THE CRY OF MILLIONS!
OH, MY BACK!
 STOP IT NOW!
 SOON IT WILL BE TOO LATE.
 I have been troubled many years with disease of the kidneys and have tried many different remedies and have sought aid from different physicians without relief. About the 15th of April I was suffering from a very violent attack that almost prostrated me in such a manner that I was sent over to the hospital. I was there for several weeks, and it was almost impossible for me to get up alone, or to put on my clothes, when kind Providence sent Dr. Herley, with the OREGON KIDNEY PILLS, to my hotel. I immediately commenced using the pills. It had an almost miraculous effect, and to the astonishment of all the guests at the hotel, in a few days I am happy to state that I was a new man. I will recommend the pills to all afflicted as I have been.

 Judge E. N. Tandy, of Harrisburg, is a cousin of Congressman Mills.
 The tender youth of the town have a fair of wearing strips of colored paper.
 Twenty boys are in the Reform School at Salem and another is on the road from Eugene Oregon.
 Senator Mitchell has introduced a bill in the Senate calling for an appropriation of $15,000 for the construction of a military and commercial telegraph line between Florence and Yaguna City.
 Tacoma, Seattle, Portland, San Francisco, San Jose, and probably Los Angeles will be the members of the new six-club Pacific coast baseball league. If Tacoma wants a team now is the time to be in securing players.—Tacoma News.
 Albany Herald: Hereafter the steam schooner "Miech", which was built at Yaguna Bay some few years since, will sail under the English flag. She was purchased by some parties at Victoria, B. C. a short time since and will engage in the steaming business in northern waters.
 According to Major Corroyer, of Umatilla county, he had watermelons for Christmas which were raised in his own garden. Taking into consideration the climate of that locality, at this season of the year, watermelons would not be relished very greatly, even if the major's story is true.
 The Oregonian's Washington correspondent gives a list of bills introduced by Congressmen from Oregon. Among them is the following: For continuing the present project for improvement of the entrance to the Siuslaw bay, $300,000. This is the work that the war department here says on occasion of any telegraphing that they have had as to any of the largest harbors of the nation.
 According to the new voting law the judges and clerks of election must be served with notice of their appointment within thirty days from the time the sheriff receives the notices from the clerk. The notices of election must also be posted with the same time. It is required to take charge of the voting booths the day before election and attend to placing them and care for them afterwards. To do this he will be compelled to have a deputy in each precinct.

SATURDAY, JAN. 9.
 Today Jno. Peterson and Mary Sorenson were granted a license to wed.
 Julius Goldsmith returned to Eugene this morning from Medford. He will reside here in the future.
 Three boys escaped the Salem reform school Thursday night by tearing their blankets into strips and lowering themselves to the ground. They were recaptured in Polk county.
 Ashland Tidings, Jan. 7: Supt. Agler brought the rotary snow plow from the Truckee division over the Mt. Shasta division and into Ashland last Thursday. It cleared the road slick and clean, and sent the snow to the sides and out of sight. The side tracks on the Siskiyou were all cleaned out. Many people were at the depot to see the great machine the days it was in Ashland.
 Farrar of London says that he will give $500 for the proof of a single case, in the church or out of it where a person has been cured of intermiseria without practicing total abstinence. This means says the Denver Sun that the Archbishop's observation teaches him that the person who has fallen or drifted into the habit of drinking does not ever lose himself over into a quiet, moderate, decorous drinker again. He must continue in his excess or not drink at all. He must give up the pleasures of the wine table and the social part as the price of safety. There are doubtless others whose observations will corroborate Archbishop's conclusions, some may even confirm it by experience.

MONDAY, JAN. 11.
 The Glee Club concert was a success.
 Mr. A. Peters has bought 40,000 bushels of oats this season.
 Dr. Corbin, of Mount Pleasant, Mich., is visiting his son, E. M. Corbin of this city.
 Miss Julia Caswell, of San Francisco is visiting in this city, the guest of Mrs. Geo. M. Miller.
 Italian skies never beamed more brightly than those which cover the Willamette valley today.
 The flour and coal oil famine at Florence was relieved last Thursday by the arrival of the steamer Chance.
 Here is a joke from the Hymey Times-Bill King thinks this paper is barking at its subscribers, but if anybody is barking it is Bill King.
 San Jose won the baseball championship of the Pacific coast yesterday. Portland got mad at the umpire's decision in the last game and quit when it was a tie.
 Gov. Whitaker returned from Portland Saturday night. He does not appear to be worse for the labor of restraining the unruly democrats, who had assembled at the metropolis.
 Miss Sue Dorris has withdrawn from the Winter Photo Co., and will leave in the morning for Tacoma, where she has accepted a position in a photo establishment.
 M. S. Wallis returned to Salem this morning. The clerks of the state board of equalization are now busy formulating the report of the board which will take considerable time.
 One of the best indications of the steadily increasing population of Eugene on this, one of our most beautiful days, is to see the numerous baby carriages on the street, their occupants enjoying the fine weather.
 The Christian Endeavor Union of Eugene at their annual meeting held yesterday at the Christian church elected the following officers: Harry Hopkins, president; Albert Shelton, secretary; J. E. Boyd, corresponding secretary, and George D. Linn, treasurer.
 It appears to be the general opinion that hereafter the democratic state convention of clubs should hold the banquet after the business meeting. Champagne suppers are not conducive to clear heads and alert minds, and are inclined to make the participants berish in temperament.
 Miss Maggie Whitney, of Eugene, who was elected to fill a vacancy in the corps of teachers in the Albany public schools, has been compelled on account of illness to resign that position. She is seriously ill with throat trouble at her home in Eugene.—Albany Herald.
 Indications at present point to a lively time in building here this coming summer. A recent visit to the two extensive saw and door factories found nearly a full force of men at work during the whole winter on work for the buildings to be erected this coming season. Already advantage is being taken of the better weather, and new dwellings are to be seen in course of construction in all parts of the city.
 Exchange: How dear to the heart is the yellow-backed pumpkin, when orchards are barren, and berries of no kind have greeted the eyes. How fondly we turn to the fruit of the cornfield, the fruit that our children are taught to despise—the old yellow pumpkin, the mud-covered pumpkin, the big-bellied pumpkin that makes such good pies.

The Firemen of Eugene never fail to make their reunions pleasant affairs.
 Portland did not get near all she deserved when her mortgages were assessed the same as other portions of the state. She has heretofore evaded her just proportion of taxation by under valuations and doubtful methods of assessment.
 An irresistible fate pursues James G. Blaine and robs him of the prize to secure which has been his fond ambition. When he could have been elected president the nomination could not be secured. When nominated, several incidents out of the ordinary course of affairs compassed his defeat. Now again the nomination is within his grasp, his health gives away, and forever dissipates the dream of his manhood years.
 The removal of the mud from Willamette street will mean less dust next summer. There are several other streets that should be cleaned and the work should be done by the public authorities. The city can have the work done for one-half what it would cost the individual taxpayers. The price charged property owners on the two business blocks was extortionate, but they could not help themselves. The city refused to perform the work that justly belonged to it, and the individuals had no other recourse.
 The patient light house keeper on Tillamook rock, a short distance south of the mouth of the Columbia, leads a lonely life. At times they are for several weeks without communication with the outside world. During the storm of Dec. 7 water in solid sheets poured against the heavy plate glass that protects the lamps 157 feet above the sea. Iron netting around the plates was twisted and warped from their fastenings. The light keeper's wives are not allowed to reside in the light house. It stands on a lone rock near the coast, and fears are entertained that some great storm may crush and crumble the rock with its load of humanity.
 The advertisements in a newspaper are read more than the thoughtless imagine. They are the maps of a large class of men's capabilities in life. The man who contemplates doing business in a distant town takes up the local paper, and in its advertising columns sees a true picture of the men he has to deal with—a complete record of the town, its commerce, its home trade, the facilities of store keepers, and in almost every case he can estimate the character of the men who are soliciting the public patronage. The advertising page is a map of the town, a record of the municipal character, a business confession of the citizens, and instead of being the opinionated production of one man, it is freighted with the life thoughts of a hundred.

Mr. Shelton, president of the state board of equalization, in an address before the state board of apportionment said: I will venture the statement that I can take two streets in the city of Portland, and if they were assessed at 100 per cent, the amount would be as great as the total net assessment of the whole of Multnomah county. The Oregonian, a paper which seems to have, in advance, the arguments of the eminent council who have appeared before you today, affords a good illustration of the way property is assessed in Multnomah county. This (the Oregonian Publishing Co.) as I am reliably informed, is erecting the finest fire-proof building in the Northwest, at a cost, including grounds, of about $600,000. $400,000 of this, paid by said company, out of its own funds, besides the immense income derived from the plant, yet on the assessment roll of Multnomah county, now filed in the secretary of state's office, this great company, with building, appears to be worth only $59,000. And if this paper still continues to champion the cause of Multnomah county in this unequal assessment, it will be the best means of enlightening the people of the state of Oregon of the present inequality of taxation.
 The officers of the Tin-Plate Consumers' Association of the United States have published a list of the members of the association, and with it a few remarks. The list includes more than 250 incorporations and firms, among these being the most prominent packers and canners in the country. The officers say:
 It is a matter of business that since the McKinley bill was passed we have had to pay over $10,000,000 more for the tin plates we use in our factories and workshops, and that the present duty will add every year over $15,000,000 to the cost of our raw material. It is a matter of business, and not of politics, that up to the present moment (the date below these remarks is Dec. 10, 1891) not one sheet of coke tins, which constitute over one-half our requirements, has yet been put on the market by the American manufacturers, and that the present output of all kinds does not constitute 1 per cent of the entire consumption of tin plate in America. Again, it is a matter of business that the small lots produced have only been obtainable at prices considerably above what the same quality can be imported even under the increased duty.
