Special attention given to Repairing WATCHES, CLOCKS and JEWELRY.

Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Worsham, of Grant county, lost their little child by drowning. The Canyon City News relates the sad story: "They had started to Fox valley in a buckboard, and when crossing the John Day one of the horses balked in mid stream and overturned the buckboard, throwing them out, when the infant floated away on the swift current, and was seen no more. Searching parties were at once organized, but nothing has been found so far but the shawl, which was pinned about the little one when in its mother's arms."

Give Them a Chance!

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them. When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well. Call it cold, cough, croup, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Ketchum's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you, you may depend upon this for certain.

A Little Too Late—to doctor when Bright's Disease has done its work. Take Wright's Kidney and Liver Cure for inflammation of kidneys and liver, pain in back and other warnings of kidney trouble. Sold by all druggists.

Call a Halt—That tired languid feeling means that your system is in a state to invite disease, and Wright's Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla, which you need at once to expel impurities of the blood and build you up. Sold by all druggists.

Bring your old scrap cast iron to the Eugene Iron Foundry where you can dispose of it.

What is It?

That produces that beautifully soft complexion and leaves no traces of its application or injurious effects? The answer, Wagoner's Robertine accomplishes all this, and is pronounced by ladies of taste and refinement to be the most delightful toilet article ever produced. Warranted harmless and matchless. F. M. Wilkin, agent, Eugene City.

Change is one of the irresistible laws of nature, and fortunately the change is almost invariably for the better. As an instance of this, St. Patrick's Pills are fast taking the place of the old harsh and violent cathartics, because they are milder and produce a pleasant effect, besides they are much more beneficial in removing morbid matter from the system and preventing ague and other malarious diseases. As a cathartic and liver pill they are almost perfect. For sale by Osburn & Co.

On a recent visit to Iowa, Mr. K. Dalton, of Durray, Russell county, Kansas, called at the laboratory of Chamberlain & Co., Des Moines, to show them his six year old boy, whose life had been saved by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, it having cured him of a severe attack of croup. Mr. Dalton is certain that it saved his boy's life and is enthusiastic in his praise of the Remedy. He says it has an excellent reputation in his vicinity; that farmers come fifteen miles to his store for it. For sale by Osburn & Co.

Kimball, South Dakota, Graphic: While the columns of the Graphic are open to any and all unobjectionable advertisements, yet it is quite impossible for us to speak knowingly of the merits of the various articles of merchandise advertised. Particularly is this true of patent medicines. But there are exceptions occasionally and a note-worthy exception is the celebrated Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This now universally known medicine, has been advertised in the Graphic four or five years, but not until recently had we any personal knowledge of its wonderful efficacy, which has come about through the prevailing influenza and the stubborn cough that has so often attended it. In the writer's family this medicine has on several occasions this winter cured a cough that baffled any and all other remedies, and the number of families in Kimball and vicinity in which this remedy has been used with like effects attests to its value as a specific for coughs and colds of every nature. For sale by Osburn & Co.

The Scott Murder Trial.

The trial of Wm. Scott for the murder of his wife in the fall of 1889 took place in McMinnville last week. The jury came into court Saturday morning with a verdict of manslaughter after a stormy consultation of eighteen hours. It is understood that the first ballot stood nine for guilty and three for not guilty. The discussion then went on as only a jurymen knows. The ballot finally settled down to nine for murder in the second degree and three for acquittal. As a compromise they agreed on manslaughter.

There is much comment among the citizens of the entire community in regard to the verdict of the jury. The verdict seems to add to the general conviction of the public mind of the guilt of the accused, as the jury was an excellent one, composed of our best, law-abiding citizens, and it is believed they rendered the verdict after an intelligent discussion. The Quaker spoken of in a former report as being a member of the jury was with the majority.

Judge Boise in sentencing the prisoner said: This court has reviewed the testimony in this case, and it is only extraordinary in this respect: That a man who had borne a blameless reputation all his life should commit a deed of such enormous violence. If a doubt had existed in the minds of the jury, the verdict probably would have been in favor of the defendant. As a matter of fact, if anybody else had committed that crime, he could not have gone through with it without leaving some traces. Suicide would have been a physical impossibility, and in this case the jury found the defendant guilty. On the testimony, I believe he did it. The existence of a doubt would be as to whether or not it was murder in the first or second degree. There might be a doubt as to murder in the first degree, but as to murder in the second degree, there could not be a doubt, and it is the law that they should find for the lowest crime, and in this case they did so. It is not likely to occur that a man who had been a religious man should be guilty of so heinous a crime, but it has occurred and it has been proven, and the jury have found him guilty. In this case I have no reasonable doubt but that the prisoner did this murder, and he is sentenced to imprisonment in the penitentiary for the term of ten years.

But one son was near Scott when the sentence was passed. He seemed very much affected at Judge Boise's remarks and the extent of the sentence, but Scott himself showed little emotion in any way, but took it as a matter of fact. His heart seemed to sink and a shade of horror crept over his face when Judge Boise, looking straight into his face, said: "I believe you are guilty," but he soon recovered and sat down.

The Great Prize Winner.

From the New Orleans Delta.

The winner of the capital prize in to-day's drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery Company—was the Louisiana Lottery Company. It disposed of 100,000 tickets at $20 each, amounting in all $1,000,000, leaving in the hands of the company the difference, $945,200, which in our judgment, is the capital prize. It is estimated that at least thirty of its own prizes are drawn by the company itself, which would amount to $310,440 more, making a grand total of $1,310,640. We can spot the winner in the lottery game every time, and we have not a prophet on our staff either.

Oregon State Prison

Two females occupy cell number 1, first floor. In the commissary department everything is in good shape and plenty of it. The amount of meats daily used is from 375 to 400 lbs.; flour about two barrels; vegetables from 375 to 400 lbs. The number of men employed in the shops varies from 260 to 220. Their average income amounts in a year to about $2,200. The number of prisoners now confined is 322. There were four discharged last week, and at an average of ten per month.

The Spring Way.

"Well, ma'am," said the landlord, after taking an hour to show her over the house, "what do you think?"

"I rather like it."

"Yes."

"If you will take out the furnace and put in steam, change the front stairs, put in plate glass, run the bay-window up, reduce the rent from $80 to $30 per month and move the house over on Woodward avenue, I think we'll take it for a year."

An Indian Hung.

"Pello," the Indian convicted of the murder of a half-breed woman on the Umatilla reservation and sentenced Jan. 30th, was hanged at Portland June 6th, by Federal authorities, assisted by county officers. The execution took place in a wood shed of the county jail. At one o'clock he was conducted to the scaffold by Father Orth, his spiritual adviser. The death warrant was read to him by U. S. Marshal Barin. Pello stood alone and did not betray the least emotion throughout the reading. After the warrant was read he was asked if he had anything to say.

After facing those present he spoke for about ten minutes in Chinook, which was interpreted by deputy sheriff Misner. He spoke in a firm tone of voice, saying that God knew he was innocent; that he did not kill the woman and God knew he spoke the truth. He did not want to be hanged. If he had killed the woman, he would not care. He was the same as a white man; worked on his farm and was not a bad man. He knew he had to die and wanted his body to be buried at Pendleton by the side of his wife and child. He spoke for about five minutes repeating that he was not a bad man and was innocent of murder. At the close of his speech he knelt and received the benediction from the Priest, after which he was placed on the trap, his arms and feet pinioned and the black cap drawn over his face. At 1:15 an unseen hand touched the electric button, and the trap flew open. With a dull thud Pello's body fell a distance of five feet, dislocating his neck. Death was almost instantaneous, and without a struggle. After hanging nine minutes, the physicians pronounced life extinct.

The body was taken down and given to authorities of the state medical school. Besides officers and members of the press about fifty specially invited persons witnessed the execution, which went off quietly and without a jar.

Election Reform.

Gervais Star: The reform of our ballot system was really one of the issues of the political campaign that has just closed. It was not discussed to any great extent, the necessity for some change in the manner in which our elections are conducted being so apparent that no discussion on that point was necessary. The Australian system, or at least the main features of it, meets the hearty approval of all, and when the legislature meets it will probably be one of the first important matters to receive attention. Should the legislature fail to adopt that or some other ballot system that will have the effect to purify the manner in which our elections are conducted it may expect to meet the hearty condemnation of the people of this state. The people are sick and tired of so much corruption in the conducting of our elections and demand that some system be adopted by which they can be conducted in decency and in order. The open purchasing of votes is a disgrace to our civilization and is becoming dangerous to our institutions, and the only way to correct this is by changing the manner of conducting our elections. What is called the Australian system is one that has been tried and found to work admirably; it is fair and just to all, and works no hardship of any kind upon any individual unless it be political hucksters who practice the buying and selling of votes.

The Lottery Scheme.

The proposed lottery amendment to the Louisiana state constitution embraces a contract between the state and John I. Morris and associates, under which, for lottery privileges for 25 years, from Jan. 1, 1890, Morris & Co. agree to pay the state $25,000,000 or $1,000,000 per year, payable quarterly. Provisions are also made for the expenditure of the money to be received by the state annually as follows:
Public schools $500,000; levees $350,000; charities and pensions $200,000; City of New Orleans for drainage and sanitary purposes $100,000.

Mr. Doane, the grand master of the I. O. O. F. in this state, has received an invitation from the district grand lodge of Berlin, inviting any and all visiting Odd Fellows to an international bandwaggoner's ball—shooting match—to be given from July 6th to 13th. The circular also invites brothers to visit the lodge room, which is located on Jacob street, No. 128. If any of our German friends intend visiting the old country we hope they will not fail to attend the bandwaggoner's ball. They will be made welcome, and enjoy such a cordial greeting as only Germans can give.—Times-Mountaineer.

Dallas Observer: The Oregonian says that Governor Penney may thank Joe Simon and the Union party for his re-election. Of course every fellow must have some means of explaining away what don't suit him. As we look at it, the people simply wanted to retain a man who had been weighed in the balances and not found wanting.

Jackson county has the only lady census enumerator in Oregon in the person of Mrs. Alice Cawley, appointed for Woodville, Rock Point and Gold Hill precincts. This overthrows Seattle's claim that the lady census enumerator in that district was the only one in the United States.

Welcome: It is not generally believed that D. P. Thompson intends giving $100,000 to the Catholic church of Portland and an equal amount to create a charity fund for needy Hebrews in Oregon.

Lakeview Examiner, June 5: Very disagreeable weather the past week. A raw, north wind for several days, a little snow Sunday, and a freeze Sunday night, gave more appearance of winter, than of summer.
