Which is Your Ward?

The city council at the meeting Monday evening divided Eugene into three wards for voting purposes and for the election of councilmen. The boundaries are as follows: First ward, all of the city south of Tenth street. Second ward, that part lying east and north of Willamette and Tenth streets. Third ward, the remainder of the city, west and north of Willamette and Tenth streets and north of Willamette and Tenth streets. Voters should locate themselves so as to be enabled to find their proper polling place at the city election that takes place the first Monday in April. The First ward will vote at Mrs. Brownlee's vacant dwelling opposite the Central school building; the second ward at the City Hall; the third ward at A. P. Churchilli's machinery warehouse.

DEPOT GROUNDS .- The business of DEFOT GROUNDS.—The business of the Southern Pacific railroad at Eugene, is about the heaviest done at any station on the line of the road, outside of Portland, in Oregon. The receipts of the Eugene office average about $10,000 monthly. The depot grounds should be improved by the company to keep pace with the growth of the town. In winter the space between the tracks are ponds of water and mud holes, often rendering it difficult for teamsters to secure their freight. The cost of filling to a level between the tracks and on the sides would be comparatively small and would greatly be comparatively small and would greatly improve the convenience and appearance of the grounds. A memorial from the Eu-gene Board of Trade to Manager Koehler would probably influence that gentleman to make the needed improvements.

WASHING MADE East. -The Pacific Washing Machine Company have estab-lished their headquarters in Cherry's old furniture store on Eighth street and are demoustrating to the public the wonderful results accomplished by their machine by actual service. Charges of ofably reinstated in command. Charges of disobedience of orders were preferred against Lieut. Geo. O. Yoran, and he was suspend-ed for investigation. His trial took place at Portland Friday.

THE ICE WORKS .- Mr. S. H. Friendly informs us that he has received word from Messrs. Davis and Hoffman, of Portland, that the establishment of ice works in Eugene is a certainty. Mr. Hofman is now in the east purchasing the machinery and in a short time the location will be selected and the building erected.

A CANCEROUS GROWTH .- The friends of Dr. W. T. McMurtry will regret to learn that he is seriously troubled with a sore on the root of the tongue that is of a cancerous nature. The physicians in Eugene whom he consulted incline to that opinion. Dr. McMurtry went to Portland Tuesday morning to the consulted in the consultation of the consultat ng to consult with physicians in regard to his ailment.

BICYCLE ORDINANCE .- The city council has amended the ordinance relating to bicyc-les and other wheeled vehicles so that they can be run on walks on the south and east sides of the streets during the daytime. They are not allowed to run on the walks of Willamette street from the depot to Twelfth street at any time.

PROPOSITIONS FOR SITES.—The Eugen Manufacturing Co. directors held a meeting Thursday evening when propositions for sites were received from the Fairmount conpany and T. W. Shelton. The Eugene Mill Co. also made a proposition to furnish a NEW QUARTERS.—J. M. Hendricks will Flouring Mill Burned.

The Cottage Grove Flouring Mill was burned with its machinery and contents last Saturday morning at 1:30 o'clock. The fire originated in the story next the roof and it is thought to have been caused by friction of pulleys or bearings. The mill had run steadily the previous day until nearly 11 o'clock at night. It was locked from the o'clock at night. It was locked from the inside, Jas Lamb, the miller, sleeping in the mill. He was awakened by a dense, suffocating smoke, and attempted to break open a small window in his sleeping room but failed. He then made his way to one of the doors escaping with no clothing except his night garments.

The mill was owned by Hon. R. Veatch and with contents was insured for $6,500. Since he purchased the plant about three years ago he had added the roller process. The loss is estimated at $10,000. We have been informed that the nill will be rebuilt.

Cottage Grove has no appliances with which to fight fires and all that could be done was to protect adjoining property. Bristow & Eakin's brick store, 60 feet south of the burning mill got the full benefit of the flerce heat, but successfully withstood

DIED.—The Union Scout's Cove correspondent, under date of March 11th, has the following: The community was startled Monday by the unexpected news that Edward Mitchell was dead. He had been alling for several days but no one had seemed to realize a possibly fatal termination of his sickness. He was of an unusual robust constitution and nearly all of his life had been in possession of almost perfect health. The n possession of almost perfect health. The hock of his taking off, to his friends and relshock of his taking off to his friends and relatives, can be imagined when it is known he was able to walk about the house only a few hours before death. The deceased was born in Grande Ronde valley November 4, 1872, and lived to the age of 18 years, 4 months and 5 days. He had just returned from the State University, where he had been attending school during the winter but gave up his studies to be present at the bedside of his father and younger brother who were suffering with obstinate fevers. On his return home he was soon attacked with throat trouble, which proved most treacherous, robbing him of life with an awful suddenness. Edward was the eldest of three children and was universally respected 0.1 denness. Edward was the close of three children and was universally respected 0.1 account of his many sterling qualities, and admired for his acknowledged intellectual gifts. Being an ardent student, a young man more likely to make his mark in the world could not be found in a long search. He was the pride of his parents and the idol of his mother and sister yet must desert all with his promising career only begun. Death, indeed chose a shining mark. DIED .- David R. Christian, one of the DIED.—David R. Christian, one of the first settlers of Eugene, died at his home in this city of heart disease Tuesday evening. March 17, 1891, aged 73 years. He located on the claim, part of which is now covered by the town on the south, in 1852. A FRAUD. - Some California harps shipped A Frace.—Some Californiss narps sampped an alleged petrified man here last week and took it in a skiff a few miles down the river, where they pretended to find it imbedded in a bank. It was brought back to Eugene and on Saturday some of the credulous got a chance to see the wonder by paying twenty five cents. The proprietors managed to take in about $15, but the nature of the fraud being too apparent they closed shop and shipped their manufactured article to new fields. The Oregonian's Eugene correspon-dent abetted the fraud by sending a long dis-patch giving an account of the pretended

The Pendleton East Oregonian of March 17 has an account of the accident by which Gus Long met his death. He resided it Eugene about two years since, working a the foundry, his father being a partner with Mr. Frasier. The remains passed up the road to Cottage Grove Tuesday for burial.

The E. O. says:
Dragged to death. Such was the fate Gus Long, a young man who has numerous friends in this county, and such has been the fate of many others who, thrown by vicious horses, were unable to release them-selves. The accident of which Gus Long was the victim was most appalling. He was at H. J. Taylor's place on Wild Horse, about seven miles northeast of Pendleton, and Friday afternoon about two o'clock he mounted a wild horse in the corral, which is two acres or more in extent, his object being to "break" the animal. The horse at once started to buck furiously, and careened around the corral until the rider could keep his seat no longer and was thrown to the in the stirrup, and he was dragged and kicked by the frighted animal for severa minutes, it being impossible for those near to save him from his fearful fate. It was only after the horse had dragged nim out of the corral to a point some fifty feet from the gate that poor Long was released. He was picked up, a bleeding, lifeless mass of wounds and bruises, and tenderly carried into the house. Fearful injuries were in-flicted on his chest, side and head by the horses hoofs, and he soon expired. Dr. Wells was hastily summoned from Pendle-but when he arrived the patient was past medical aid—his soul had fied to its Maker. News was brought to Pendleton of the accident at 4:30 o'clock Friday afternoon between two boys sent by Mr. Taylor, and created two boys sent by Mr. Taylor, and created a feeling of sadness and gloom among the young man's friends, the more so as he had been here the day before, the picture of health and youthful vigor. R. Alexander telegraphed Joe Matlock at Eugene to send a messenger to Long's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Long, formerly of Milton, who live at Cottage Grove, twenty miles from the near-est telegraph station. Mr. and Mrs. James Wells, Jack Ireland and William Church came over from Milton to attend the funeral Mrs. Wells is a sister of the deceased.

Mrs. Wells is a sister of the deceased.

Gus Long was about twonty-two years old. He resided at Milton several years with his parents, being employed at the Peacock mills, of which his father was manager. He went with them to Cottage Grove when they removed below, and his return to this county, which has resulted so sorrowfully, was for the purpose of looking after his railroad land. He was a young man of promise and ability, his health was perfect, and he was cut off by the accident from a long. he was cut off by the accident from a long and useful life. Genial and kindly in dispo-sition, he won those to him during life who sition, he won those to min units, bend the head in poignant sorrow at his un-timely death. The Cardiff Giant Not Forgotten. San Francisco Chronicle.

Eugeno, Or., has tried to get up a sensation over a prehistoric atone man, but the usual revelations of fraud have followed. The expressman has been found who carted it from the railroad depot to the place near which it was found. If the petrified body of a compine conducting was found now of a genuine cave-dweller was found now it would be discredited at once. The pub-lic faith in giants of other days has received too hard a shock to recover.

To Faurr Mex.—The fruit men and farmers of Lane county should call on J. W. Shumate at Bettman's store and see the new Woodhurst invention for picking fruit. It is one of the most novel and money saving inventions we have ever seen for the careful gathering of apples, prones, plums, cherries, peaches, etc. Its cost is small, and it does the work intended in first-class style, besides it is simple in construction and durable. it is simple in construction and durable.
