

A Flood of Gold.

Portland Telegram: We have no great faith in the estimates, government or other, of the production and possible exportation of grain crops.

The export value of these is put at about $330,000,000, an excess of $180,000,000 over the value of the exports of the past year.

Those who are or pretend to be so nervous over the inflation of the currency and the driving out of gold and silver coinage might as well calm their alleged fears.

The editor of the Oregon Express lately visited the Cascade Locks and the way he writes them up would impress one with the conviction that the whole works are simply intended as a monument to the gentlemen in charge.

We have the words of a visitor, in explanation of this stone dressing operation. He says that it has been the policy of gentlemen in charge of the work from way back, to carve his monogram on the corner stone at the base of the wall.

By the time the wall has assumed definite shape his successor would be designated, and the wall had to be taken down, presumably to reach that corner stone, which was taken out, the monogram removed and that of the new officer chiseled in its place.

Oregon protectionists don't point to the woolen mills at Oregon City to illustrate the beneficial workings of a protective tariff.

Some Ohio democrats offered a reward for the capture of a workman who has had his wages raised under the operation of the McKinley bill.

The Milton Eagle says a Wallowa country girl worked the motto, "I Need Thee Every Hour," and sent it to her fellow.

Bob Burdette says God wasted mud when he made the man who takes a newspaper from the post office for two or three months and then has the post master mark it "refused" in order to avoid paying for it.

It is a matter upon which the people are to be congratulated that the codlin month are far less numerous than last year.

A Tacoma dispatch gives the account of a gentleman who witnessed the assault made yesterday on the notorious detective Sullivan, as follows:

"I was standing in front of my store when Sullivan came out of the restaurant, and when he got in front of my store a man rushed up to him, took him by the lapels of the coat and turning the detective around knocked him down with a terrific blow in the face.

Mabel Murrings.

October 6, 1891.

Geo. Drury, of Mill Creek, was here last week.

Van Matre marketed some fine beef cattle in Eugene last week.

Rev. Trelener, from near Oregon City, preached here last Sunday both morning and evening.

Married last Sunday at the residence of and by Mr. Phillip Workman, Mr. Thomas Whitmore and Miss Nellie Cole.

The Sunday school at this place for some reason has been allowed to quiet down. Heretofore there has been Sunday school and why not revive it?

The families of John and Dave Weddies and Frank Smith who left here eleven years ago for Eastern Oregon, returned last week.

Corvallis issued $10,000 in bonds for a city hall. The contract was let and work began on a hall. Now it is learned that the issuance of the bonds was illegal and the successful bidder will not take them.

Prineville News: Linn Woods has a new contrivance for operating his hydraulic ram at Deshutes; he has a large water wheel with buckets attached which raises the water several feet and then pours it into a trough which conducts it a few hundred yards to the ram.

In the case of Benj. Despain, of Pendleton, who was accused some time ago of taking a letter belonging to Mrs. J. Means from the postoffice, and was arrested, the U. S. district attorney has found that there was nothing to warrant the charge against him and directs that he be discharged and his bondmen exonerated, which has been done by the U. S. commissioner.

The new theatre room is now adequate to the wants of Eugene, and will accommodate any audience that is liable to come to gether except on some very extraordinary occasion.
