THE CITY LOSES.

Daily Guard, March 16. * In Yesterday's DAILY GUARD news was given of the defeat, in the circuit court, of the city, in the case of "J. E. Roach et al vs the City of Eugene. This means that the cost of the improvement of Madison street will have o borne by the city, instead of the property owners along said street, on count of an error in the notice ing for bids. The notice stated that "bids would be received" etc., when the words should have been added, "and contract let." The amount of im-The notice stated that provement, which will thus be saddled on the city is $1,607.00. Besides this amount, about $600 on other streets have been paid under protest, which will probably have to be refunded.

No remonstrance was filed against said improvement. In fact nearly every property holder on Madison street signed the petition for the work street signed the petition for the work to be done. Now it seems rather unfair that the balance of the city must given to the infant as well as the adult. be taxed to pay for the improvement, Another thing. Instead of notices for street work, etc., being posted up on old buildings, it seems that they should be printed in the newspapers of No wonder contests are made when property holders have no other notice than that given by the city of Eugene. A wanderer who squatted and finally took up the tree claim on which the tree stood hewed it out and made it habitable, put in a floor, door and windows, and there it stands, the oldest house in Oregon. It was a little growth when Columbus discovered America. It was a lusty young tree when Cortez found the Pacific ocean and stood silent upon a peak in Darien; its branches tossed aloft when the Puritans built their campoody by Plymouth Rock; it was a giant of the forest when the Declaration of Independence was signed; it was huge in its growth and great in its dimensions when the Columbia river was discovered. Through six centuries it has stood and may stand six more. It is worth a visit, and till some one else jumps up an older structure of human habitation Astorian holds this to be "the oldest house in Oregon."

WHO WAS SHEY

Said to Have Been a School Girl from Eugene. SEATTLE, Wash., March 16 .- Miss Lillian Stewart, a pretty 18-year old maiden, committed suicide early this morning at a lodging house on Main street by taking "Rough on Rats." The girl's parents live in Southern Oregon on a farm, and the gir herself for some years has attended a school in Eugene. A year ago she left her parents roof and came to Seattle to join a young man named C. C. Castair, with whom she fell in love at Eugene. Castair was a waiter in a restaurant at Eugene, and the parents of the girl objected to her engagement. Castair came to Seattle, and was employed as purser on a steamer. Then he sent for his sweetheart and she left home against her parents wishes. That was a year ago. The day she arrived in Seattle news reached her of Castair's death. He had fallen overboard from his steamer near Port Townsend the same day that he telegraphed for her to join him, and his body has never been recovered. The girl was too proud to return to her home, and, so far as known. outside. The best way to help the town is her parents are not aware of the tragic death of their daughter or her lover. HE SUCKED EGGS,-The Ashland Record tells an interesting story about how a farmer got ten cents to complete the above is incorrect. He has not drawn the amount necessary to pay his taxes: The tax collector has been here taking in the "shekels" to help keep up the expenses of our county, and a rather laughable occurence took place in Inlow & Ashpole's store. One of the cit-izens lacked ten cents of having money enough to pay his taxes in full so he brought one dozen eggs to the store, whereupon the following dialogue en-Merchant-"Well B, what do sued: you want to do with those eggs?" AFTER CHINAMEN.-The Ochoco Review has the following sensational item: Last Saturday morning Ah Doon, proprietor of the Prineville Hotel, took passage on the stage for The Dalies, and when the stage was about four miles from town and was going up a short hill north of McKay creek, six masked men rose up in the road, ordered th driver to halt and with drawn pistols made Doon get off the stage. A large man, who did all the talking, struck him, he thinks, with a pistol, making a severe cut on his mouth. his hands behind his back and hit him sayeral times, and threatened to hang him unless he would promise to leave the country, and take all the Chinamen here with him. One of his party cut off the cue and after again trying to make him promise to take all the Chinamen out of the country, put him on the stage and ordered the driver to go on. They made no attempt to rob him or take any money or papers from his per-son. The same night Ah Tye, manager of Quong Hing & Co's store, says either six or seven men came to his store and tried to get him out, but he refused to open his doors and they went away. He thinks they wanted to get him out and kill him or cut
