Four Rules for Identifying Poison-lyy

There need be no trouble in indentifying the poison-ivy in any of its forms. The hairy trunk will often serve us, but there are two other features which are of much more value. First let us regrouped in threes whatever the outlines of their more or less wavy margins. In some sections the plant is always called the "three-leafed ivy." And this naturally leads me to a consideration of that other vine with similar habits which is commonly known in the same localities as the "five-leafed ivy," and a leaf of which I have here pictured under the title of "an innocent victim." This is a leaf of the Ampelopsis quinquefolia (quinquefolia-five leaves), also called Virginia creeper and woodbine. Look at the leaf, and fix its form in your mind. This is one of our most beautiful native climbers. It is allied to the grape-vine, is perfectly harmless, and is | inations. the one plant that has to suffer from the impression that it is the "poison-

The writer knew of a person who posof this one little page of botany cost him a severe loss. His children were suddenly prostrated with ivy-poisoning, and one of his "ninth hour" neighbors came in to offer him some learned advice. Something in this style:

"Well, Squire, it's fetched 'em at last. I've been tellin' Betsy all along that the pesky stuff would ketch ye arter a while. Well, thar, goodness and truth! tous.—'Well, are you going to marry Es.

You needn't look so surprised, Squire. What I'm tellin' yer is fer yure own good. That air weed is pizen-shumake, an' it'll nigh on to kill some folks."

In all other sumachs the berries are red and in close bunches at the ends of the branches, and far from being dangerous, yield a frostylooking acid which is most agreeable to the taste, and wholesome withal. With these simple precepts fixed in the mind, no one need fear the dangers of the thickets. LAST SLAVE VOYAGE.

The Shipping, Stowing and Feeding of a Cargo of Staves.

During the embarkation I was engaged separating those negroes who did not appear robust, or who had received some trifling injury in getting on deck, and sending them to an improvised hos-pital made by bulk-heading a space in the rear of the forecastle. The others, as they arrived, were stowed away by side the front gate to mop the prespira- the Spanish mate; so that when all were aboard there was just room for each to lie upon one side. As no one knew what proportion the men were, all were herded together. The next morning the separation took place; the women and girls were all sent on deck, and numbered about four hundred. Then a "Notice any thing peculiar in the close bulkhead was built across the ship water yesterday, Rambo?" said Baldwin. and other bunks constructed. The women were sent below, and enough men sent up to enable the carpenter to have room to construct additional bunks. A more docile and easily managed lot of creatures can not be imagined. No violence of any kind was necessary; it was sometimes difficult to make them understand what was wanted; but as soon as they comprehended immediate compliance followed.

The negroes were now sent on deck in groups of eight and squatted around a large wooden platter, heaping full of cooked rice, beans and pork cut into small cubes. The platters were made by cutting off the head of flour or other barrels, leaving about four inches of the staves. Each negro was given a wooden spoon, which all on board had amused themselves in making during our forty-day trip. Barrel staves were sawed into lengths of eight inches, split into other pieces one and a half inches wide, and then shaped into a spoon with - Youngenap - How does it happen our pocket-knives. BAD NEWS FOR BLONDES.

Reasons for Thinking That Fair Hair Is flecoming Extinct.

In forming opinions as to whether fairhaired persons are less numerous in a particular locality now than formerly, the element of age has to be considered. A person who has spent his childhood in a fair-haired district, and visits it again after a lapse of years, may easily imagine that the number of fair-haired persons is fewer than formerly, merely on account of the class of persons from whom he draws the inference being more adult than those of whom he has recollections formerly.

If during several generations this preference among the male sex for wives with dark hair should continue, it is reasonable to suppose it would exert Episcopalians have already worked the an influence decidedly adverse to the increase of fair-baired persons being maintained. On various grounds, therefore, it would seem as if the fair hair so much beloved by poets and artists is doomed to be encroached upon and even replaced by that of darker hue.
