A Revolt in the Senate.

[From the Cleveland Plain Dealer.]

There was a genuine sensation in the senate yesterday. Two Republican senators, Plumb of Kansas and Paddock of Nebraska, hitherto supposed to be among the most reliable when party interests are involved, voted with the Democrats against the caucus tariff provisions and Senator Plumb in a ringing speech proclaimed his independence of the party on tariff questions and his repudiation of the policy on which the pending bill is framed. His speech was as radical as that of the most pronounced Democratic tariff reformer, and spread dismay through the Republican ranks.

Mr. Plumb served notice that caucus decrees have no power over him in this instance. "There is a point," he said, "where political sympathies end and where business interests begin," and that point has been reached. He would apply the rule that "whoever demanded a tax for his own benefit should be ready to show conclusively that his interest is also the public interest. The demonstration should be made that every single penny of tax proposed is absolutely necessary." That is the Democratic position to a dot. If Mr. Plumb is consistent he will act throughout the remainder of the debate with the Democrats, will resist with them the effort to crowd through the bill without full debate, and will then vote with them against the bill in order that the people of the United States may at last "have their inning." But whatever he does hereafter in the matter Mr. Plumb has told some facts about Republican tariff legislation that will not be forgotten and which will give the McKinleyites some trouble to meet before the people.

Poor Results of Advertising.

We have heard nothing, says the Dalles Mountaineer, of the advertising scheme brought into life by The Dalles board of trade, whereby it paid $170 per month to the Metropolitan Journal for a weekly mention in bombastic language of its resources, and literally allowed the local press to starve to death. Would it not be advisable to call a meeting of this august body and pay the "only newspaper in Oregon" double the amount—say $350 per month—to mention the fact that the citizens of The Dalles have formed a transportation company, and have sufficient stock subscribed to organize. The matter has not been seen in the columns of that paper yet, and the $350 might be an inducement to treat The Dalles fairly.

The Road to Wealth

Cannot be successfully traveled without good health. To reach wealth or any coveted position in life requires the full possession and operation of all the faculties kind nature has endowed us with. These conditions cannot exist unless the physical being is in perfect working order, and this is impossible when the liver and spleen are torpid, thus obstructing the secretions, causing indigestion and dyspepsia, with all of their accompanying horrors.

DR. HENLEY'S
English Dandelion Tonic

exerts a specific influence over the liver, excites it to healthy action, resolves its chronic engorgements, and promotes the secretions; cures indigestion and constipation, sharpens the appetite, tones up the entire system, and makes life worth living.
