

SOMETIME.

Well, either you or I. After whatever is to say is said, I'll look at the other side. Or hear, through distance, of the other dead—

A NEWSPAPER.

Yes, sir; I give it to you straight, or I'm a Chinaman. Fool? No, no; I'm not. I'm not one to fool; I drove a bob tailed car too long for that!

"I should say not," said the doctor. "But my opinion is that you turned your back a minute and that the woman got off without paying her fare."

MISSIONARY WORK.

THOMAS STEVENS GIVES THE RESULTS OF HIS OBSERVATIONS. Quite a Difference Between the Ideal and the Real—Maliciousness of the Average Mohammedan—Statistics Which Prove a Very Cold Fact.

INSTINCTS THAT ARE LOST.

Or Is Man Really Heir of All the Faculties of the Animal Kingdom? If the doctrine be true that man is really the heir of all the various species and genera of the animal kingdom, it seems a little hard upon us that, even by way of exception, we inherit none of the most marvelous instincts of those species and genera, and have to be content with those greater but purely human faculties by which even the most wonderful of the animal instincts have been somehow extinguished.

MANY USEFUL BIRDS.

PEOPLE HAVE A WRONG IDEA OF THE VALUE OF THE BIPEDS. The Feathered Creatures Would Be More Pleasant if the Farmer and the Summer Visitor Knew More About Them. They Aid the Farmer Very Much.

SIGHTS IN BANGKOK.

Graphic Description of What Chicago's Ex-Mayor Saw in an Oriental City. Bangkok is entirely different from all other eastern cities I have seen. Elsewhere the houses are compacted together so as to cover as little space as possible, and the people massed as in hives.

WHAT IS THE MATTER?

WHY DO AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE STUDENTS LEAVE THE FARM? They Study Law or Medicine, or Engage in Mercantile Pursuits—Some of the Reasons Why They Learn to Dislike Farming.

THE MOOR ON A HOUSE TOP.

As I was making my toilet one morning I chanced to see a Moor mount to the flat roof of the opposite house. Placing himself in a quiet corner, shielded by the higher wall of an adjoining building, he turned toward the morning sun—or, rather, toward the high Mecca—crossed his arms upon his breast and reverently bowed his head.

THE REWARD OF HONESTY.

The conductor of a New York Central train found $400 in one of the cars. Learning of its owner, he telegraphed him to be on hand on the return trip for his money. The owner was prompt, and after counting the bills, handed the conductor half a dollar.

THE MONKEY WITH YELLOW FEVER.

During the epidemic of yellow fever that prevailed some time ago in Caracas, the medical profession had an opportunity to see, in one of the public houses of the city, a monkey afflicted with that disease. The principal symptoms were found to manifest themselves in a manner so marked that there remained not the least doubt on the part of the physicians who observed them that it was an undoubted case of yellow fever.

THE MONKEY WITH YELLOW FEVER.

During the epidemic of yellow fever that prevailed some time ago in Caracas, the medical profession had an opportunity to see, in one of the public houses of the city, a monkey afflicted with that disease. The principal symptoms were found to manifest themselves in a manner so marked that there remained not the least doubt on the part of the physicians who observed them that it was an undoubted case of yellow fever.

THE MONKEY WITH YELLOW FEVER.

During the epidemic of yellow fever that prevailed some time ago in Caracas, the medical profession had an opportunity to see, in one of the public houses of the city, a monkey afflicted with that disease. The principal symptoms were found to manifest themselves in a manner so marked that there remained not the least doubt on the part of the physicians who observed them that it was an undoubted case of yellow fever.