

McKinley Republicanism.

Among the Republicans at the West there is a strong opinion favorable to a modification of the McKinley Bill. But at the East the more general expression is that it was condemned because it was not understood. On the contrary, it was condemned because it was too well understood.

The President has forgotten little and learned nothing. He meets the congress in which his party provoked defeat, on its reassembling, with a tediously urgent exhortation to remedy none of the mistakes already made, to press forward in the same line and trust to that providence which the French say watches over Americans and fools.

A deficit of $33,000,000 in the single item of pensions is glibly announced as if it were a small thing, and indeed for a population of some 63,000,000 it is less than a dollar a head. But look at it in another way. At 5 per cent, it takes more than $650,000,000 to make it; at 4 per cent, it takes $850,000,000. In other words, the use of these enormous sums must be withdrawn from the people to meet one single deficit.

By a mistake in the type last week we were made to say that the amount agreed on by the committee on appropriations for the next fiscal year for pensions was $185,000,000. It should have been $135,000,000.

Taken for a Bear.

A dispatch from Astoria dated the 7th says: Matt Hendrickson, an honest farmer from Deep river, lying dying at the hospital with a bullet hole through his left lung, the result of the carelessness of Joseph Hillborg. It is the same old story of something moving in the bushes, and a hunter too excited to wait until he could see what he was shooting at, with a steady nerve and a deadly aim. Saturday about noon, Matt Hendrickson and Isaac Mellin, two Russian Finns living on Deep river, were up the river a short distance from the landing, looking over the ground preparatory to building a road. They were proceeding through the dense brush a good part of the time. At the same time Joseph Hillborg was walking along the road with his rifle in his hand. His dog commenced barking at something near the road, when Hillborg looked to see a black object crawling along a log. He thought it was a black bear and immediately fired, the bullet striking the unfortunate Hendrickson in the left lung, breaking a rib and crushing into his shoulder. Mellin, who was directly behind Hendrickson, thought that the latter's gun had gone off accidentally and asked him if he was hurt. He said he was not and the two men emerged from the brush and walked out into the road. It was then noticed that Hendrickson was bleeding profusely. He walked down to the landing where the steamer happened to be lying. He was taken aboard, brought to Astoria and taken to the hospital for treatment. Dr. Fulton removed the ball which was flattened out as large as a quarter of a dollar. It is hardly possible that the unfortunate man can recover.

Florence Notes.

The West, Dec. 5. J. W. Carman retires from the butcher business this week. Morgan Holt and Mr. Blew, from Junction, are here to see our country. Mr. Edris, brother of William Edris of Eugene, is in Florence. We hope he may be induced to locate here. A. R. Butolph has finished the survey of David Morse's second addition to Florence. A dance at Cathy's hall after the presentation of Christmas gifts at the school-house. A large amount of fruit trees reached this town this week and will be planted by our farmers. Six passengers arrived here on the steamer Mink Tuesday and all proposing to settle here. Elmer Gray killed an owl near the house of Geo. M. Miller that measured 5 feet from tip to tip. J. A. Ganguier has purchased the stage line from Eugene to Florence of Bjeldanes and Pederson. He will conduct the business on that route well, for he is to put on a four-horse team. Mr. D. S. Shields, from Vancouver, Washington, has purchased two lots of Geo. M. Miller, on Main street, and he will erect a building thereon. Mr. Shields is accompanied by George Meridian. The settlers of Fiddle creek, Clark lake, are now building a road, commencing at a point a little east from H. H. Flak's residence, and intersect the Gardiner road at Mr. E. B. Miller, running in a southeasterly direction, where the Gardiner road was wanted, a distance of about nine miles. The road passes through the farms of H. H. Flak, J. L. Furnish, Geo. H. Colter, Frank Wilson, G. L. Houghton, C. Schulz, Rev. A. Robinson, C. M. Sowers, H. Nickelsen, C. E. Harwood and Valdire Gurney. This highway will accommodate a large settlement, and it will be completed by January 1, 1891, with such a make as will admit of wagon and buggy travel.

The First Victim.—Salem Staterman at Portland Saturday evening at 9:30 o'clock death claimed the fifth victim of the Lake Labish wreck in the person of Dr. R. F. Dodd, of Victoria, B. C. Mr. Dodd was brought to Salem on the first relief train the morning after the wreck and was quarantined at Mrs. Schwenker's on Front street and then in the Eldridge block. His leg was badly broken and bruised and it was feared from the first that amputation would be necessary. The matter was delayed, hoping the best, until blood poison set in, after which very little hope could be entertained for the recovery of the patient. Under charge of the railroad physician he was removed to Good Samaritan hospital in Portland, where his leg was amputated just below the knee. But the amputation was too late, the blood poison had gone too far to be overcome, and the sufferer breathed his last Saturday evening. Mr. Dodd during his brief stay here made many friends and upon them his death strikes as a pall. He was an employee of the Hudson Bay company, and was en route to San Francisco to join his wife, who had been visiting there, when the accident occurred.

D. C. Riches, of Turner, has just received an appointment as railway clerk and will at once enter upon the discharge of his duties as such.

There are four organizations of the Farmers' Alliance in Morrow county at the present time.

Burned to Death.

One of the most horrible accidents which has occurred for a long time is reported from Pleasant Home, a little country village about six miles from Portland. A farmer named Eckerason was engaged in clearing some land and was burning up the heavy logs a few days ago. While he was thus employed his wife came out for the horses to see him for some purpose. She stepped on a log which was nearly burned in two. As she did so her weight caused the log to part. The log was on a side hill and when it broke the pieces rolled down the incline. The woman fell on the lower side and one of the heavy pieces rolled on her and held her fast underneath. She was lying on her back and her upturned face was under the end of the log which was still ablaze, the coals and hot ashes dropping down on her face. Her husband for a moment was paralyzed with terror and unable to act. Then arousing and finding that he was unable to remove the log from the form of his wife, he ran half a mile for help. When he and another man came back it was found they could do nothing without an ax, and so Eckerason had to go half a mile back for one. Finally the log was removed and the mangled and now lifeless form of the unfortunate woman was taken to her home.

Resolutions of Condolence.

At the meeting of Spencer Datto Lodge, I. O. O. F., held in Eugene, Tuesday evening, Dec. 8th, 1890, the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased the Allwise Creator to remove by death from our midst Brother James Huddleston, by whose death the Lodge has lost a most worthy member and the community an upright citizen and the family a kind and affectionate husband and father;

Resolved, That the members of this Lodge tender their sympathy to the stricken family in this hour of their great distress.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions, under seal of the Lodge be forwarded to the widow of our deceased brother.

Resolved, That a copy be sent to the city papers for publication.

Primeville Review.

During the storms of last winter feed became very scarce and stock had to eat whatever came handy—milk kegs, old rags, etc., and some even took to a supply of gravel for roughness. Albert Wilson killed a cow last Thursday that had evidently wintered on a gravel pile, as he found about four pounds of rock in her stomach, but it had evidently proven a healthful diet, as the cow was fat and excellent beef. If ranchers would cultivate a taste for gravel among their cattle they might save considerable work in preparing food, as rock abounds in this country.

There are eighteen bridges and twelve tunnels in a single 80 mile stretch of railroad in the Mount Shasta country in California. The bridges all cross Sacramento river.

Opposed To It.

The Linn County Council P. H. held Saturday, Dec. 6, 1890, adopted the following resolutions and authorized Hon. B. A. H. to secure their publication in the press of the state: Whereas, There was a special committee appointed in 1889 by the Senate in the state of Oregon on assessments and taxation with instructions to report their conclusions in the form of a bill at the next session of the legislature for its consideration, and, whereas, if the principles and recommendations in regard to taxation should be adopted by the legislature, the burdens of taxation would in our judgment fall much heavier on the laboring classes and farmers of the laboring classes and farmers of the state than under the present laws in regard to assessment and taxation, therefore, be it Resolved, That the members of the Linn County Council hereby request the members of the legislature to use all honorable means to defeat the adoption of any report and enactment of its recommendations in the form of law.

Several months ago Mr. Henry Plummer, of Clements, Cal., who is subject to cramps, was taken with a severe attack. He had been accustomed to get relief by dosing with morphine, but the disagreeable effect that followed would make him miserable for hours after the cramp had been relieved. I persuaded him to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He was much pleased with it, as its effect was almost instantaneous, and no disagreeable after effects accompanied its use.
