The Pardon of Brown.
Concerning the pardon recently issued to one Brown, who was sentenced to the penitentiary for life for the murder of Johnny Walker, in Klamath county, was last week pardoned by the governor and released from custody. The Salem Capital Journal says: "A strong petition and recommendation of the district attorney caused the cessation of a sentence which is now said should have never been imposed." This is not true so far as the district attorney of the judicial district is concerned. Some two years ago an attempt was made to secure Brown's pardon, and, as required by law, the governor wrote to District Attorney Colvig asking his opinion as to the question of pardon. The district attorney replied that "it would be an outrage on public justice," and his answer is on file in the executive office. He has not changed his opinion since. It may be possible that T. B. Kent, who was district attorney at the time and conducted the prosecution (and who has since been sent to the insane asylum) was induced to recommend the pardon, but the district attorney has not done so. Brown had a fair trial and was defended by Cogswell, Hanna and Prim, and the idea that his sentence should not have been imposed never entered the public mind. Many people who know Brown have expressed the opinion that this is a case of mistaken clemency on the part of the governor, and that Brown's liberty is a menace to the lives of persons against whom he holds a grudge for their connection with the application of justice to his case in the past.

Don't Believe It
When told that F. M. Wilkins, the druggist, is not selling "Wisdom's Robotine" for the complexion, the most elegant and only really harmless preparation of its kind in the world, and giving a beautiful picture card with every bottle.

Call a Halt!—That tired languid feeling means that your system is in a state to invite disease, and Wright's Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla is what you need at once to expel impurities of the blood and build you up. Sold by all druggists.

MARSH'S FLOUR.—A. Goldsmith has received another car load of the celebrated Medford flour. He will keep this excellent brand of flour in stock at all times hereafter.

What is It?
That produces that beautifully soft complexion and leaves no traces of its application or injurious effects? The answer, Wisdom's Robotine accomplishes all this, and is pronounced by ladies of taste and refinement to be the most delightful toilet article for Chamberlain. He had a deep seated cold and terrible cough, and while setting up copy he made up his mind to buy a bottle. It cured him and that was the first I ever knew of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I have been strongly in its favor ever since. My own experience and that of my family convince me that this remedy is the best in the world. That may be strong language but that is what I think. For sale by F. M. Wilkins, Druggist.

The Eugene Cigar Factory
Keeps constantly on hand the finest brands of home made, domestic, and Key West cigars. Charges the lowest prices for chewing and smoking tobacco. Sell at retail and wholesale.

Give Them a Chance!
That is to say, your lungs! Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them. When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well. Call it cold, cough, croup, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boscche's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you, you may depend upon this for certain.

There is no danger of a cold resulting in pneumonia when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used as directed "for a severe cold." It effectually counteracts and arrests any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia. This fact was fully proven in thousands of cases during the epidemic of influenza last winter. For sale by F. M. Wilkins, Druggist.

The McKinley Dinner.
From the New York World.
The dinner would have been more successful but for the unavoidable absence of many of the very best protected ones. Among those who would have been very glad to attend and testify to the benefits of protection, but who really didn't feel able to come, were:

The 16,000 Pennsylvania miners who have been on a strike since their wages were cut 10 per cent.
The pottery workers of Trenton whose wages have been cut 22 per cent.
The ribbon weavers of Patterson whose wages have been cut 15 per cent.
The spinners of Lowell whose wages have been cut 15 per cent.

The coal miners of Illinois whose wages have been reduced from 69 to 60 cents per ton.
The employees of the Buckeye Keeper Works who have suffered a reduction of 30 per cent.
The employees of the Otis Iron and Steel companies of Cleveland whose wages have been cut 30 per cent.

The Hopedale weavers whose income has been reduced 2 1/2 cents a yard.
The Cocheo weavers whose wages have been cut 4 per cent.
The 2,500 employees of the Illinois Steel Company who are on a strike against a proposed reduction.

The employees of the Crane Iron Company of Allentown whose wages have been cut 10 per cent.
The 600 Providence weavers who struck against a proposed reduction six weeks ago and are still out.
The Willamette spoolers, whose wages have been cut $1.50 per week.

The furnace workers of Cleveland whose wages have cut 10 per cent.
The coal miners of Evansville, Ind., who are still on a strike.
The employees of the Jacksonville (Ill.) Underwear Co. who struck against a reduction of 3 per cent.

The Lewiston cotton workers who do not like even a reduction of 3 per cent.
The hatmakers of Methuen, Mass., whose wages have been cut 25 per cent.
The Chattanooga steel workers whose wages have been cut 10 per cent.

The employees of the Saxony Knitting Company of Little Falls, N. Y., whose reduction is 20 per cent.
The steel workers employed by Mr. Carnegie who lose 10 per cent.
The Seranton iron workers who are in the same box.

The Steelton, Bethlehem and Pottsville iron-workers who lose respectively 7, 10 and 12 per cent.
The silk-workers of Warehous Point, Conn., whose wages have been cut 27 per cent.

The engravers and chasers employed by the Middleton Plate Glass Company whose wages have been cut 15 per cent.
The employees of the New Haven Rolling Mill who are still out on a strike against a 10 per cent reduction.

All of the 50,000 or more protected workmen appreciate the great boon conferred upon them by the McKinley bill. But for the reduction in their wages deemed necessary by their employers to maintain the "principle" of protection, their absence need not have been regretted. Notwithstanding this unfortunate circumstance, however, they were not without representation. Most of their employers themselves kindly volunteered to attend at their own expense, and they were there last night hurrahing for protection with all their lungs. So, you see, the dinner would have been quite a success but for the dinner.

Hanged Himself.
Albany Democrat, May 18.
Between 8 and 9 o'clock to-day Mr. Wm. Newman, residing across the river, two miles from Albany, committed suicide by hanging himself.

About 9 o'clock Mrs. Newman, missing him, went into the barn where his body was suspended, life evidently having just become extinct. A son was called and hastily cut the rope. Mr. Newman was seen last about 8:30 o'clock. He had eaten breakfast as usual, doing nothing to indicate the deed at the present time. Tying the rope to a beam he slipped off a sack of potatoes, on which he had been kneeling, with his knees curled up. When found his feet were resting on the floor, which he could have reached with his fingers. In doing this deed he displayed a will power that was remarkable.

About four years ago a cancer appeared on the face of the deceased. It gradually spread until it had eaten his chin entirely off, and was spreading toward his eyes, causing a continual pain and agony that cannot be described. It was only natural that he should think of ending his misery, and if suicide is ever justifiable this was such a case.

Mr. Newman was 70 years of age. He came to the coast in 1849, during the gold excitement, and since then resided in Josephine county, until last November, when he purchased the farm of Mr. Mollahan and located on it. For sometime Mrs. Newman and her son had feared such an act, he having at different times indicated that he contemplated it. A week ago he tried to knot an artery and puncture it, but failed, saying he would not attempt it again.

Lieutenant Governor Jones, Roswell P. Flower and Speaker Sheehan are leading candidates for Governor of New York. Congressman A. J. Cummings of that state says if Flower shall be nominated he will be elected by 30,000 majority.

John A. Dillon, who, for the last eight years, has been managing editor of the St. Louis Dispatch, has gone to New York to assume editorial management of the New York World, vice John A. Cockerell, resigned.

Homily's Wake.
Pendleton E. O., May 10.

The "dead feast" held Tuesday by the Indians in memory of Chief Homily was quite an entertaining spectacle to the fifty or sixty ladies and gentlemen who attended.

Preparations for the feast began at about 9 o'clock in the morning, an immense amount of food being cooked in the Indian fashion to satisfy the hunger of the mourners. After these preliminaries the election was held, and resulted in the choosing of "No Shirt" as first chief to succeed the late lamented. "No Shirt" was not without that undergarment, however, as his name implies, but was attired as became his dignity. Umapine was elected second Chief.

This solemn formality over, the feast commenced and the Indians assuaged their grief by disposing of enormous quantities of salmon, meat, and other eatables.

After the feast the Indians and visitors gathered in an immense tepee, about a hundred yards in length, constructed with poles and matting. In the center was a cleared space for Chief Homily's effects, which were deposited therein and guarded by Hank Vaughan. Speeches were made by Peo, Young Chief, and the two chiefs elect, who eulogized the departed with native eloquence. Agent Moorehouse and Dr. McKay also made speeches. An adjournment then took place to allow the white visitors, time to eat their lunches.

About 2 p. m. commenced the distribution of the personal effects of Chief Homily among his relatives, in order that the relics may preserve his memory among his people. They consisted of clothing, fine blankets, war suits, trinkets and articles of every variety, which he had collected during his lifetime.

A Vigorous Old Man.
Albany Democrat.

We often read items about vigorous old men. The following is equal to any yet reported. In order to add to its interest an incident of forty-four years ago will be appropriate. In the Cayuse war of 1847-8, near Walla Walla, Mr. Green McDonald and Mr. Jason Wheeler were both shot on the same day—Mr. Wheeler through one of his thighs, while the Indian's bullet passed into one of Mr. McDonald's lungs, first cutting a copper button in two, going clear through and lodging under the skin, making a bunch nearly as big as a hen's egg. Mr. McDonald walked up to Mr. Wheeler and remarked: "Well they's got me this time," thinking his time had come. Mr. Joe Earl, residing in the third ward, was present at the time. A few days ago Mr. Wheeler paid Mr. McDonald a visit at his home near Soio. Notwithstanding the bullet's trip through his lung he was alive yet, and more, though 73 years of age, was splitting rails with the energy of a Lincoln. He informed Mr. Wheeler, on being taken to task for a man of his age to be in such an occupation, said a couple of days previous he had cut the timber and split 126 oak rails, equal to about twice the number of fir rails. He quit his rail splitting for the time and the two friends talked of the events of by-gone days. Do the readers of the Democrat know of any more vigorous 73-year-old gentlemen in Oregon, regardless of Indian bullets?

Lee's Unconscious Bravery.
N. Y. Sun.

Here is a story illustrative of the consideration General Lee always showed for others while remaining absolutely indifferent to what might befall himself. It was in the Wilderness fight, and he and General Wade Hampton were passing over the field. They came to a narrow pass between woods, and Lee noticed that the passage was covered by the northern sharpshooters, who were doing very effective work. "Hampton," said the commanding general, "I reckon you had better go 'round through the trees and meet me on the other side, as the fire of the sharpshooters is very dangerous here."

That is all there is of the story. Of course, General Hampton said: "General Lee, I guess if you can walk there, I can follow you." But note the unconsciousness of personal danger and the unconsciousness of Lee. These were inessential characteristics of his.

A Chicago man is out here in search of a stick of timber 110 feet square. He has not been able to find such a stick in any of the lumber yards in Portland and so has gone down to the Nehalem to look for a tree to make one. He is working in the interest of the Columbian Exposition, and it is supposed that the stick is wanted for the center pole of the great circus. In this case it is likely that the stick will need to be four feet square on one end. The Oregonian thinks if he succeeds in finding such a stick and getting it out of the woods, without people knowing it he will be a dandy.

After July 1, across the face of every stamp issued to liquor dealers by the internal revenue bureau, will be printed the following: This stamp is simply a receipt for a tax due the government, and does not exempt the holder from any penalty or punishment provided for by the law of any state for carrying on the said business within such state, and does not authorize the commencement nor the continuance of such business contrary to the laws of such state or in places prohibited by municipal law.

Commissioner Baker is after the microbe killer man. He says a gallon of the stuff would eat up more than two drachms of zinc. Those of us who have failed to get zinc linings for our stomachs would do well to moderate in our efforts to exterminate unknown and undetermined microbes in our system. An old remedy for it is a dog was to kill the dog and bury him, but it is questionable whether the same remedy is a good one for microbes, especially as few of us have yet got on speaking terms with our microbes anyhow.—Welcome.
