"Tell the Truth." The Eugene Register of June 8th makes the following statement, viz: The prohibitionists cut some very curious freaks, and by the complexion of their ballots it could be guessed that respondents were substantially correct. they were working out spite more than they were working out spite more than trying to elect men favorable to their ideas. For instance in one preciact where fifteen probibition votes were cast all but two went for Walker, Noland, Kinsey and Witter," This was evidently meant for South Eugene precinct No. 2, as a certain official of that precinct had been industriously circulating the same report, claiming that he had witnessed it in counting the ballots. Of course every prohibitionist knew the charge to be false. By reference to the vote as tabulated in the county papers it will be seen that South Eugene precinct No. 2 only polled about five prohibition votes, and polled about five prohibition voices, and that these went almost wholly to the prohibition candidates. But the maliciousness of the Register's false statement scarcely exceeds its stupidity, as the vote of all the Eugene precincts are given in the same issue, which flatly contradicts the false statement. But I Ellen Brady pleased the audience well, several new songs being introduced. suppose the Register man thought that no one would think to stand up for the truth by the side of his false statement, What will a high license republican not do to defame a prohibitionist and uphold the saloon?

Home from West Point.

Daily Guard, June 24. Hon. A. G. Hovey returned last night from his eastern trip as visitor to the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., where he attended the annual examination speaks in high terms of the efficiency of that institution. The course of study is extensive, but mostly military and mathematical, and examina-tions are slow and laborious. 62 cadets graduated this year. Mr. Cavenaugh of Washington state, ranked first in the class. In the second class that which graduates next year, Mr. Ladue of Salem ranked first. The standing of all the cadets through the year is reported in the published reports officers and professors. A student from California also stood high. It was a general remark that the young men who had been appointed cadets from the Pacific coast had always held high standing. Mr. Hovey also attended the republican national convention and reports a very enthusiastic time. The reports of the Oregonian cormade visits among old friends and relatives while absent. He had intended to stay and witness the democratic national con-vention at Chicago, but the weather was extremely warm and the flies too numerous for comfort, and he hastened home before it became hotter, stopping on the way at Council Bluffs and Ogden.

The Fairies' Well. Daily Guard, June 23, W. H. Powers' company played the above piece, according to engagement at Rhinehart's Opera House last night. Nothing was lacking in the play to make it albeau-tiful success. The plot of the piece is well known by our readers and the scenic effects Exercises of the Conservatory of Music.

Daily Guard, June 21. Last night the exercises of the Conservatory of Music were held at the University, Miss Mary E. McCornack, director of this department, assisted by her pupils, had pre-pared a very entertaining programme which was listened to by an audience which liter-ally packed Villard Hall to its utmost ca-

The executions on the piano were nicely rendered and this was particularly notice a ble, as was also the singing, because in this hall it is so difficult to make either music or speaking effective.

Mr. Test, who sang "A Bandit's Life" and Miss Glen, who sang a Serenade by Schubert, were called to acknowledge en-cores. A song, "To my Maiden, Fair," by little Lulu Renshaw, was, perhaps, the best received piece of the evening and, hav-ing regained her self possession, her re-sponse to the encore was better than the first. The chorus, "To thee, oh Country," Eichberg; sung by fifteen advance pupils, was the final number and like the rest of the concert was a credit to the teachers in this department. J. Hamilton Lewis' Address-Reunion of the Literary Societies, Dally Guard, June 22. The Hon. J. Hamilton Lewis, of Se attle, delivered an address before the literary societies at the university yesterday at 3 p. m. His subject "The Trend of the Republic," Mr. Lewis is one of the famous orators of the Pacific slope, and his address was full of treats for the literary student as well as instructive to all who heard The burden of his theme was that it remains with those who go out from our higher schools and universities to correct and reform the impression which acts almost as a rule in our in our country, at the present day, that mammon is the only worthy object for which any exertion may be made, any effort may be put forth. This is seemingly so for it is these students who have the benefit of the greatest research into the past experience of governments, the need and the remedy in the various reformations in history and it is these students who are expected to be stronger armed against temptation; with honest principles, with a feeling of the great need of reform more—deeply impressed into their lives.

Mr. Lewis' speech must have produced a deep impression on the minds of his hearers. REUNION OF LITERARY SOCIETIES. The reunion of the Laurean and Eutaxian societies was held at Villard hall last evening at 8 o'clock. A good sized audience was present and a fine musical programme, recitations, read-The great feature of Hollowav's auction ing and orations took up the early part of the evening after which the usual promenade ensued, and a general social ime with old friends was enjoyed until some time later.

LAW GRADUATES. This class numbers nineteen this year and the exercises were held this year and the exercises were held this forenoon at 10 o'clock. They opened by a trio,—piano, organ and violin, by the three teachers in the Conservatory of Music, and Rev. H. L. Bates offered prayer. After "Jack Frost" by the chorus, an oration was delivered by Russell E. Sewall, "Patriotism in its Relation to Law." Only three of the class delivered orations, the other two being, Rodney L. UNIVERSITY ADDRESS.

The address before the University was delivered at 8 o'clock last evening by B. B. Beekman, A. M., of Portland, an alumnus of the University.

The exercises were opened by a piano and organ duet by Misses Sawyers and McCornack, which was well rendered.

A prayer was offered by Rev. Sharp.
The speaker was then introduced with appropriate remarks by Pres Johnson. The subject of the address was, "The Modern Spirit of Inquiry," a question which has occupied the minds of the keenest scientists and greatest thinkers. One seldom thinks of the wonderful power of the human mind, and has but little idea of the great achievements resulting there-from, and when, brought face to face with facts, when so forcibly put forth as by the speaker, we stand in awe and astonishment at what has been accomplished by the mind of man, and rev erently ask, what will be the final cul-mination of this illimitable force born within man, and working for his own glory and uplifting?

All elements of the universe are reduced to the two terms-force and matter. By the action of the one upon the other, under the direction of human intelligence, we have all the modifications of matter which produce the enjoyments, comforts and conveniences of mankind. Indeed, the world seems wrapped in the intellectual schievements of man, yet inquiry is broader and deeper and deeper than ever before. More has been accomplished in the last fifty years than in the cycle of time preceding. And thought is keener and far more plereing today than ever before in the world's history. It collects and combines all the achieve-ments of past ages, and by new modifications and combinations, rears nobler and grander works for the gratifica-tion and pleasure of man.

The address was ably prepared, showing vast research and deep thought, while the pleasing, forceful manner in which it was delivered evinced the great interest which the speaker had in his subject. The address was indeed well received and was an intellectual feast for the students and visitors of the university. The address was followed by a solo, rendered in a very pleasing and artis-tic manner by Miss Hemenway. The exercises closed with the beneliction by Rev. Sharp.

THE GRADUATING EXERCISES. These were held this morning at 10 o'clock. They were opened by two musical numbers and prayer by Rev. D. E. Loveridge. The judges chosen by the faculty were Rev. C. M. Hill, Hon. B. B. Beekman, and J. N. Pearcy, all alumni of the University. There are eight young men in the class of '92, and each delivered an oration as follows:

"The Tendency of Modern Civilization." Jerry E. Bronaugh. "The Tendency of Modern Civilization," -Herbert T. Condon.

"Absolutism, the Weakness of Russia," -Frederick S. Dunn.
"Lincoln in his Humanity,"-John S. McClure. "The Greatness of a Nation is the product of its Institutions of Learning.

George W. Norrris. "The Uplifting Power in the Common People,"—Frank H. Porter. "Should the United States continue to be an Asylum for the Oppressed of all na-tions?"—Lenn L. Stevens.

"Should our Government maintain a large Naval armament and Coast Defence, -Joseph E. Young. Space prevents our making any extended comments on these efforts and we can only say as did the judges that in excellence they were nearly uniform and in literary merit, as a class, a source of pride and much hope for their future to their alma mater, fellow students, their many friends. Of the musical part of the exercises, the with a beautiful solo obligato, by Mrs. Liun, was worthy of especial men-tion. The valedictory by Fred S. Dunn was full of feeling, loyalty and inspiration. This honor conferred upon Mr. Dunn was not misplaced.

After this the diplomas were awarded the members of the class which conferred upon them the degree of A, B. The address to the class was made by Prof. Condon. It was short but impressive, laden with traths and cautions intended to assist them in practical life. The most impressive of all he said to them was, "The conferring of all he said to them was, "The conferring of these degrees presumes each one of you ca pable of assuming leadership in a country where leadership is more needed than lead-ership ever was before, and more especially the leadership of thought."

Presient Johnson then stated that Superintendent of Instruction E. B. Mc-Elroy had been called upon to present

Elroy had been called upon to present Mesars, Porter, Norris, Bronaugh and Stev-ens and Misses Etta Levis and Ada Sharples with State teacher's diplomas. This he did in a few appropriate and well chosen The judges were then called to make a report and Rev. C. M. Hill in their behalf stated that carefully considering all points of excellence, this element of them all being so uniform, they had decided to award the Failing prize to Len L. Stevens. This must have met with the greatest satisfaction of the large audience assembled if one were to judge from the rounds of hearty applause which ensued. We shall endeavor to pub-oration space in our columns in the near future. The first prize is $150 and the second $100. The judges also especially commended the oration of Jerry E. Bronaugh.

Thus ends another school year at Oregon's State University and thus are eight more young gentlemen launched out into the sea of practical life to make the world better or worse for their hav-ing lived in it. May merited success be theirs and the lives they lead beneficial to their fellow men, a source of pride to their many friends and an honor to themselves and their Alma

Florence Items. June 20, 1892. The town today has a kind of "left" feeling and appearance for the crowd from Gardiner with their brass band left this morning, to return to their homes. The members of Gardiner Lodge of Ancient Or-der of United Workmen came up Saturday to visit their brother workmen here, to lis-ten to a lecture Saturday evening by the grand lecturer, the Rev. Mr Whitmore, and have a general jollification in which they fully succeeded The lodge here laid themfully succeeded. The looge here laid them-selves out to make it as enjoyable as possi-ble for their guests and were met in the same spirit. Mr. Whitmore's lecture Sat-urday evening to a very large audience was attentively listened to and enjoyed. Sun-day morning Steamers Lillian and Coos left the wharf well loaded with human freight, flags flying and band playing pointed to the head of tide. The boats returned in the afternoon, and a good congregation attend-ed the Presbyterian church in the evening to hear Mr. Whitmore preach. This morning our visitors have gone and it seems qui-et after such a stir.

The steamer Chance arrived in Sunday evening loaded with nearly 40,000 brick for the lighthouse all of which she has discharged today and will likely leave for Cocs Bay in the morning.

Three schooners are due here, two, in-deed having been expected for more than a week past. Constant head winds is the cause of the nonarrival. Rumor says that a good steam schoone is to be built here this summer, one that will carry nearly 300,000 feet of lumber.

Mr. York, who was here a few months since, has returned to Florence and will re-Senator Alley and wife are expected home

4th of July celebrations are to be at Florence, Seaton, and one at the lakes, and a good time will be had at all. Political matters have all quieted down since election, but will probably open up again and will before long likely be as hot or hotter than ever. It will certainly be, Lay on, Macduff, and damned be he who first called, 'hold, enough.' 'Rah for our

In the Calaboose.—A couple of daysago a man giving his name as Martin, and claiming Halsey as his residence, came here to figure, as he said, on the county jail. This morning he got a livery term and went to Springfield, but could not withstand the liquor of that town. He got as far back as the suburbs of Eugene when he became unable to drive. Some boys tied the horse and Marshal Eastland being notified took Martin to the calaboose. One spring of the buggy was broken. buggy was broken.
