

Now with generally well graded streets, a first-class fire department, and a good system of lights ordered, the only improvement that is demanded. It is that of sewerage. And we may safely say that there is no conflict of opinion as to the necessity and desirability of having a sewerage system that will relieve our streets of surface water and refuse, and cesspools drains and closets of the filth and excrement that will assuredly breed if it is not removed. Along our streets in several places the ground is honey-combed with cesspools that even now give forth their foul offensive vapors. The imagination can depict what the odors will be when a summer sun has made them more volatile. The only possible way to abate the nuisance and preserve proper sanitary conditions is by the construction of a good system of sewerage. Further neglect in this matter savors of incompetency and carelessness in that body that presides over the municipal destinies of Eugene. Over one year has passed since it was granted the right to bond the city to secure funds for this purpose. If the cost could be lessened by delay, it may mature at an improvement that must be made, the Council might be excused. But no legitimate reason can be given for dilatory action. Labor and material are as cheap now as they are likely to be in the future. The finances of the city are in a fair condition. Many poor men who have been obliged to remain nearly idle for several months on account of the inclement weather would find employment. The money would remain in Eugene. All would be benefited. Now is the time to commence the work.

How Is This?

As down Willamette street you walk, and look from door to door, Don't forget to stop in front of Sladden's grocery store. There you'll find a broad stairway, with plume at the foot, And if you have a little time, go up and take a look. Pleasant chap up there you'll find, that's ready and willing, To show you all the new things and tell you what to do. Your hair you comb in latest style, and then pull down your vest, And seat you in the posing chair to take a little rest. The "pleasant chap" will flourish and show you anything—The pretty rocks, the river, the rustic cage and swing. What don't like those? Well, that's all right, Here's five interior scenes, that's very nice, and two grand ones in snuff; Just put your coat on and snuff on and jump into this sleigh, And take these lines you'll think you're gone, although your horses won't neigh. A sunflower scene for Oscar Wilde, a pretty marine view, And also three of sandy beach with spade and bucket, too. And isn't this a lovely scene with daisies back and front? And here a wild and rocky gorge where nimble rocks love to hunt. See, upon this rippling stream the graceful swans will float; The chariot full of little ones, with brother in the boat. The half you have not seen, as yet, and it's almost night—Come in again to-morrow, we'll have a better light. Your picture nice and quick we'll make; when you have made your choice, And when you take it home, we know your friends will all rejoice. You'll get good work and treated well whenever you do go. To get your photos made at "THE RANKIN STUDIO." By all that's good and bad, 'tis often said of late, That they have got, without a doubt, the finest in the state.

March 11, 1890. Rain and mud are the most common events of the day. We notice the smiling countenance of the "crank" among us again. The "string band" is progressing nicely under the management of J M and E C H. Snow is reported to be 8 or 10 inches on the mountain, but is melting very fast and is hoped will be entirely gone in a few days. The recent floods have made freighting very inconvenient for the merchants on the river, so many bridges are washed away. But we go just the same. The people of Jasper are looking anxiously for the appearance of the first locomotive that shall blow its welcome whistle within the vicinity of J. May their most anxious expectations be realized.
