The Leaders.

Table with 2 columns: Item and Price. Includes granulated sugar, white sugar, golden C, D, E, and various other goods.

The reason we can sell and undersell all competitors is that we belong to a combination called "Beaters," and while our prices are below regular wholesale prices, we have the welfare of the dear people constantly in view. We would call special attention to our mammoth stock of crockery, glassware, lamps and lamp stock which for the next 30 days will go at a sacrifice for cash or good prompt, paying customers. We not only sell goods for less than any of our competitors but give more toward building the Siuslaw R. R. than the whole lot combined. Don't fail to get our prices from the Friends of the People, SMITH & HALL.

P. S. Don't forget our teas and coffees are still without a rival.

Jasper Items.

Coos Bay Mail: Al. Owen is the democratic candidate for county clerk of Coos county, and his little son, Fay, is an enthusiastic member of the people's party. What would said town do with a $100,000 railroad bonus. Eugene should by all means celebrate, as well as raise the railroad subsidy.

The first steel wire ever drawn in the state of Washington was drawn at the nail works at Everett last Thursday. The machinery worked to perfection. Superintendent Campbell took the wire to his home and will keep it as a curiosity.

The Albany Democrat says: The Eugene Register having momentarily merged into a gleam of light, arrives at the profound conclusion that the democratic press of the state is supplied with editorials from headquarters. Of course they are. Editorials in democratic papers are expected to be supplied from headquarters. Not so with editorials appearing in the Eugene Register. One has only to take a cursory glance at editorials in that paper to know that they never emanated from headquarters. It was some other kind of quarters from whence they came.

Exchange: The residents of Lake and Klamath counties are doing a great deal of thinking over the circumstances recently brought prominently before their notice, to the effect that beef cattle in Modoc county, Cal., where there are railroad accommodations, command on the average $10 per head more than like cattle on the ranges of the two counties first named. In stock cattle the difference is fully as great in favor of Modoc county and the citizens of Lake and Klamath have reached the conclusion that a railroad is worth striving for.

ACCIDENTAL DROWNING.

George A. Hunter loses his life to Save His Coat.

Daily Guard, May 16. At 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon an alarm was brought to this city by a son of Joe Myers, of Fairmount, that George A. Hunter had drowned in the Willamette near there. Soon a hundred people were at the scene of the accident which occurred opposite the Wilkins foot bridge, above Joe Myers place, on the north side of the Wilkins place. It appears that about two o'clock a party fishing on the bank of the river at that point noticed the young man opposite to them on the north side of the river holding to the brush on the top of an undermined pier. Seeing his coat floating past, he loosened his hold on his support and started to swim after it. Just at that time the parties noticed a boat floating by near them, right side up and nearly filled with water. Then they heard cries of "Help," "Help," and looking toward where the swimmer had seen, saw that he had sunk beneath the surface. The current is very swift there and the river quite wide and before assistance could have reached him he sank the third time. As before stated the alarm given brought many who immediately commenced a search for the body and about 4 o'clock it was recovered by M. W. McMurray and Mr. Grover with a hook they were using from a boat. It was in about seven feet of water and only a few feet from the bank. Many crossed the river with the kindly aid of A. J. Nickel, who was there with a boat assisting in the search, and endeavored to resuscitate the body, but Dr. Sharples arrived after they had worked hard for half an hour and pronounced it lifeless.

George Allen Hunter was a son of H. C. Hunter of Fairmount and was 16 years, 11 months and 8 days of age. He was a student at the State University, very popular with his teachers and classmates, and a highly respected member of the M. E. Epworth League. How he first became separated from the boat, will doubtless never be known, as he was alone. Regret is universal at his untimely death.

The funeral will take place Tuesday, May 17, at 1 o'clock p. m., from the family residence to the Springfield I. O. O. F. cemetery.

Thrown From a Buggy.

John and Elmer Gray started to go to their bottom ranch below Eugene last Saturday afternoon about 5:15 o'clock in a single buggy. When opposite the knife factory on Eighth street the horse became frightened, probably from escaping steam, and started to run. He ran across the street about in the space of a figure 8, and the buggy crumpled the first time the boys were pitched out, John falling on his face and breast and getting pretty badly shook up, although not serious, no bones being broken. Elmer escaped without any injury.

The horse ran on the sidewalk in front of the Cherry building knocking out an awning post, when it was caught. The buggy received no material damage.

Daily Guard, May 17.

NARROW ESCAPE.

Mail carrier Garrison had a narrow escape from being run over by the north-bound overland train. He threw the mail sack on the car before the train had come to a stop and stepping backward struck against the express truck standing by. He slipped and fell between the truck and the moving train which threw him under the cars next to the rails and he lay in this position while one or two car lengths passed and the train stopped. His only injuries are a few bruises, but it was a narrow escape.

Daily Guard, May 27.

FUNERAL.

The funeral of the young man, Geo. A. Hunter, who was drowned in the river Sunday, occurred this afternoon at the Springfield cemetery. It was conducted by his father, the Rev. G. A. Shuey, of the M. E. church Epworth League, of which he was a respected member. His bereaved father and sister have the sympathy of all in their sad affliction.

A Promising Candidate.

C. K. Wilkinson, the young candidate for the legislature, is winning applause throughout the canvass. His capability of conducting the canvass of the party he represents has called many advocates to his standard, irrespective of politics. He is winning the votes of the people and can be depended upon never to betray the trust reposed upon him.

"Will Get There."

The Coos Bay Sun, the organ of the people's party, has the following: "Attorney George A. Dorris, of Eugene, nominee of the democratic party for prosecuting attorney of this district, was in town last week making the acquaintance of our citizens, who as a whole could not help taking kindly to him. George is an old time
