The Ideal Baking Powder Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder.

For more than fifty years Cream of Tartar and Bicarbonate of Soda have been used for leavening purposes with sufficient flour added to preserve the strength of the powder unimpaired, and this with the addition of whites of eggs comprises this pure and wholesome leavening agent, that has been the standard for 40 years. In its use pure, wholesome and delicious food is always assured.

Makes cake and biscuit that retain their moisture, and while they are flaky and extremely light they are fine grained, not coarse and full of holes as made with ammonia baking powders, latter dries up quickly. Alum powders leave a bitter taste in the bread or cake.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder once used, always used.

AN ECCENTRIC CLUB. VET THY DREAM MAY REAL BE." Have you seen soms lovely river

The Queer Methods Which Some New Yorkers Adopt to Gain Netoriety. There are clubs and clubs, but of all the clubs in the universe the Eccentric club of this city is pre-eminently entitled to term itself unique. Its objects are variously stated as "the abolishment of myth and the substitution therefor of science and reason" and "the universalization and centralization of the oneness of the whole." Perhaps the latter definition gives the clearer idea of its aims. There is a disposition on the part of each of the 362 resident members and 181 non-resident members which it has, according to its official announcement, to believe that some one of the 542 other members has possession of the club constitution and bylaws, but nobody has ever discovered this mythical custodian. None of the 543 members has any idea of the location of the club house -for club house the Eccentric club has none. The club meetings are held wherever and whenever two or more members happen to get together-two members constituting a quorum. Not infrequently a member is surprised to

A Foolish Question

One of the peculiarities of human nature is to ask a question that is exceedingly foolish. For instance, if one sees a friend knocked down by a coal cart, the first question that he is apt to ask is, "Did you get knocked down?" At Troost park one evening a gentleman was standing on the edge of the lake when he slipped and fell in. Naturally his temper was at a white heat. He glared about savagely, when a stranger, who was standing by and who had seen the accident, asked, "Did you fall in?" The fellow pansed, and while his eyes were snapping fire remarked sarcastically: "No, I didn't fall in. The lake walked up on me."-Kansas City Times.

Bound to Succeed. There is a 15-year-old boy uptown who will be a millionaire some day, if he lives. His name is Harry Campbell One summer he was up in the Catskills. The gentlemen wanted to play bowls. but there was nobody to set up the pins, so Harry undertook the job and got ten cents a game. When night came the fellows wanted to play bowls again, but there were no lights. Harry hunted around and got two lamps, and the game went on.

The proprietor missed the lamps and hunted for them. When he found where they were he was riled. "I made $3 that day," said Harry, "and if the boss hadn't got mad I would have whacked up with him." The Gentlemanly Bank Teller.

It always amuses me when I receive a notice to the effect that my bank account has been overdrawn (and, by the way, I trust that I shall fall in no body's estimation through the frank admission that I am sometimes overtaken by this misfortune). The manner of it is this: A messenger, not the postman, brings me a letter couched in the following terms:

Dran Srn-I make your account overdrawn $75.84 (it is usually a little less than that) and I think the mistake is yours. Yours truly, Teller. The politeness of this pleases me very much. Of course the teller knows that the mistake is mine, but with a kind or Chinese civility he puts the unpleasant fact in the form of a mere opinion. Perhaps this considerate formula has come down as a tradition in banks from the old and courtly days. It only remains to add that my bank account is overdrawn, not because my resources are straitened, but because 1 have such a lavish, careless, munificent way of throwing my money about -Boston Post.

The Mouth in Photography.

I was talking to a photographer the other day, says Miss Mantalini, and she told me that mouths gave her the most trouble. The mouth is quite the most unmanageable feature in the face, she said. Few people look well smiling in a photograph, because they never smile naturally. Then a pursed up mouth won't suit anybody. If the lips are too much parted the expression of the face conveys the idea that the person is weak minded or empty h-aded. She said that women were more satisfactory subjects than men, because they had more sentiment. Very matter of fact people

A feeling of dullness, languor, and depression means that your liver isn't doing its part. That means impure blood, to begin with, and all kinds of ailments in the end

But you can stop them in advance. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery invigorates the liver, purifies and enriches the blood, and rouses every organ into healthy action. It pre-vents and cures all diseases arising from a torpid liver or from impure blood. Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Bil-iousness, Scrofulous, Skin and Scalp Diseases - even Consumption (or Lung-scrofula), in its earlier stages, all yield to it.

The makers of the "Discovery claim for it only what it will do. They guarantee that it will do it. If it fails to benefit or cure, in any case, they'll return the money. Nothing else that claims to purify the blood is sold in this way; which proves, no matter what dealers may offer, that nothing else can be "just 2s good." Therefore, don't accept a substitute.

The casting out of the devil of disease was once a sign of authority.
