Halsey, Or., Aug 1, 1890.
An old soldier's story: In the late war I was a soldier in the First Maryland Volunteers, Company G. During my term of service I contracted chronic diarrhoea, since then I have used a great amount of medicine, but when I found any that would give me relief they would injure my stomach, until Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was brought to my notice. I use it and will say it is the only remedy that gave me permanent relief and no bad results follow. I take pleasure in recommending this preparation to all my old comrades, who, while giving their services to their country, contracted this dreadful disease as I did, from eating unwholesome and uncooked food. Yours truly, A. E. Halsey, Halsey, Or. For sale by F. M. Wilkins.

Myrtle Creek Mines.
The Roseburg Review interviewed R. C. Ward, the engineer of the Myrtle Creek Mining Company, in which Eugene people hold considerable stock, and gives the following:

Mr. Ward gave many interesting facts concerning the mines and the work being done there. The company, of which Dr. L. W. Brown of Eugene is president, is organized with a capital of $5,000 shares at $5 a share, per value, quite a large amount having already been taken. The shares are sold at $5, and an absolutely non-assessable certificate is given each purchaser, so that a big per cent. of profit will be made should the mines prove as rich as the prospects indicate. The company now have a force of about seventy or eighty men employed on the ditch, and seven miles of it have been completed. It is expected to have three miles more done within forty days, which is all that will be made this fall. This length of ditch will furnish water for a four or five months run, taken from the head of Myrtle creek, and next fall it will be lengthened to twenty-seven miles, extending to the East Umpqua. The lumber for the stave booms and bulk heads will be on the ground in a few days; 2000 feet of pipe and two hydraulic giants have been ordered, and it is expected to begin mining by Christmas.

Louis Catching, an old miner in that section, has the contract for the work on the ditch, and his claim, from which (in a very primitive manner) $900 was cleared up in a nine week's run, has been purchased by the company. The company now control 2080 acres, most of which will do to mine, and cannot be worked out for years to come. If the diggings are anywhere near as rich as the prospects indicate or the ground already worked has been, it will be a bonanza to the fortunate owners.

Statesman, Nov. 2: That man Peck, who was put in the penitentiary Friday for a term of one year, coming from Lane county, is serving his third term in Oregon's state prison. His case is quite an argument in favor of the unlimited sentence idea recently introduced in an Eastern state. By its provisions a prisoner is always sentenced to an unlimited term. He is released on good behavior—given his freedom on probation, as it were. He must report every month to some officer whose duty it is to keep a record of all men on probation, as it were. By this means an honest man can redeem himself, but a scoundrel is soon taken in charge again, thus saving to the state very many dollars for arrest, incarceration, prosecution, etc.

Editorial correspondence Portland Reform Journal: Gov. Penoyer was at his post of duty Monday at the time we called. We found him a plain man, with no disposition, in word or action to show his official standing. Any Oregon farmer or working man can talk with him. His administration is marked by the absence of fashionable levees, receptions, et cetera, where the extravagant, the austere and arrogant meet and imbibe in high-wines, after-dinner speeches, and other tom-foolery indulged in by the cheap aristocracy, but all is quiet, teaching economy and simplicity. His example to his fellow citizens is such as is greatly needed in official life all over the land these days. There would be less corruption to keep up with the procession in high life.

The Norwegian ship Thor, which is completing her load of lumber in Tacoma for London, will carry away a cargo that in some respects is one of the most remarkable ever sent from the Sound. It includes a great number of long, heavy, sawed timbers, loaded by means of a donkey engine, two feet square and from 107 to 110 feet each long. There is yet about 450,000 feet of lumber to be placed on board. It is supposed it will take several months to unload her, and it has already taken sixty days to get the timber on board.

Ashland Tidings, Oct. 31: John Cantrell, of Uniontown, who was reported seriously ill in last week's item, died Thursday, aged 54 years. Mr. Cantrell was a pioneer of Southern Oregon, having come here in 1852. He was an honest, upright man, and a good citizen. He leaves a wife and several children to mourn his irreparable loss.

The new tariff bears hard upon the working man, but it is pie for the monopolists. Like the two fellows who had only one blanket between them, and that had a hole in it, The monopolist appropriated the blanket and the other had the hole.

Give Them a Chance!
That is to say, your lungs: Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them. When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well. Call it cold, cough, croup, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boscche's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you, you may depend upon this for certain.

SATISFACTORY RESULTS.
About four years ago my attention was called to Dr. Miller's Cough Cure, since which time I have used it with old and young with the most satisfactory results. In fact I keep it always on hand. R. J. TRUMBULL, of Trumbull & Beale, Seaside and Nurserymen, San Francisco, Cal. For sale at E. H. Lunkey & Co.

A sure cure for the whisky habit: Dr. Livingston's Antidote for drunkenness will cure any case of the liquor habit in from ten to thirty days, from the moderate drinker to the drunkard. The antidote can be given in a cup of coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it. The Antidote will not injure the health in any way. Manufactured by the Livingston Chemical Co., Portland, Oregon, or from Osburn & Co., Eugene.

A Race for Life.
An Astoria dispatch of Nov. 1 says: The steamer Michigan arrived this morning after a wild race for life, lasting seven hours. When about fifteen miles off Gray's harbor at 4 o'clock this morning fire was discovered in her fore-hold. All precautions possible were immediately taken. The hatches were battened down and every air hole that could be found was stopped, and with every pound of steam that could be carried, and every stitch of canvas to the breeze, she flew down the coast.

In response to her distress signal when she crossed the bar, the observer at Fort Canby telegraphed to this city and the tug Wallows started to her assistance, but fortunately she succeeded in getting safely in. The fire was extinguished by the Astoria fire department, and it was found that the cargo of salmon and lime was almost entirely ruined, a few barrels of salmon alone escaping injury.

Wallace, Idaho, Aroused.
The following is taken from a special to the Spokane Falls Review, dated October 30th: This has been an eventful Sunday in Wallace. The indignation of the people has at last reached the climax, and it would not be a great surprise if some fine morning a "stiff" will be hanging to a telegraph pole, or the limb of a tree, with a placard attached giving the cause of his elevation and a warning to all other characters of his kind. Forbearance has ceased to be a virtue and the people of Wallace have begun a war of extermination on the crooks, thieves and footpads which infest the town. This morning the marshal quietly notified many citizens that he was going to make a raid, and requested them to assemble at the corner of Sixth and Cedar, and aid him in driving them out of town. The citizens met at the appointed time and the marshal started on his rounds. Twelve tough characters were rounded up and marched out of town.

Oregon City Courier: As the next legislative session must make the appropriation for Oregon's display at the Chicago World's Fair in 1893, it is of vital importance to the state that in the time remaining before the session this subject be thoroughly canvassed. The sum of $250,000, deemed to be necessary by the state board of trade, seems extravagant. A large pavilion of wood, creditable to the state, could be erected for $80,000. The sum of $95,000 ought to secure the daily services of a fine band and of the necessary attendants, besides paying the cost of an abundance of leaflets and pamphlets descriptive of Oregon, and the freight of the exhibits both ways. The total of these two amounts, $175,000, seems a liberal allowance, and perhaps a smaller sum will be sufficient, if there is no jobbery or stealing and no exorbitant salaries are paid. The tax payers have to foot the bills, the majority of whom have but limited means, and extravagance would therefore be criminal. The Oregon pavilion will have to be liberal and occasionally hospitable, but $600 wine suppers, such as Senator Dolph gives sometimes in Washington, will not be necessary.

Marshfield Coast Mail: On Saturday morning, just before the Comet left Empire City, a fine, fat buck deer started from the sand hills headed straight for town pursued by dogs, probably intending to visit the county seat and see about the enforcement of the game laws. The steamer Emily was anchored about the middle of the channel and some of the crew manned a boat, took after the deer and coming up alongside seized his horns and pulled back to the vessel, but when lifted into the boat he fought manfully and gained a complete victory. He then took to water again, but they overtook and lassoed him, when he was landed on deck. The Emily blew the victorious whistle, all the steamers then joined in and cheered until one would have thought that a new vessel had been launched.

Jacksonville Times: Work is progressing nicely on the construction of the Jacksonville-Medford railroad. A large number of ties have already been scattered along the route, the right of way has been cleared and some grading done. The depot has not been located; but from present appearances the road will run up C street, past the Times office, and all buildings will be put up on the block now owned by W. J. Plymale. A large majority of our people favor this site, as it will be convenient for the mails, express and parties receiving goods, to say nothing of those who wish to embark for other points. The road will be in operation by the first of the year at latest. The weather is favorable for this work.

William Sagarber and Stillman Nottage, of Scottsburg, came very near losing their lives while at work among the logs and timber. A large tree, which had become loosened by the recent rains and winds, suddenly fell over, pinning Stillman to the ground by the neck and head, and he was only released from his dangerous position by the chopping off of a limb of the tree and raising it with a jack screw. He was fearfully bruised. He was taken in a small boat to Gardiner immediately, and upon examination it was found no bones were broken.

Farmer Jones, of notoriety, of Marion county, who was banded out of $5,000, and afterwards married a widow with several children, it is now hinted, was possibly banded again. A man going as the woman's brother, it is said is addressed occasionally by the children as pa. That looks bad, but it contains its own suggestion.

It must have been trying to the Sierra, (Cal.) Fair managers, to wade up Thursday morning and find four and a half inches of snow on the race track, when they had spent the day before hauling water to sprinkle the said track.
