A Disastrous Blaze.

Just after the celebration of the Fourth of July Saturday, a fire broke out in the hotel at La Grande, Or., and a large amount of property was destroyed.

The entire city was, for a time, threatened with destruction.

The loss will be about $125,000, with insurance of about $40,000.

In addition to the losses through damage by removal and personal effects were large.

Among the latter, were a $600 diamond necklace and gold watch of Mrs. Senator Dolph. A large number of visitors from Baker City and other towns, were in the city for the purpose of attending the ball.

A number of ladies who were guests at the Blue Mountain house lost valuable wardrobes.

THE HOP LOUSE.—Philip Neis, the well known hop buyer has been here and made an examination of a number of yards. He says that it is the genuine hop louse that infests these yards. His brother, Wm. Neis, who has a yard a short distance above Springfield, picks the leaves from the vines to the top of the poles, which are short, twice being used. He will spray.

A QUARTZ MILL.—The quartz mill for the Brownsville Mining and Milling Company, of the Blue River Mines, has arrived at Blue river. It will be carried into the mines by pack horses. B. F. Finn having the contract. No one piece of the mill weighs more than 300 lbs. It is a two-stamp mill, and is guaranteed to do first-class work. We understand that it will be run day and night.

THE SEWER.—Work on the lower end of the sewer is progressing slowly. The cut is deep and the water from the gravel interferes with the workmen. It has been necessary to plank the sides of the cut to prevent caving. Mr. Bellman, the contractor for the brick work is busily engaged. To get rid of the water that flows freely through the gravel, lines of 4 inch clay pipe are laid on each side of the sewer on the bottom furnishing a drain.

A KIND ACT.—Salem Hose Team, No. 3, on the Fourth, procured Nina, the little daughter of F. M. Wilkins, to ride on their hose cart in the procession. Imagine the surprise of the parents when they wheeled the little girl home, and the Foreman, in a neat speech presented her with a handsome gold watch, inscribed: "To Nina; from the Salem Hose Team, No. 3—1891." Mr. Wilkins in a few appropriate words extended the thanks of himself and Mrs. Wilkins.

HEAT.—Friday evening, July 3rd returning from the exercises at Camp Grant, and while near his residence, the horse gave a sudden lurch, and threw Rev. J. C. Richardson heavily to the ground upon his head and left arm. He is badly shook up, but not fatally injured.

AT THE STANDE.—Hon. Geo. B. Dorris in appropriate words made the introductory remarks. A melody was played by the Convallis Brass Band.

Rev. N. B. Alley, of the Christian church, made an impressive prayer. Foremaster basily knitted on a yarn stocking. On the side of the wagon cover was the placard "As we came to Oregon." After them came two wagons with tattered wagon sheets, drawn by horses, filled with a representation of families, the heads of the bareheaded boys protruding through rents in the sheet. The oxen could not travel as fast as the procession and were a little late in reaching the speaker's stand. As they came the militia drawn in line on the south side of Eighth street, received them. Gov. Whiteaker made a neat and facetious speech from the stand of a newly arrived emigrant.

Hon. S. M. Yoran read the Declaration of Independence, after which the oration was delivered by Hon. S. W. Condon. The address was carefully prepared and received the plaudits of the assembled people for the practical and patriotic remarks. A Fourth of July oration is not a new thing. Mr. Condon by his treatment of the subject, interested and held the attention of his auditors to the end.

The programme was interspersed with music by the band. It was impossible for thousands to get within hearing of the speakers.

SHAM BATTLE.

After one o'clock the people in all sorts of vehicles, on foot and in street cars began to make their way to College Hill to witness the sham battle between the militia. The street cars were crowded to their capacity, platforms and aisles being occupied by standing men, women and children. Grounds more appropriate for the purpose could not have been selected. The movements of the troops could be witnessed easily by the multitude assembled, estimated at over 10,000 people. The troops were divided, infantry batteries and Marine Cadets taking their position on the crest of the hill while the militia formed up on the valley below. Lines of battle were formed, attacks made, flank movements executed with varying results until it ended in the planting of the flags of the attacking forces, after a hand to hand conflict, on the enemy's grounds. During the excitement of the fray three men were powder-burned, one of them a Coos Bay company, rather narrowly escaping the loss of his eyes by narrowly turning his face from the gun. Capt. Sachs of the Marine Cadets had one of his hands burned. The surgeon had his headquarters on the top of the hill and picked out the injured men by picking out the grains of powder. After the sham battle the troops marched back through Willamette street presenting a handsome appearance. It can be said that the militia display in procession and battle was the most prominent feature of the day.

HONORABLE.

The horse races announced for 6 p. m. were among the most exciting amusements of the day. Thousands gathered along Eighth street between Oak and Pearl streets to witness them. The teams cut were: Junction, Eugene No. 1; Eugene No. 3; Corvallis, Salem and Albany, the Lebanon team falling to materialize.

Sheriff Nolan who had this contest in charge appointed the following parties to officiate in the same:

Timers—E. B. Luckey, Mr. Warrall, Albany, and Mr. Kemp, of Corvallis.

Judge—John Shatt, of Junction; Sheriff E. M. Croisan, of Salem; Wm. Preston, of Eugene.

EUGENE'S CELEBRATION.

Fully 20,000 People Celebrate in Eugene on the Fourth.

The celebration last Saturday was the grandest affair of the kind that was ever held in the State of Oregon, outside of the city of Portland, and we confidently believe that more people attended the same. It was estimated that between 18,000 and 20,000 were present. The best of order was maintained, only three arrests being made during the entire twenty-four hours. Willamette street, between Seventh and Ninth was kept clear of teams during the entire day, which was a great convenience to all with people as the mass of people was forced to use the street, the sidewalks being too narrow for the occasion. The weather was beautiful, and seemed specially prepared for the occasion, being neither too cool or too warm. By six o'clock in the evening of the 3d our streets were filled up with people as much as on an ordinary celebration, but Saturday morning the people began arriving from the surrounding country in all kinds of vehicles by hundreds. Then the trains brought full loads, the special alone that arrived at 9:25 with 10 cars and 1,000 people.

Pioneer emigrant train and their successors in 1841.

Citizens in carriages, etc.

The Second Regiment turned out nearly 400 men and they received the attention of all. The Grand Army turned out 71 men and presented a fine appearance. Both the Salem and Corvallis bands discoursed most excellent music. The Marine Cadets 69 strong under command of Captain Sachs were greatly admired by all, and it was entertaining to see them keep step and go through the manual of arms. The Fremont procession, Mrs. Elizabeth H. Fox, and the Pioneer emigrant train and their successors in 1841.
