The Proprietors of a New Steamboat Interviewing our Business Men. As has been heretofore published, the firm of Love Bros. and R. G. Young & Son, have recently built a steamer at Corvallis, which they intend plying on the Willamette river from Salem to Eugene, providing sufficient inducements are offered by our shippers. The boat is now receiving its machinery at Salem. It is to be called the "R. G. Young," will have a carrying capacity of 65 tons, drawing 28 to 30 inches, when loaded, and 12 inches when empty. The machinery will be of the best and of great power, considering the size of the craft.

Mr. A. H. Love and his brother were here last evening interviewing our business men on the matter. He says he thinks that he can run to Eugene the greater portion of the year, and in good stages of water, would make from one to two trips per week. Arrange-ments have been made by the company to make connections with the steamer Elwood, which runs between Portland and Salem, and for the transfer of fraight and massengers to Portland by and Salem, and for the transfer of freight and passengers to Portland by the same. They ask from our business men $500 in advance, to be paid for in freight at $1 per ton less than the price now charged by the railroad company, which they agree to secure to the sub-scribers by good security. The owners of the boat are practical steamboat men. It would seem that our shippers would guarantee the amount at once would guarantee the amount at once as this would inaugurate again a business that our people certainly desire, and without any cost whatever to them. The gentlemen left this morn-ing by a small boat to look at the river, when they will make a definite propo-
