To the Right.

System in little things has an effectnal way of simplifying the affairs of daily life. "I don't care if you do call Miss Nancy," said a boy whose histers were wont to tease him for keeping his books and papers in me-thodical array. "I gain a good half hour every day by knowing where things are.

A lady who supports herself by doing shopping on commission says that she is exasperated a hundred times a day by the persistence with which people stumble over one another in following the wrong direction.

"I go into a store," she says, "or rather I attempt to go in, some seconds before I am allowed to have my way. There are two doors, and I take right one, in duty bound. crowd of people are pushing out that very way, however, and I am obliged to wait until the passage is clear.

"If they had but taken the other door, there would have been an unbroken stream of people entering and issuing, and no one would have been "The same thing happens within. In the space between the counters, women push their way in this or that direction, quite forgetting the fact that, if the general tendency of progress were always toward the right, the general confusion would be decidedly ssened.

"I wish the fact might be impressed upon the younger generation, at least, that there is common sense and reason in keeping to the right. Even if we older people cannot practice wisdom, they, at least, should learn by our mistakes."-Youth's Companion.

What Puzzled Mr. Luttrell.

Among the members of the Fortythird congress was Hon. John K. Lut-trell, of California. The following story illustrates forcibly the condition of affairs then and the justice of the present demand for a reform in the rules of the house:

When I came to Washington, said Mr. Luttrell to ex Senator Nesmith, of Oregon, who was then a member of the house, "I thought I was to be a member of a deliberative assembly of representative peers, each one on an equality with the others, each with equal voice in the proceed-ings. I find that I am mistaken. It is more like a city in its workings. Here are men engaged in finance; here others engaged in commercial pursuits. There are some who buy and sell, there are others interested in foreign matters. Some are gentlemen of elegant leisure. There are rings and rings within rings. There are business sections, the thickly settled portion and the suburbs

'As for myself I live in the suburbs, so far from the business center that I may rise in my seat every day from December till July without once catching the speaker's eye. Nesmith, I can take an Indian blanket and completely cover with it the men who shape and control the legislation of the nation within this so called deliberate body.

"Luttrell, you always did have a good deal of a fool in your composireplied the Oregonian. go to the trouble of obtaining an Indian blanket? Why not get a dinner plate and clap it on the head of the speaker?" -Washington Post.

The Proper Length.

Stephen A. Douglas and Mr. Lovejoy were once gossiping together, when Abraham Lincoln came in. The two men immediately turned their conversation upon the proper length of a man's legs. "Now," said Lovejoy, "Abe's legs are altogether too long, and yours, Douglas, I think, are a little short. Let's ask Abe what he thinks of it." The conversation had been carried on with a view to Lincoln's overhearing it, and they closed it by saying: "Abe, what do you think about it?" Mr. Lincoln had a far away look, as he sat with one leg twisted around the other, but he re-sponded to the question, "Think of sponded to the question, what?" "Well, we're tal "Well, we're talking about the proper length of a man's legs. We think yours are too long and Douglas too short, and we'd like to know what you think is the proper length." "Well," said Mr. Lincoln, "that's a matter I've never given any thought to, so, of course, I may be mistaken; but my first impression is that a man's legs ought to be long enough to reach | Herald. from his body to the ground."-San Francisco Argonaut.

An Appeal to Delinquents.

The editors are anxious to get up their summer suits, or as much of them as they can. We, therefore, ask our delinquent subscribers to do the square act. Come forward at once and plank down the hard cash so that we can lay in our supply. Owing to the hard times our wardrobe will not be very extensive this season; however, we hope to be able to purchase for cash a pair of striped homespun breeches and a linen duster each, a couple of straw hats at lifteen cents a piece, a celluloid collar, which will be worn by first one and then the other, two pairs of second hand shoes, Nos. 11 and 13, and possibly a few other minor articles of dress, which if we could only purchase would relieve us of lots of embarrassment and add very much to our personal appearance. - Warrenton (Ga.) Chipper.

He Applied the Proverb.

"See here," said a big man in an angry voice, as he rushed into a cheap clothing store, "you are a swindler-a rank, unmitigated swindler, without any principle or sentiment of bon that's what you are."

'My vrendt, vot is de matter?" asked the merchant in a conciliating tone. You have no right to call me dose "I haven't! Look at this coat I gave you $8 for. It's all pulling apart, and look at this vest, and these pants. They look like a cyclone had put 'em on to go out west in."

"Und for dot you call me swindler?"

"My vrendt, you forged one ting." What is that?"

"You should nefer shudge a man by his cloding." - Merchant Traveler.

Gazzam (reading)—Jean Jacque Versail-les, a noted Franchinan, is dead at the age of 107. Larkin-Ho must have been engaged a very healthful profession to have lived so ng. "He was a duellist."—New York Sun.

REMARKABLE COINCIDENCES.

Parallels in the Lives of Shakespears and Mr. Halliwell-Phillips.

I know well what a keen interest Mr. Halliwell-Phillips, and in Shatespearean work, and also in Hol ingbury Copse - that American Mecca - and I am fully aware how proud he was to number among his friends many of the leading American liter ary men. Some few years ago he, in merry mood, compiled "a list of a few parallel circumstances in the lives of Shakespeare and Mr. J. O. Halliwell Phillips," and upon rare occasions they would be produced after dinner and read amid shricks of laughter, in which he himseif would join most are of a truth most remarkable, and heartily. The thirty-three parallels they are all perfectly true, and not concocted in any way; to my mind one of the most extraordinary is that his eldest daughter "married a gentleman by the name of Hall, Lieut Hall, R.

my co-executor.
send you by this post a copy of the list, and if you care to print it. you are perfectly welcome to do so.

1. He was descended from very small country farmers. So am L

2. With no pretensions to an aristo cratic pedigree. Neither have L. 3. Nor with any really good claim to the use of coat armor. Neither have I 4. But he purchased a grant of arms from the Heralds college. So have 1.

5. His father, not being satisfied with the poverty of his rural life, left the country and commenced business in a town as a glover. So did mine. 6. But he soon got tired of that occupation and commenced speculating with house property. So did mine.

7. His father had a chancery suit respecting a small estate. So had mine.

8. The chancery suit in which his father was plaintiff lasted for nearly twenty years. So did the chancery suit in which my father was plaintiff 9. He went to school to so little purpose that be learned little Latin and ess Greek. So did L

10. He married very early in life. So did L 11. And without a sixpence on eith er side. So did I. 12. He obtained his marriage license at Worcester in a great hurry and in the midst of family disagreements

So did L 13. He was persecuted by Sir Thomas, a country squire. So was I. He was persecuted because he fancy to Sir Thomas' deer So was I. took a fancy

(dear). So was I.

15. He was a great admirer of the fair sex. So am L. 16. He purchased the estate of New Place at Strafford-on-Avon. So did I.

17. He sold a load of stone out of the gardens there. So did I.
18. The husband of his second daughter was remotely connected with a yeoman of the name of William Phillipps. So is the husband of my second daughter.

So did 1

19. A person of the name of William Phillipps owned property adjoin-the grounds of Shakespeare's country house. An individual of the same name owns land adjoining the grounds of my country house.

20. Shakespeare at one time of his life was pecuniarily interested in a theatre, So was L. 21. The theatre in which he was interested was destroyed. So was mine. "Why name of Shakespeare living near his leston.

Indian country house. So there is near mine. All this of course caused a shoel 23. He owned during part of his life a house in London, a lease of which was granted to Mr. John Robinson.

> 24. He bought a moiety of some tithes. So did L 25, In the course of his literary career there appeared "Much Ado About Nothing." So there has in mine. 26. He sometimes went to the Mitre tavern in Fleet street. So did L. 27. In his journeys between London and Stratford on-Avon he occasionally stayed a night at Oxford. So did L

28. He negotiated for the purchase 29. But did not succeed in buying Neither did I. of a small estate at Shottery. So did 1. 30. He sometimes drunk a little too much at a merry meeting. So did I. 31. He bought one house in London So have 1 32. One of his friends wanted to borrow £20 of him. So has one of mine.

33. His eldest daughter married a gentleman by the name of Hall. So did mine. The chief difference between us in our respective careers appears to be that he knew how to write plays and I don't. - Euruest E. Baker in Boston

Lost Time on Short Days. She was an humble waiting maid in Oakland. Oakland is the Athens of California, and the ah, there! of San Francisco. She waited upon an Athenian table and cooked Athenian steaks for Athenian appetites. She was not all lost. She had relatives in San Francisco, and she visited them on her off day. It is one long off day in Oakland

It had been her custem of a forenoon for many months to make this little pilgrimage, and winter approached and the sun rose later and set earlier, in accordance with the rules of the celestial trades union. One day a couple of weeks, ago she went to her

'Please, ma'am, you'll have to let me go an hour earlier now. "Why?"

Because, ma'am, I've got to go over to the city, and, you know, ma'am, the days are so short now that I loose more than an hour."-San Francisco Chronicle

What Londoners Consume. Taking all London's food togetherthe fish, the meat, the poultry, the vegetables, the fruit, the groceries and bread-and it shows an annual consumption of close on a million and a half tons a year. Adding to this the drink-excluding the water-and divided by 363, we have a daily consumption of 1 800 tons.-New York Telegram.

Unpleasant Odors.

Red pepper pods or a few pieces of charcoal thrown into the pot in which onions, cabbages, etc., are being boiled will prevent the unpleasant

As Important Item.

Ponsonby-Have you seen Silby this Hayslitt-No. Pousonby-Well, you ought to. He's efect circus! Says he's got a ten pound Hayelitt (cautiously)-I wonder if he used he same scales that he does when he goes ishing!-Burlington Free Press.

THE INNOCENT SUFFER.

A COUNTY OF STREET

Americans took in my uncle, the late A Sad Phase of the Maverick Bank Collapse.

THE CLERKS WHO SIGNED NOTES.

They Did So to Ohlige Their Employers and May New Be Financially Crippled for Life-A Sensational Embezzlement

There are several melancholy and de plorable features in connection with the recent failure of the Maverick National bank at Boston. To begin with the de-positors had unbounded confidence in the ncern, based on many years' experience gh as business magnates and social lead-

They were "Napoleons of finance," with men who still "knew a good thing when they saw it," and were not averse to making an honest dollar if a bold move would bring the coin within their reach. doubt the stability of the Maverick or to question the motives of its managers was equivalent to doubting the great facts of tria to surrender Lombardy, with the

When Speculator "Nervy" Evans killed Italy, or rather to the king of Sardinia. himself after a final wrestle with the bulls and bears of the stock market, a breath of suspicion seemed to arise-from what quarter no one knew, but still it existed. This was fanned to a breeze by the announcement that the suicide's Wilmot Evans, president of the Winthrop National bank, had refused to accept a certified Maverick check. About the same time Bank Examiner John W. Magruder, a close friend of "Nervy" Evans, expired, his death being hastened, as was thought, by the impending crash. When another bank examiner came to the front and closed the place pending an examination. President Asa P. Potter made an assign

The experts who looked over the books reported, and on the strength of this statement warrants were issued for the arrest of Potter and Directors French and Dana who were accused of embezzling $2,000,000. They were taken into custody, furnished large bail and now the whole complicated nifair is in the courts, where it is liable to Whan all the bases have been joined and settled and the legal costs and fees provided for the depositors may get a moiety of their money. Preliminary to this Mr Potter has "cut down expenses" by discharging his children's private tutors and erested was destroyed. So was mine. sending the young folk to the very excel-

Boyle O'Reilly memorial fund was swal lowed up in the financial earthquake. Be sides, there are ogly rumors of forgery and the bank clerks are in a deplorable plight. It is asserted that they were "in vited"-that is the mildest word that can be used-to sign notes for which they re ceived no equivalent. The paper was used by the president and directors, says the New York Sun, to obtain the bank's funds

"Those who signed at the order of their employers will be required by the receiver to pay these notes to the extent of their ability. Some are for sums large enough to wine out the savines of years, and wil cause the greatest hardships. One in stance is related of a young man who wa preparing to get married at the time the crash came, but the notes held by the bank with his name to them will bankrupt him.

WILLIAM L. MUNSON.

Cincinnati's sensation in the embezzie has brought great sorrow to an honored family. George R. Munson, at one time ssistant cashier of the United States subreasury, stood before the directors of the Fulton Building association one night not ong ago and with streaming eyes and faltering voice announced that his son William I. Munson, who had aided him in the management of the association's affairs had converted over $13,000 to his own use. The peculation had extended over space of nine years and the money had been lost at poker playing, horse racing "sporty" ways. The agony of the old gen tleman was pitiable to witness, but he did not swerve from taking what he considered the only honorable course, and he left it to the directors to deal as they thought best with his erring son.

It may be noted in this connection that the Chinese empire has seen but three fallures of financial institutions in years. An emperor of the Fourteenth cenary housed a decree that all people reponsible for a bankruptcy should be de capitated. Since thes monetary enterprises have been conducted in sound and con servative style.

A Patriotic Scot.

Walter Scott tells the story of a blacksmith the south of Scotland who disappeared from the range of vision of the great movel and was found afterward practicing medicin in an English city The astonished novelis asced the blacksmith if he knew anythin about the healing art, and the inter acknow eiged that he did not, but trusted mainly to "two simples-laudanum and calonel. Simples with a vengennee," said Scott don't you kill more than you curu!" haps I do," returned the patriotic blacksmith, "but it will be a long time before I make up for the Scots that the English killing EUROPE'S MANY CHANGES.

How the Various Countries Have Been Cut Up and Divided.

Rumors of a European war on a grand scale are always rife, and it may be interesting to recall the many and stupendous changes which have modified the map of Europe during the last sixty years. The French revolution, coninned by Napoleon I, overturned every ation and modified every frontier limit Europe. Between 1815 and 1830 the storation of the eldest branch of the courbons in France and the Vienna and Verona congresses had nearly re-established the ancient order of things in the European world. But in 1839 the revolution which rowned the Orleans cadet Louis Philippe as king of France, and proclaimed him the representative of modern liberof fair dealing and good faith. The people alism as against clerical reactionism as laving charge of its affairs held their heads personified in Charles X, was the signal alism as against clerical reactionism as of changes all over Europe. The heroic sons of Greece had already begun the struggle for modern liberty and for national independence. They were successful, and the treaty of Adrianople was agreed to by all Europe, and Greece was recognized as a sovereign power on Feb. 3, 1830. Moldavia, Wallachia and Servia were constituted by the same treaty as autonomous principalities, and and relieves the fair Arabella's "pin-Turkey ceded to Russia the mouth of in" by a smack which sounds like a the Danube. Belgium separated from 3-year-old steer drawing his hoof out Holland and was recognized as an independent power in July, 1831, after long conferences held at London.

In 1834 the kingdom of Poland was suppressed as a result of the heroic but unsuccessful fight of the Poles for liberty. In 1846 the republic of Cracow was suppressed and incorporated with Austria. In 1848 the principality of Neuchatel, which had been given up to Prussia by the treaties of 1814, declared its independence and became a canton of Switzerland. This independence was officially recognized by Prussia in 1857. After the Crimean war, in 1856, Russia lost the southern portion of Bessarabia. along the banks of the Danube, which portion was given to Moldavia. The Solferino victory, in 1859, caused Ausistory or the established mathematics of exception of Mantua, to Napoleon III. who made a present of that province to

In 1860 the same king came into possession of Modena, Parma, Tuscany, Romagna, Umoria, Naples and Sicily, giving back in exchange to France only the county of Nice and the Savoy. One year later, in 1861, the kingdom of Italy was definitely constituted by the reunion under the same scepter of all Italian states formerly separated, with the exception of the pontifical states and the Rome Campagna. In 1861, Moldavia and Wallachia were united under the name of Rumania. In 1864 the Ionian Islands, which formed a parliamentary republic under British protectorate, were ceded to Greece. The Gastein convention of 1865, after the war of the duchies, decreed the annexation to Prussia of the duchy of Lauenburg, the title of which was conferred upon Bismarck after his retirement from the chancellorship. In 1866, after the battle of Sadowa, the kingdom of Hanover, the Hesse electorate, the free city of Frankfort, Schleswig and Holstein were annexed to Prussia and the confederation of North Germany was established. In the same year, and as another consequence of defeat at Sadowa. the Vienna government abandoned Venetia and the fortress of Mantua to Italy. The first defeats of the French in the war of 1870 compelled them to evacuate Italy. The Frankfort treaty gave Alsace and Lorraine to the newly founded North German empire.

In 1878, after the Russo-Turkish war. and through the operation of the Berlin treaty, great changes were made in the map of Europe. Russia exchanged the Dobroudia district for southern Bessarabia. Servia, by the same treaty, was enlarged and constituted as an independent kingdom, as well as Rumania. Bulgaria became a mere tributary province of Turkey, from which in 1885 she snatched eastern Rumelia. Montenegro received an increase of territory, and Bosnia and Herzegovina were surrendered to Austria, which was authorized to occupy them temporarily, a word which means in diplomacy real posses

Such is the present international map of Europe; how long will it last in that shape?-Philadelphia Telegraph.

A Snow Plant from the Sierra. One of the rarest plants known to bot anists has been brought to this city by E. L. Swartz and is on exhibition in the windows of a down town florist. It is known as the snow plant and was found by Mr. Swartz growing near snowbanks in the Sierras, 0,500 feet above the sea level. The plant is indigenous to high and frozen altitudes and is a curiosity. It grows to the height of four or five inches, and when it blooms, which is soon after the spring thaw, it bears the appearance of a dark reddish pine cone set upright on the ground. It emits an odor that is not unlike that of the honeysuckle. The value attached to it is on account of its rarity, and the plant secured by Mr. Swartz is doubtless the first ever brought to this city.-San Francisco Examiner.

The East Indian Bride. The daughters of Caucasian civilization, provided their parents and friends are wealthy, receive many presents of costly goms on their wedding days, but their glittering displays can hardly compare with that made by the East Indian bride of high class. When she weds she is loaded down with jewelry. She has a girdle at the waist, numerous rings, anklets, bracelets and bells, and decorations for the bair. Although she has never seen her intended bushand, she goes and sits beside him on the day of the ceremony. The priest takes a corner of the bride's veil and ties it to the groom's shawl, and they are married.

Saved from a Worse Fate.

A man who slept on the government pier so as to get the first fish that bit in the morning woke up so suddenly that he fell into the lake and was drowned. It was lucky for his future state that his fate o'ertook him e'er he had time to relate any stories of his day's successes. Fishing on Sanday is a trivial matter compared to the monumental mendacity which is its concomitant, -Chicago Mail.

The Deadly Mule, A southern mule trade has resulted in the death of two people, who were shot and killed as an after effect of the transaction. This is probably the first tragedy resulting from overfamiliarity with these long eared anarchists in which a mule has not played an active part. The court directs a verdict of not guilty .- A NORTH CAROLINA GAME.

A Play That Is Very Popular Throughout

Back in the North Carolina moun tains the student of customs may still find material for research. The most unique are the kissing games, which still cling to the soil. A lot of big limbed, powerful young men and ap-ple cheeked, buxom girls gather and elect one of their number as master of ceremonies. He takes his station in the center of the room, while the rest pair off and parade around him. Suddealy one young woman will throw up her hands and say

"I'm a pinin".

The master of ceremonies takes it up and the following dialogue and interlocation takes place Miss Arabella Jane Apthorp say she's a-pinin' What is Miss Arabella Jane Apthorp a pmin fort" "I'm a pinin' fur a sweet kiss."

"Miss Arabella Jane Apthorp says she's a pinin' fur a sweet kiss. is Miss Arabella Jane Apthorp a-pin in' fur a sweet kiss frum? "I'm a-pinin' fur a very sweet kiss frum Mr. Hugh Waddle." (Blushes, convulsive giggles and confusion on the part of Miss Arabella Jane Ap thorp at this forced confession. Hugh Waddle walks up manfully of the mud. Then a young man will be taken with a sudden and unaccountable "pinin", which after the usual exchange of questions and volunteered information reveals the name of the maiden who causes the "gnawin" and "pinin". She coyly retreats out door, only to be chased, overtaken, captured and forcibly compelled to relieve her captor's distress. At one of these entertainments which it was the narrator's fortune to attend there was a remarkably beautiful young woman, who had been married about a month. Her husband was present, a huge, beetle browed, black eyed young mountaineer, with a fist like a ham. The boys fought shy of the bride for fear of incurring the anger of her hulking spouse. The game went on for some time, when symptoms of irritation developed in the giant. Striding to the middle of the room, he said:

'My wife ez pooty 'n' ez nice 'n sweet ez any gyurl hyar. You uns has known her all her life. game hez been a-goin' on half an hour an' nobody has pined for her once. Ef some one doesn't pine fur her pooty soon thar will be trouble.

She was the belle of the ball after that. Everybody pined for her.-Washington Post.

Mental Benefits of Exercise.

Inquiries extending over a period of forty years, made of about three hundred members of the Cambridge and Oxford university crews, instituted by Dr. Maclaren, director of the univesity gymnasium at Oxford, have elicited facts which may be accepted as experimental evidence of the value of physical training in a class of cases in which the conditions of life are most favorable, hence affording a test from which practically every element except the purely unuscular one is eliminated. The benefits experienced by members of these crews are stated to be an increase of stamina, of energy, enterprise and executive power, and of fortitude in endurance of trials, privations and disappointments-"a goodly list of benefits bearing on the mental and moral as conspicuously as Rome, which then became the capital of on the physical side of the question, says Dr. Machren, "for, in the strug gle for existence, failure is more like ly to result from inability to endure trials and disappointments than from merely physical weakness-the statisties of suicide bearing out this statement."-Once a Week

Curious Transmittal of Scarlet Fever. In 1846 a boy of 8 years, the brother of the narrator's wife, was taken down with searlet fever and died. One of the principal amusements of his ill ness had been looking over a large picture book. After his death this, with several other useful playthings, was packed away in a trunk. Twenty six years later in 1872 the sister in law of the editor took this trunk with her on a journey which she made to England, where he was then residing. The trunk was opened the second day after its arrival and the picture bool was taken out and presented to the editor's 2-year-old son. During the next fortnight the Mitle fellow was attacked by searlet fever. It was a wonder to the doctors who were called in consultation how the disease had been contracted, as there had been no scarlet fever in the town for years. At last it occurred to the editor that the picture book might have transmitted the disease, and the medical men in attendance, on being told the facts connected with it, agreed that it had retained the poison for twenty-six years and communicated it to the child. - Boston Post. "

A Boston lady, knowing that the translation of Dante had just then appeared, and having heard that the aged monarch (the king of Saxony) was proud of his literary ability, had a good opportunity of alluding to his chef d'œuvre, which she immediately seized. The king addressed her in turn, saying: "You are from America, I believe. I think I have seen you in the Grosse Garten. Why have you not been presented before?" "I am from America, sire," she replied, "where we have no kings. I have waited for the proper time to be intro duced to your majesty; and now may be permitted, as an American, to say that I feel it less an honor to be presented to the king of Saxony than to 'Philistrates,' the translator of Dante, whom I trust I may be allowed to con gratulate on the successful achieve ment of the work." The king had published the translation under the above sobriquet. He was much pleased with the compliment thus bestowed, laughed with delight and said the lady had been prompt in examining the new publication. - Boston Post.

Socialism Spreading in Germany. You would be astonished to see the progress which socialism has made among the rustics here in Germany. A mile below the castle is a little village in which there were sixty socialist votes at the last election. Three miles away in the opposite direction is a village of paper making mills, in which there were 800 socialist votes at the February "poll." The state church in Germany s not in touch with the masses of the people. And it never will get the masses intil it takes a different attitude toward institutions and especially toward socialism. - Munich Letter.

CARRISTON'S GIFT.

THE PERSON NAMED IN

By BUGH CONWAY.

Author of "Called Back," "Dark Days," 'A Family Affair," etc.

[TOLD BY PHILIP BRAND, M. D., LONDON.]

He was very ungrateful-so much so that my desire to kick tim was intensified. should not like to swear. I did not to slight degree yield to the temptation. Push a hundkerchief in his mouth," cried Brand, suddenly. "A lady is coming."

With right good will I did as the doctor

Just then Carriston returned. Iden't want Just then Carriston returned. Iden't want to raise home tempests, yet I must say he was accompanied by the most beautiful exeature my eyes have ever lighted upon. True, the was pale as a lily—I their thin and delecate, and her face bore traces of anxi ty and suffering, but for all that the was beautiful—too beautiful for this word, I thought, as I tooked at her. Ele was clinging in a half-trightened, half-confiding way to Carriston.

I was night and to refer the word in the course of a profracted life. In word, thought and they were as one, Shadisd, in Rome, of fever, and her has been things concerning them. They had twelve years of happiness. I may also the their subjects the profit of the subject them. They had twelve years of happiness than. They had twelve years of happiness than. They had twelve years of happiness. If measured by time the year of happiness than many others also there there is a construction. and he-hapov fellow; -regardless of our presence, was showering down kisses on her friendship, and Sir Charles left me see trus-sweet pale face. Confound it! I grow quite tee and guardien to his three sons; so there romantie as I recall the a ght of these lovers. A most carious young man, that Carris-

Carriston came to us with the lovely girl on his arm.

"Let us go now," he said, as calmly as if been doing the actual fighting against the be had been taking a quiet evening drive. venerable projudices which for so man con-

the housef' I said I would try to do so.

Carriston gave them a contemptuous this as in so many other pons. This glance. "Leave them alone," he said, when in 1849 flaron Lonel de Rothechia. "They are but the tools of another—him I was returned to the house from Lenion, and cann it touch. Let us go,"
"Yes, yes. But why not verify your sus-verfy everything. In searching for the key we had found some papers on our prisons? Brand examined them, and banded to Carriston an envelops which cou ainsi what looked like Carriston glancol at it, . "The handwrits ing is, of course, disgu'sed," he said, carebut the permark shows whence it agree with me now?" "I am afrai i I must," said Brand, brimbly.

"But we must do something about this man," Hereu, on Carriston turned to our prisoner. "Listen, you villain," be said. "I will let you go scot-free it you breaths no word of before that time, I awear you shall go to special distinction of the Retaschilds is the penal servitude. Which do you choose?"

say which the fellow chose.
Then I went off, and recovered the horse and cart. I religited the lamps, and with from the haughtiest adiatocracy, their some difficulty got the dogeart up to the daism has always be no strongly muri-house. Carriston must have exactly anticipated the events of the right. The parcel he had brought with him contained a bonnet end a thick, warm cloth cloak. His beautiful triend was equipped with these; then husband at her letsure and pleasure, away we started; the doctor si ting by me; Car-riston and the lady behind.

We just managed to eatch the last train from C--. Not feeling sure as to what form inquiries might take to-morrow, I thought is better to go up to town with my friends, so, as we passed through Midcombe, I stopped, paid my bill, and gave instructions for my luggage to be forwar led to my. By 6 o'clock the next morning we were all

DR. BRAND IN CONCLUSION.

When I asked Dick Fenton to relate his experiences I did not mean h m to do so at such length. But there, as he has written t, and as writing is not a labor of love with the side of which he had thrown herself in an eestasy of grief, untenanted, she know in laid plot. Being ignorant of Carriston's true polition in the world, she could conceive no reason for the elaborate scheme which had been devised to lure her so many miles from her home, and make a prisoner of her. A presence she was. Not only was the door locked upon her, but a slip of paper lay sanitary surroundings of seasife places conon the ted. it bore these words: "No barm tribute largely to the results. Mineral baths is meant you, and in due time you will be as such, tave no particular superiority over Ask no questions, make no foolish attempts at escape, and you will be well ature. In addition to the greater health

Upon reading this the girl's first thought was one of thankfulness. She saw at once the body to the sun and fresh air is of real that the reported accident to her lover was benealt, and contributes to the sum total of

she could bear anything.

From the day on which she entered that room to that on which we rescued her Mad-eline was to all intens and purposes as closed by a cramp of only a part of his limbs prisoner in that lenely house on the hillside as see might have been in the deepest dungeon in the world. Threats, entreaties, promises of brites availed nothing. She was not unkindly treated—that is, suffered no absolute il-mag. Books, materials for persons subject to attacks of beatinched need ework and other little aids to while Alexander ring relates, in The Practical Control of the contro away time were supplied. But the only tioner, a case that came under his treatment living creatures the saw were the woman of which address to nim and this disease and away time were supplied. But the only living creatures me saw were the woman of the house, who attended to her wants, and, instancement phenomena are largely the on one or two eccasions, the man whom Carsul of a poison creaturing in the action which poison is a product of the degestion which poison is a product of the degestion.

Carriston and Madeline were married at the earliest possible moment, and left England immediately after the ceremony. A week after their dearests he for the content of the facts in the case.

week after their departure, by Carriston's request, I forwarded the envelope found upon our prisoner to Mr. Ralph Carriston.

With it I sent a faw lines stating where and under what peculiar circumstances we had become pos eat d of it. I rever received any reply to my communication, so, wid and improbable as it seams, I am bound to believe that Charles Carris on's surmise say right—that Mad-line was decoyed away and concealed, not from any ill-will towards herself, but with a view to the possible baneful off ct which her mys er cus disappearans might work upon her lover's strange and excitable organization; and I firmly believe that had be not in some inexplicable way been firmly convenced that she was alive as faithful to him the plot would have been a thorough success, and Candles Carridge would have speat the rest of his cays in an asy arm.

Both Sur Cherles—he sucre ded to his title shertly after his marriag -and Lady Car-rist n are now dead, or I should not have ventured to relate these things concerning

I was niways bonored with their sincerest friendship, and Sir Courles left me sole trus are now plenty of lives between Ra ph Car-riston and his desire. I am pleased to say tou! He came to us, the lovely girl on his that the boys, who are as dear to me as my arm, without showing a trace of his recent possessing any gifts beyon! Nature. I know that my having made this story public will cause two sets of objectors to fall equally foul of me—the matter-of-fact practic who will say that the abduction and subsequent imprisonment of Madeline Rowan was an absurd impossibility, and the scen-tific man, the myself, who cannot, dare not believe that C aries Carriston, from wither memory nor rungination, could draw a free, and describe peculiarities, by which a certain man could be identified. I am usfrom saving there may not be a sum natural explanation of the puzzle, but I one, have railed to find it, so close this teras I began it by saying Lam a narrator, and nothing more. THE END.

The First Jewish Peer, The elevation of Sir Nationaled de Roths child to the British peerage is in many respects significent. Mr. Gladstone has the eredit of creating the first Jowish peor; for though Lord Bonconsfield was a Jew by race, he was not a professor of the Helrew faith, and, in fact, has done what was possible to efface his connected his own people. But the Rothchilds represent Hebraism all over the world, and their family tas for many year Then he turned to me.

"Do you think, Mr. Fenton, you could without much trouble get the dogcart up to this age of toleration it has taken more than tur es refused to the Jews throughout Europe a generation to conquer inherited antipa-I said I would try to do so,
"But what about these peoples" asked that in England to house of lords has always been behind the commens in was returned to the house from Lenien, and being refused his seat the Jews' oaths of abjuration bill was introduced to remove his pictors while you can?"

disabilities, the bill passed the houe, but you like Bran!! He's always wanting to was rejected by the lor's, and in 1835 and 1859 the same measures repeatedly passed the house, only to be as steadily thrown tion of te ts, that a Jew was male master of arts at Oxford; and even when Disraeli was premier of England and in the genith of his reputation there is reason to besieve that he deel and a possage in favor of his wife, not came. It is as a always told you. You because he did not desire the honor, but because with me now? vation. A a later period he accepted the distinction, though there was much granbling among the Conservative peers, but he was not regarded as a thorough Jew. The elevation of Sir Nathaniel de Raths child, therefore, mar.s.a decidel advanca this to your employer for the next fortnigh. It must be concluded that the o'd prejudies financial position, and though this has often I pulled out the gag, and it is nealless to enabled them to control the course of powerful governments and to command at the cutward show of homes and r they have never made may concess.

that particular. The Objects of Bathing.

The object of bathing is fenciold: To produce a car a p amount of nerven shock, that should be followed by reaction and an a creased circulation of the blood on the or ace, resulting in a more rapid change tissues; to lower the temperature of body; to clean-a the skin; and to produce pleasurable feelings, and, in connection with swimmin ; the benefic al effects of one of the best forms of physical exercise. The nervous shock and the reaction from following the first contact with the water, are important points, asi to obtain them the plunge or the douche is preferable to any other form of bath. To wade up to the middle and shard shivering and learful of the momentary feeling of discom ord is neither healthy nor pleasant, and tanid persons who dare not plungs boldly into the water should be content with the douche bath. A large garden hose, with a high pressure of water, held at a distance of fisteen or twenty feet from the body, will give an idea of this most delightful curative and bracing agent. Sea bathing differs from out-foor fresh-water bathing in the greater specific gravity of sea-water and its consequent greater buoyancy and more uniform temperature, tribute largely to the results. Mineral bates, other bat is of the same density and temp ness and enjoyableness of outdoor bathing it is probable that the sim le exposure benealt, and contributes to the sum total of but an invention. The probabilities were the good results. Cramps are considered that Carriston was alive, and in his usual one of the great dangers of battaing, but health. Now that she felt certain of this, when they are ratal it is probably the result of syncope or .airting, from faiture of ne ri's action. A good swimmer, in vi ous health, would hardly be wholly disabled

> Butchers' Meat and Headaches Popular Science Monthly. 1 The pre crip ion of a diet largely vegetarian has long been known to be good for riston asserted he had seen in his trance.

So a had suffered from the close confinement, but had always felt certain that sooner or later her lever would find her, and effect her deliverance. Now that she knew he was alive she could not be unhappy.

I did not choose to ask her why she had felt so certain on the above points. I wished to add no more puzzles to the one which, to tell the truth, exected, even annoyed, me more than I care to any. But I did ask her fi, during her lucar cration, her jailer had ever la d his hand upon her.

She told me that some short time after her arrival a stranger had gamed admittance to the house. While he was there the man had entered her room, held her arm, and the bouse. While he was there the man had entered her come, belt her arm, and threatened her with violence if she made any outcry. After hearing this I did not pursus without fear of an attack. The disease without fear of an attack.

Encouraging.