THE CRY OF MILLIONS!
OH, MY BACK!
STOP IT NOW!
SOON IT WILL BE TOO LATE.

I have been troubled many years with rheumatism of the back and have tried many different remedies and have not found relief. About the 15th of April I was suffering from a very violent attack that almost prostrated me in such a manner that I was bent over to get up alone, or to put on my clothes, when kind Providence sent Mr. H. H. Miller's DR. MILES' RESTORATIVE NERVINE to my aid. I immediately commenced using the tea. It had an almost instantaneous effect, and to the astonishment of all the guests at the hotel, in a few days I was happy to state that I was a new man. I will recommend the tea to all afflicted as I have been.

DR. MILES' RESTORATIVE NERVINE.

There is nothing like the RESTORATIVE NERVINE discovered by the great specialist, DR. MILES, to cure all nervous diseases, as Headache, the Blues, Nervous Prostration, Sleeplessness, Neuritis, St. Vitus's Dance, Fits and Hysteria. Many physicians use it in their practice, and say the results are wonderful. We have a testimonial from a lady who writes: "I have never known anything like it. Snow & Co., Syracuse, N. Y. Wolf, Hillsdale, Mich. 'The best seller we ever had.' Woodworth, Co., Fort Wayne, Ind. 'Nervine sells better than anything we ever had.' H. P. Wray & Co., Chicago, Ill. 'I have used bottles and books of testimonials from all over the world.' DR. MILES' MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

FRIDAY, FEB. 25.

Seven feet of snow is reported in the Bohemia mines.

J. D. Howard, of Elmira, has been appointed a notary public.

A marriage license was issued by the county clerk to C. F. Bigelow and Amanda Fisher.

S. H. Clevenger, formerly of Cottage Grove, has located at Albany and bought a shop at that place.

Sam May, Harrisburg's leading merchant, spent last night in Eugene. We acknowledge a pleasant and profitable call.

C. W. Washburne, of Junction, and Darwin Bristow, of Cottage Grove, are mentioned as probable candidates on the Republican legislative ticket.

J. M. Smith who was recently married in Ithaca, N. Y., arrived here, accompanied by his wife, last evening, and will reside in Eugene.

The Caroline Gage Dramatic Company is playing in Southern California. They will make Eugene a visit in a few months. Of course they will do a large business here.

Salem Statesman: The people of Eugene seem to be very enthusiastic over the prospects of having regular trips of the river boat, R. C. Young. And they should be and help it.

Harold Anderson, who works for I. W. Holloway, received a dispatch this morning announcing the sad news of the death of his mother, at Rockford, Ill., last night.

Albany Democrat: There are now four candidates for county clerk on the democratic ticket, all popular men, to-wit: N. P. Payne, the present official, and J. P. Galbraith, of this city, C. C. Hackleman, of Lebanon, and C. E. Starnard of Brownsville.

The Welcome reports that hired girls are becoming a drug in the market at Portland. Close times has induced frugal housewives to become their own servants—and misadventure and the servant girl is without a calling. In consequence, wages for female domestics have dropped from $25 and $30 per month to $12 and $20.

After quoting our item concerning H. B. Miller having seen E. R. Luckey in Salem February 2nd, the Salem Statesman Thursday says: "No one can be found in this city who saw E. R. Luckey on the date mentioned, although diligent inquiry was made among his acquaintances at the time—as soon as his disappearance was noted."

Thursday's Salem Statesman: Harrison R. Kincaid, editor of the Eugene Journal, was in the city and paid this office a pleasant call on Tuesday. Mr. Kincaid is one of the oldest newspaper men in Oregon in continuous service, and he looks as young as he did eight years ago. He was the guest while in this city of his nephew, Chauncey Lockwood.

H. W. Dunham, of Marshfield, Coos county, has reversed the usual manner of advertising the departure of a wife from bed and board, and instead of notifying people to trust her no longer on his account, offers a special reward for the return of his wife. He took her departure about ten days ago. Mr. Dunham evidently recognizes the value of a good woman and is loath to lose her.

A gentleman prominently identified with the fruit interests of this county made the statement to the Chronicle yesterday that there is not a California orange on sale in this city that is not covered with the San Jose scale. This is a serious state of affairs and of threatening import to our fruit interests. It implies an urgent demand for better laws against the pests of the orchard or a more vigorous execution of the laws we have.—The Dalles Chronicle.

A revival recently attempted in Prineville was a dismal failure. After the first night's exertion the evangelist asked all who wanted to go to heaven to stand up. Nobody stood. Then he told all who wished to be paroled in the seething cauldron prepared for the devil and attendant demons to stand up. Nobody stood. Services were discontinued at once. "It's no use," said the evangelist, "to try and convert people who are satisfied with Crook county."

Exchange: A gentleman from Spokane, speaking of the effect upon his city of the coming of the Great Northern railroad said nearly 200 people got off the train the day he left there. For the past week the trains have been crowded to their utmost capacity, and the officials say that if the travel continues at this rate for the past two weeks, an extra train a day will be necessary. At the postoffice the crowd was so great that a force of police is kept there constantly to prevent a pack in the lobby.

Mrs. S. Wilson living twelve miles south of Warsaw, Ill., being suddenly ill last Saturday, and to all appearances died. She was dressed for burial and arrangements for her funeral were made. No physician was called. On Monday a neighbor was sent to Warsaw for a coffin, but got drunk and did not reach home until Tuesday morning. When the coffin was placed in the woman threw up her arms and caught one of the attendants by both wrists. With difficulty her fingers were released. By the aid of a mirror respiration was detected. Restoratives were applied to her face and Mrs. Wilson was able to talk. She is too weak to say much about her experience while in a trance. She says she knew preparations were being made for her burial, and it was by almost superhuman effort that she threw up her arms and clutched the wrists of the attendant. She will recover.

The farmers in South Dakota assure the papers outside the state that they need not worry so trouble over them in that dicker with the rain producers. If they are deceived, it will cost their sollicitious friends nothing and they are able to take care of their own interests. But they expect to have the laugh on their side. Last Saturday all the regions in the Black Hills were represented at the largest meeting ever held in that part of the state, called to meet Melbourne or his agent, to negotiate for the rain they may need to grow crops. The region has a large area of extremely fertile land, but their crops are so uncertain from failure of the rains to fall at the right time that they hesitate to attempt to cultivate much land. An irrigation convention immediately after manifested little interest in that method of supplying moisture. The simpler and cheapest schemes of the rain-makers evidently have a good deal of popular confidence. This may have a queer look a few months later, but just now the rainmakers have the right of way.

The case against the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific, brought some time ago by the state railroad commission, says the Portland Telegram, Feb. 25, will probably be compromised. The commission has made overtures to that effect, but it does not appear that the Southern Pacific will consider them, though the Union Pacific may. W. W. Cotton, attorney for the Union, and Judge Fenton for the Southern Pacific have been taking testimony in the case this morning. The suit is still before a referee, who will not report it to the Salem court for a month or six weeks yet. When that is done will come up for argument unless a compromise is effected in the meantime. The first suit was brought by the commission on the 19th of September. They had made a tariff for both these roads and ordered them to be adopted on September 1. They were not adopted. The suit was then run on such a tariff would entail an actual loss. And the matter has been in the courts since that time, the Union Pacific having brought another suit to test the legality of the commission.

Business vs Sentiment.

We believe that a poll of the democracy would show a majority in favor of the nomination of Cleveland. But the selection of a presidential candidate must not always be conducted to please popular clamor. It is one thing to nominate, another to elect. From all indications New York is the pivotal state. It has elected a delegation pledged to a favorite son, and instructed to vote as a unit for him. Over one month's notice of the time of the convention that elected the delegates was given, and although the press opposed to Senator Hill's aspirations made a bitter fight, less than twenty of the delegates, out of nearly six hundred selected from all parts of the state, were favorable to Cleveland.

In 1884 New York's vote was cast for Cleveland by but little more than a thousand, and that too after a number of mistakes by the republican managers, and a series of political incidents any one of which, not existing, would have left Blaine master of the field. The Conkling feud, the mugwumps, the prohibitionists, in the republican party, and Burleigh's famous alliteration, "rum, Romanism and rebellion," the millionaire dinner to Blaine, were all necessary to seat Cleveland in the presidential chair by a bare plurality. Four years later with the advantage of a term during which a clean administration had been given, almost devoid of mistakes, he met defeat in his own state by a plurality of over 13,000. Those who clamor for Cleveland's nomination should remember these facts. The democratic party is not waiting for statesmen at the present time. Nearly a score of men could be easily named anyone of whom would fill the position with honor to himself and credit to his party, their devotion to the principles of the party unimpugned. It is a business proposition, and the zealous partisans, who can see but one man and prophet, should use their reason long enough to realize the situation.

The Polk county tax levy is the highest for many years. The West Side says: Just when everyone was expecting a reduction in the taxes of the state, and especially in Polk county, they jumped up to 20 mills on the dollar. We are informed that this is the highest tax levy our county has ever had. When is this thing going to stop? The tax payers should know the exact financial condition of the county. There should be an exhibit published showing the outstanding warrants upon which we are paying interest, and the total assets and liabilities of the county. It is rumored, and was publicly stated by Prof. Rork, in the opera house, that the county was in debt $60,000. If that is true we should know the facts of the case.

Senator Palmer, of Illinois, is a man of large political experience and worthy of the highest office that the people could bestow upon him. His age however is an insuperable objection to a presidential nomination by the democratic party. He is 75 years of age and it is not to be expected that he could stand the strain of an exciting campaign, and if elected, the more onerous duties that would devolve upon him. The country does not wish a similar spectacle to that when Allen Thurman, a man of about the same age, demonstrated his physical incapacity to take a part that required the nerve and strength of active manhood. Palmer's brain is clear and active, he has escaped falling into dotage, but a younger and stronger man must be selected to carry the democratic pennant.

In a short time candidates for the legislature will be selected by party conventions. Good and reliable men should be selected on all sides. Men who are not liable to be led captive by corporation attorneys and lackeys, and who will devote their time and energy towards securing better laws. There is no senator to elect this year, so politics will be almost wholly eliminated. Reforms should be made in the assessments and taxation laws, a maximum freight and fare bill passed curbing the rapacity of transportation lines, road laws amended in the interest of good highways. If the legislature would devote its time to a solution of the foregoing subjects only, it would make a record to which people would refer with pride.

The republican county convention that will be held in Eugene on March 26 will be the largest ever convened in Lane county. 165 delegates are apportioned to the different precincts, yet some of the members of the central committee were not satisfied and wished to adopt a number for a basis that would have brought the number to 188. The candidates will have lots of fun chasing 165 delegates, and laboring for their votes and influence. A little more extension would have rendered it unnecessary to hold precinct primaries as a mass convention would more nearly answer the purpose.

Ex-Gov. Gray, of Indiana, would feel very bad if he knew the opinion entertained of him by the Oregonian vampire. There is a strong probability of his occupying the second place on the presidential ticket, hence the screech.

From the length of the circuit court docket for the March term Lane county people have fallen into litigious ways. As usual there are a number of persons in court who claim to have solved the question, is marriage a failure?

Good roads are economical in the end and a benefit which the farmers cannot afford to do without. There is no tax more burdensome to the farmer or more depressing and injurious to agriculture than that which comes from bad roads.

The state of Georgia will, within three months, have paid out $600,000 in pensions to ex-Confederate soldiers and their widows. There are still many applications for relief which have not been considered. Georgia's war legacy is heavy but is endured with silence and without complaint.

Several of the leading republican papers speak very slightly of the St. Louis alliance convention. The alliance is doing a great work in educating the people in political economy and abuse from opponents will only hasten the triumph of whatever its principles are founded on right and justice.

Another criminal prosecution for libel has come to grief. The Astoria Town Talk told some truths regarding official corruption in the city by the sea and was held under bail by a subservient magistrate. The grand jury has promptly ignored the action of the lower court and exonerated the defendant from blame.

If any of the excellently executed $10 silver certificates come into your possession, scrutinize them carefully, and if the words, "This certifies that there have been deposited in the treasury" are omitted above "United States," your certificates are counterfeit. That a counterfeit so generally well executed as this one should have so important an omission is strange, but that it is so is fortunate for the business public.

The reform convention at St. Louis was afraid to tackle the prohibition and woman suffrage questions, and the result is there will be two reform tickets in the field. The rejected malcontents will hold a convention at St. Louis in June, and will adopt a platform treating of government ownership of highways and means of communication, monetary reform, ownership of land, prohibition and woman suffrage.

Dalles Chronicle: The Indians on the Umatilla reservation will be allowed the privilege of citizenship including suffrage, immediately upon the approval by the department of the allotment of their lands. It is hoped the allotment may be finished before the next June election and the question that troubles the politicians of Umatilla county is "How are they going to vote?" It is supposed that the candidate who has the biggest sack will capture the Indian persimmon.

The state of New York is busily engaged in taking a new census, ordered by the legislature under authority of the constitution, for the purpose of apportionment. This will furnish a test of the accuracy of the national census, which it is claimed was 205,000 short in the metropolis alone. It is probable that the state census will show a larger population in New York City. It may show an increase in all parts of the state, since the state census undertakes little besides enumeration and can therefore do that thoroughly. The last census failed as much because it was enumerated by too many details as it did by reason of incapable supervision.

The chairmen of the democratic and republican parties in Umatilla county have arranged for a course of instruction to judges and clerks of election under the new ballot law. The election officers are requested to meet at Heppner, a central point in that county, and hold a mock election so that they may become familiar with the workings of the law. This would be a good example for Lane county to follow. With the exception of a few precincts the election officers could meet at Eugene without great inconvenience and waste of time discuss the law and become familiar with its workings. It might be the means of saving considerable trouble hereafter.
