All Experts Use Royal Baking Powder

Perfect and uniform success in making finest food is more certain with Royal Baking Powder than with any other. Use it in every receipt calling for a baking powder, or cream of tartar and soda, and the best results in pure, wholesome, appetizing food are assured. Experts use it because it adds to their success. Physicians and Health Officers recommend it because it adds to the wholesomeness of the food.

MARION HARLAND: "I regard the Royal Baking Powder as the best in the market. Since its introduction into my kitchen I have used no other."

M. GORJU, late Chef, Delmonico's, New-York: "In my use of Royal Baking Powder, I have found it superior to all others." A FORTIN, Chef, White House, for Presidents Arthur and fleveland: "I have tested many baking powders, but for finest God can use none but 'Royal.'"

Where the Nickel Comes From.

In the Copper Cliff mine, near Sud-bury, Canada, it is said more nickel is being produced than the entire market of the world calls for at current prices.

A little branch off the main line of the Canadian Pacific railway, four miles in length, leads out to the mine, which pens into the face of a crag of the brown, oxidized Laurentian rock, characteristic of this region. The miners are now at work at a depth of about 300 feet below the surface. As fast as the nickel and topper bearing rock is hoisted out, it is broken up and piled upon long beds, or ricks, of pine wood, to be calcined or roasted, for the purpose of driving out the sulphur which it contains. The roasting process is of the nature of lime kilning or charcoal burning. Each great bed of ore requires from one to two months to roast. When roasted the rock goes to the principal smelter, a powerful blast furnace "jacketed"-in mining phrase-with running water, to enable it to sus-tain the great heat requisite to reduce the crude, obdurate mineral to fluidity.

The dross of the molten mass is first allowed to flow off, and afterward the nearly pure nickel and copper, blended together in an alloy called the "mat," or matte, is drawn off at the base of the furnace into the barrow pots and wheeled away, still liquid and flery hot, to cool in the yard of the smelter. The mat contains about 70 per cent. of nickel, the remaining 30 per cent, being mainly copper. When cold, the conical pot loaves of mat can easily be cracked in pieces by means of heavy hammers. The fragments are then packed in barrels and shipped to Swansea, in Wales, and to Germany, where the two constituent metals are separated and refined by secret processes, which are very jealously

LIFE ON A WATER FARM.

There Is Profit in Raising Fish and Frogs for Market.

It has not been many years since water farming was added to the possibilities of "agriculture" in Indiana. It began as a diversion. It has become a business Enough time has now elapsed to demon strate that water farming may be made practicable and profitable—at least as proftable as some other rural occupation more enticing than the ordinary life of an agriculturist. As much money can be ide off an acre of water as off an acre of land, including well located fish and frog ponds on the one hand and ordinary farmng on the other.

One of the pioneers of water farming in Indiana is Mr. Joseph Manlove, of Milton. Seven years ago he bought a small piece of low land lying between the White Water canal and White Water river. He determined to flood the low land, and to add to his possessions the adjoining high land for park purposes. His place now includes fourteen acres of water and twenty-one of land. His business is largely with the water and only incidentally with the dry land. His first purpose was to establish a carp pond, from which the fish market might be supplied. This was accomplished in two years with comparative case. Now. he has practically an unlimited quantity of this variety of fish. However, the public taste also calls for bass, and Manlove determined to add this variety to his supply. His lake is now stocked with a vast supply of black bass. They have grown finely, and bass fishing will be "put ou the market." Bass promise so much better than carp that "Farmer" Manlove uses his young carp as food for his bass.

Suppose he has gone out to feed. He has with him mid dlings or other grain. He goes to the breeding pond, sounds a gong or blows a whistle and thousands of frogs come hopping from their shelter. They cat the food ravenously, and become so tame that the farmer handles them as a woman does her pet chickens. The same food is just the thing for young and old carp. "Fish and frogs take to grain and grain products," said Mr. Manlove, "like a boy does to apple dumpling. Part of the season it is not necessary to feed my stock at all. The water grass seeds make the finest food for fish, and at certain times of the year I rarely prepare a fish for the table that I do not find him filled with grass seed."-Indianapolis News.

Crazy Inventors.

Side by side with the greatest inventions of the age are classed the craziest offsprings of the human brain. In looking through the patent office you are surprised at the wisdom and the foolish-ness of man's intellect. FRIENDS OF THE PUBLIC.

MEN OF MARK WHO GATHER NEWS.

Some Personal Sketches and Incidents of Brain Workers in the Highest Walks of Life.

The reader of the morning paper who sits by his cosy fireside and is informed of what is transpiring in every quarter of the globe, seldom realizes the amount of actual labor necessary to ascertain, collect, write, transmit, and print this wonderful mass of news. And yet, aside from the special dispatches, it is largely centered in one office, located near the Telegraph building in New York, and presided over by aquiet gentleman in a most meaterly manner.

Mr. William Henry Smith, manager of the Associated Press, is in the prime of life, and possesses a mind clear as to the requirements of the public. To prop-erly and promptly handle the mass of matter that passes through his hands is an enermous undertaking, and one which may well test the capacity of any man. Mr. Smith has always been an arduous worker, and it is by no means surprising that his health should, in the past, have suffered more or less thereby. mental strain necessary to the performance of his duties caused difficulties of digestion which are not easily overcome, and also a uremic colic, both painful and exhausting. All attempts to overcome these tendencies by force of will power failed, and he consulted eminent physicians, among them Dr. Barthol of Philadelphia. In spite, however, of the care and skill of these practitioners, he grew worse constantly. The result can best be described in his own words. He said :

"My brother, C. W. Smith, manager of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, came to visit me, and seeing my condi-tion, took upon himself to conduct my case, and so secured a preparation which, I have since learned, he had used suc-cessfully himself and in his family. I began its use, and commenced improv-ing at once. This improvement con-tinued, until now I am well, and wholly through the influence of Warner's Safe Cure. I have since then used the remedy with good results in my family, and keep it on hand constantly. I consider it a remarkable medicine.

Mr. George Alfred Townsend, the famous newspaper correspondent, whose letters, written over the nom de plume of "Gath," have attracted such wide at-tention, said to the writer: "While in England I had a pleasant visit with ex-Gov. S. B. Packard, our Consul at Liverpool. We were remarking on the death of a number of distinguished Americans, when the Governor said: 'Townsend, I can't see why so many of our public men are passing away, victims of one dread scourge. There is no need of their dying if they will consent to avail themselves of what has been provided for them, as have.' Gov. Packard went on to describe his experience, and I found his symptoms corresponded almost exactly to my own. I soon afterward returned to America, began the same treatment, and when I had taken a number of bottles of Warner's Safe Cure—the remedy Gov. Packard used and commended to me so strongly-1, too, was rid of back-ache, bad fluids, tired feelings, nervous exhaustion, irregular appetite, 'thick head,' and to-day am as sound as a nut. It indicated my disorder and removed it entirely. I regard it as a godsend to this country, where Bright's disease and all other kidney disorders are so prevalent."

The above statements are not from elscure sources, but from gentlemen in the most exalted stations of trust and responsibility, and the affirmations they make are the results of actual observation. Does it not stand to reason, there fore, that the article of which they speak is a most valuable one, and such as may be used with great benefit by all who

THE TEMPTATION

To get out of doors in rough weather is not strong, but we are, many of us, compelled to face rough weather frequent y. Disceases which arise, from a chill are peculiar to no season of the year. This is true; therefore, there should be in the closet of every household—what? Not an unmedicated attimusant, absolutely devo d of anything but an excitive action, but a tonic complaint, in the effective form of an invigorant said an aircraitve, the quality of defense against changes of weather. Hostetter's stemach Bitters has three or four properties that no other arricle of its class possesses. Not only does it reliate the complaints which it even usally tures, it fortifies the system sgainst the bad effects of changes of temperature, fatally and too often shown in the deadly form of "has grippe," it produces a radical change in the weakened condition of a sys em jeculiarly liable to be attacked by it, and it tends to provide against the danger resulting from an impoverished condition of the blood and a disordered state of the liver or towels.
