OSBURN & DeLANO, EUGENE, OR

AN OLD WATCH.—The Scio Press tells the following. Fred Reis of Albany has a watch which should be on exhibition at the World's Fair as an interesting article in Oregon's exhibit. It is of solid gold and has two dials; one indicates eastern time and the other western time. It was one of the first stop watches ever made and has been carried and has run without intermission for over 325 years and is a good time keeper now, though the cases are worn nearly as thin as paper.

BOOKS CLOSED.—The sheriff has closed the rolls and is now busy making up the delinquent list. As soon as the same is finished he will commence receiving taxes again. The collections amounts to $115,000, leaving the sum of $32,000 delinquent. The railroad company did not pay their taxes, of nearly $11,000 on Saturday as expected.

Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

You will remember the condition I was in five years ago, when I was afflicted with a combination of diseases, and thought there was no help for me. I tried all kinds of medicines, and several of eminent physicians. My nerves were prostrated, producing dizzy sp. heart trouble and all the ills that make life miserable. I commenced to take DR. MILES' NERVINE and in three months I WAS PERFECTLY CURED. In my travels each year, when I see the thousands of physical wrecks, suffering from nervous prostration, taking prescriptions from local physicians who have no knowledge of their case, and whose death is certain, I feel like going to them and saying, "ACT DR. MILES' NERVINE AND BE CURED." In my profession, where there are so many men overwork, men CURED from prostration and nervous exhaustion, brought on by the character of the business engaged in, I would recommend "MILES' NERVINE" to THOUSANDS as a sure cure for all suffering from these causes.

Springfield Messenger: The Trent sawmill has contracted to deliver to the Southern Pacific Company 10,000 railroad ties at Natron by August 1. Two other mills at other places adjacent have similar contracts. This looks significant.

Joe Scranton struck a hill on Louse creek about seven miles from town last week says the Grant's Pass Courier, where the dirt pays $1.50 a day by simply carrying the soil in a pan to the creek, a hundred yards or so and washing it by the very primitive process of rocking the pan in the water of the creek.

Roseburg Plaindealer: The Cottage Grove Echo-Leader mournfully asks, "Would it not be a good idea to be careful and elect straight, square men at the coming city election?" It was generally supposed that "Mineral" county in general and Cottage Grove in particular contained only "straight, square men," but it would appear from reading the above that there are a few would-be boodle alderman in that fair city.

A Monmouth dispatch says: "A. W. Lucas, one of Polk county's leading citizens and a presidential elector on the prohibition ticket at the last election, lies at the point of death at his home two miles of Monmouth. He is not expected to survive the night. He recently returned from California, where he went to spend the winter in the the vain hope of regaining his health." The gentleman is the ather of Mrs. Dr. Shelton, of this city.

A Deep Mystery.

Daily Guard, April 1.

The mystery surrounding the attempted train wrecking at or near Rice Hill refuses, as yet to clear away.

It is now found out that the crowbar and wrench with which the rail was removed were stolen from the tool house of the section crew at Yoncalla. The entrance to the building was obtained by raising a rear window, and a rock was used to prevent the sash from falling while the person entered and left the building. Also the tracks plainly show that only one man was instrumental in obtaining the tools. The rock being used to hold up the sash proves conclusively that it was the work of one man. If there had been more than one man the tracks would have show them, besides one person would have held up the window while the other entered. The question is, who was that person? Many think it was the man Richardson.

The evening before the attempted wreck Richardson was in Eugene and told several different persons as to where he was going, etc. He told one that he was going to Roseburg to look after business matters at that place, while to another he said he intended leaving for Texas where he had inherited a vast estate. To another gentleman he stated that he had $700 in a Eugene bank, when it is known that he only had a few dollars. To hear this individual talk a person would have thought that he would not have started out tramping, but would have had the drawing room in a Pullman.

Oregon City Enterprise: William McGuire, the state fisher and hunter, calls county papers "penny a liners," and turns up his nose at their "punny vaporings." The fish and game upon which he diets must be most invigorating, since he so soon after coming into office flings his heels in contempt at the press of the state.

The governor has pardoned Wm. Bennett from the penitentiary. He was committed Jan 14th, 1887, for life, for murder in the second degree. A majority of the jury that convicted him petitioned for his pardon owing to his previous good character and the serious provocation which led to the crime.

All Fools Day.

Daily Guard, April 1.

Today is the first of April, commonly known a All Fools Day.

April was, in the old Roman reckoning, the second month of the year, but is counted in the Julian calendar as the fourth. In many countries of Europe as England, France and Germany, and in the United States, the first of April has long been appropriated to a facetious custom, for which no very satisfactory origin has been assigned. To send an unsuspecting or ignorant person on some bootless errand is the great endeavor of the day. In Scotland the unfortunate subject of the trick is called a gowk—which has now, though the words were probably at one time different, the meaning of both of "fool" and "cuckoo,"—and the mischievous errand sending is "hunting a gowk." In France the victim is called poisson d'Avril, or April-fish. One remarkable theory traces the custom to Noah, as sending out his dove on such a quest; it is also referred either to the miracle plays representing the sending of our Saviour from Annas to Caiaphas and from Pilate to Herod, or to the change in France, in 1564, of New Year's day to the first of January, which left the first of April destitute of anything but a burlesque of its former festivities; and more recently an identification has been attempted with the Hindoo festival of Hull, which is celebrated in a similar manner on the 31st of March.

THE "SKIRT DANCE."—The East Portland Chronicle says: The "skirt dance" threatens to become a society fad in Portland. It was inaugurated at a private entertainment recently by a lady who is recognized as a leader of the "400." Now our neighborly town, Vancouver, is in a fever of excitement over the agile performances of a Portland belle, who gave the skirt dance the other evening in the presence of a number of army officers. Since these exhibitions the "skirt dance" has become the favorite theme of the young men at the clubs in their long evening discussions over the flowing bowl, and the old women of the town are shaking their heads and wondering what the world is coming to anyway.

A BIG REWARD.—The Southern Pacific has offered a big reward of $3000 for the arrest of each of the wreckers of the train engine at Rice Hill. There were five according to Richardson's report. There is a growing opinion though that his statements must be taken with a good deal of allowance.

Dear gold means cheap prices for all kinds of agricultural products that must find a market abroad.

Fruit trees are late in blooming this spring. It will be the means of producing a large crop as no frost or cold weather may be expected so late in the season.

Astoria is infested with gamblers and it proposed to make them pay a license for the privilege. As a consequence the factions have taken sides and a closely contested election is expected.

The New York Advertiser has this to say about toothpicks: Toothpicks are to be allowed on dinner tables, contrary to English rule. A well known society leader who recently paid a visit to London says she heard her hostess remark one day that she would just as soon pass around tooth brushes and towels as toothpicks to her guests.

Oregon's exhibit for the world's fair is being collected as rapidly as circumstances will permit. The agricultural and horticural exhibits that will be made during the latter part of the fair will place our state in the proper light to visitors. The short time allowed will necessarily result in a scant exhibit at first.

England buys wheat and cotton of India and pays for it in depreciated silver. Remonetization would make silver equal to gold, and that nation would soon go back to the double standard. Our wheat and cotton growers are knocked in the head by the same combination. The value of gold has been unduly appreciated and our farmers get less for their products.

Salem Statesman: The resignation of Prof. J. W. Johnson, president of the Oregon state unversity at Eugene, will remove from the executive control of that institution a very able and conscientious man and an industrious worker for the success of the school. Men who can put on more style than President Johnson are numerous, but those of equal ability are scarce.

The following point is well taken by the East Oregonian: "That was a fine picture of Uncle John Minto in the Salem Statesman of Saturday last. The title of the picture somehow or other was: 'A Distinguished Merino Ram,' nevertheless it was quite was appropriate, since Uncle John never put his pen to paper unless his thoughts reverted to the duty on wool and the country's obligation to distinguished Merino rams and their owners. The Statesman does some very creditable work in the caricature line.

The Tillamook Headlight publishes each week eight solid columns of government land notices. The entire edition each week is printed on fine book paper, an extravagance of which no other paper in Oregon would or could be guilty. The Headlight has occupied its large-paying field for several years and competent judges place the editor's accumulations from the newspaper business at $30,000. He is said to have several thousand dollars invested in an Astoria cannery, and is one of the few editors in Oregon who have prospered.

Running a newspaper is a business proposition therefore a sensible man should not expect it to allow its columns to be used by every one who wishes to air his own peculiar views, however little they may interest the public generally. Occasionally newspapers are started for this purpose by disappointed contributors but they find that a financial proposition enters largely into the work of conducting a paper. It is purely a matter of business, and to be successful must be managed on the same lines that mark the course of other successful business enterprises. What merchant would allow a man to stand in his doorway and decry a considerable portion of the community? Yet this is what some expect a newspaper to allow its columns to be used for.

Portland Telegram: Hops convert into money rapidly. With favorable prices the crop is a most valuable one. There are times when the market is weak and prices are depressed, but to the casual observer the harvest's product always seems in demand and capable of finding a ready money exchange. The fortunes made by hopgrowers in New York state are numberless, and there was a time when a good hop farm was worth more than a gold mine. While less profits are made now, still there is an opportunity in that line not to be neglected. The Puyallup valley hops in Washington are famous, and have brought wealth to many farmers, and the Willamette valley product averages well for the raisers. In the past there has been one drawback to successful agriculture in Oregon, notwithstanding climatic and soil conditions are unsurpassed. The crops have not been sufficiently diversified. It has usually been too much wheat. Now there is a tendency to branch out in such ways as raising hops, fruit or sugar beets. It is therefore encouraging to learn that farmers are extending their hop acreage and that throughout the southern counties new yards will be numerous. If immunity from lice and favorable weather are granted them, the amount of money coming into Oregon in return for the harvest will be large and gladly welcomed.

The Portland-Albina ferry will be run free day and night commencing today. The Albina people fought for a free bridge, but have been compelled to accept a free ferry.

Ex-Governor Ames, Massachusett's last republican governor, thinks that "the pension abuses, the force bill and the tariff elected Mr. Cleveland," and that the country is to have a good administration.

Yamhill county banks have refused to buy their county warrants. They evidently don't consider a county that has $60,000 indebtedness and a 26-mill tax as very gilt-edged security for the redemption of its fiat bonds.

A Kansas man has produced a plant which he calls a potomato. It is a cross between a potato vine and a tomato plant and produces both vegetables. The next improvement will be a cross between buckwheat and sugar maple.

The naming of the old University building Deady hall was a deserved recognition of his untiring efforts in behalf of the university. Judge Deady was one of its firmest friends, never wavering in his devotion from the day it was founded.

Electricity will play a very important part in the world's fair. The rapid development of the world is instanced in this that at former fairs the electric display was meager and unsatisfactory. The exposition buildings will be enveloped in a blaze of electric lights. This it is said will be one of the grandest sights.

Governor Pennoyer is right in protesting against the employment of U. S. deputy marshals, at Drain, by the railroad company. The state and county authorities are amply able to take care of disturbances within their boundaries. United States officials are altogether too willing to usurp the functions of the state, especially when a rich corporation employs them.

A Portland exchange says the Southern Pacific Railroad Company will send a brace of detectives to the scene of the attempted train wreck at Rice hill. The company does not appear to be much excited over the event, and may be of the opinion that they have the right man in the Portland hospital. The surgeons however should be able to determine if the wounds were self inflicted.

The fruit interests of Oregon are being developed in a systematic manner by growers who plant largely of every variety selected, few selections being made, so that when in a few years orchards come into bearing it will be no trouble to find carloads of desirable fruit. The pioneer orchards consist of almost every variety under the sun, four-fifths of them being useless for commercial purposes.

Superintendent Savage of the agricultural department of the Oregon world's fair commission is preparing an exhibit of 200 glass jars of Oregon grains for the state exhibit, and will in addition distribute to farmers and others wanting practical evidences of Oregon's capacity as a grain-producing state at least 25,000 small sacks of grain, besides tons of the "Resources of Oregon" and other advertising documents.

Roseburg Review: The reason given by Mr. Cleveland for not appointing the office holders who served under his first administration is, that he does not wish to establish or perpetuate an office holding dynasty in the United States. His reason for keeping republican office holders in until their terms expire is, that it stays the mad rush for office at the beginning of each administration and allows the places to be filled decently and in order.

Extraordinary efforts should be made by the Douglas county authorities and the Southern Pacific officials to capture the miscreants who attempted to wreck the passenger train at Rice hill this morning. If captured a rope should answer for judge and jury. These attempts to wreck trains are becoming too common along the Oregon lines of the Southern Pacific, and special efforts should be made to arrest the guilty persons.

Hon. T. F. Bayard has received the position of ambassador to the court of St. James. His talents will not be needed at the post as there is nothing to do. In these days of swift ocean steamers and telegraphs the positions of foreign ministers are sinecures which cost the government large sums. The consuls protect American citizens abroad and perform commercial work. They are our real representatives, while the ministers enjoy the pomp and ceremonies of their distinguished stations.

The East Oregonian in an article on the action of U. S. Marshal Barin in placing deputies at Drain, says: Governor Pennoyer deserves credit for notifying Barin to remove his marshals, as law and order could be better preserved by state officials. The governor, as usual, is on the side of the people against the arrogant, malicious, tyrannical government of the many, by the few. It is time that Barin, partisan, spoilsman and official plunderer, was relieved from duty and a better man given his place.

Will Be Our First Ambassador.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The president sent to the senate the following nominations:

Thomas F. Bayard, of Delaware, ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary to Great Britain.

Ex-Secretary of State Thomas F. Bayard was born at Wilmington, Del., October, 29, 1828. He was educated at the Flushing school, and later studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1851, and has since practiced mostly in his native city. Mr. Bayard was appointed United States district attorney for Delaware in 1853, but resigned the following year. He succeeded his father, James A. Bayard, in the United States senate, taking his seat March 4, 1869. He was twice re-elected, and during his last term was appointed secretary of state by Mr. Cleveland in 1885.

J. D. Porter, of Tennessee, minister to Chili.

James D. Porter, who is to succeed Patrick Egan at Chili, is a prominent Tennesse lawyer, and under the previous democratic administration was assistant secretary of state, and from 1874 to 1879 was governor of Tennessee.

J. A. McKenzie of Kentucky, minister to Peru.

James A McKenzie of Kentucky represented that state in the 47th congress. At the Chicago convention he broke away from Henry Watterson's lead, and by a timely funny speech carried a number of his fellow delegates from Kentucky over to Cleveland.

Lewis Baker of Minnesota, minister to Nicaragua, Costa Rica and Salvador.

Lewis Baker is the well-known editor of the St. Paul Globe. He was chairman of the state democratic committee during the last campaign and had always been a warm supporter of President Cleveland. His only previous political office was presiding officer of the West Virginia senate in 1870, which, at that time, was republican.

P. M. Young of Georgia, minister to Guatemala and Honduras.

Pierce M. Young was a major-general of cavalry in the Confederate army was educated at West Point. Under Mr. Cleveland's former administration he was sent to St. Petersburg as consul-general, but soon resigned and came home.

Edwin Dun, of Ohio, minister to Japan.

Edwin Dun, nominated minister to Japan, is a member of the present Japanese legation, and his nomination is in the nature of a promotion, for he is a holdover from the previous democratic administration.

John M. Reynolds of Pennsylvania, assistant secretary of the interior.

J. I. Hall of Georgia, assistant attorney-general.

A VETERAN FIREMAN DEAD.

David Scannell, Chief of the San Francisco Department.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.—David Scannell, for many years chief of the San Francisco fire department, died suddenly this morning, aged 73 years. He was sitting in a chair in the engine house on Bush street at 9 o'clock, reading a paper. Suddenly his head dropped and he was dead. His death was due to kidney and liver troubles, from which he had been ailing some time.

L. E. Moe has traded his Ashland property for J. E. Butler's place below town which consists of thirteen acres. This is very desirable property and just what Mr. Moe has been trying to get hold of for some time. Possession will be given shortly. Mr. Butler will move town.

A number of old soldiers of this section contemplate organizing a Grand Army Post. The constitution only requires ten charter members.

Quite a Sensation.

Daily Guard, March 31.

Our sister city of Junction has had quite a sensation during the past few days. S. E. McClure, city marshal, on his own complaint, arrested, Wednesday, Frank, Thomas and Milt Uttinger, Andrew Adams, Chas. Bishop and J. H. Eccleston, residents of that town, on the charge of stealing wood belonging to the railroad company. The same evening Adams was tried before Justice J. J. Butler and fined $20. He will appeal from the decision. Yesterday morning Frank and Milt Uttinger were tried before a jury in Justice Butler's court and were found not guilty, although considerable strong evidence was introduced. Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Potter informs us that the case against Thomas Uttinger will be dismissed on his motion. Thus ends several exciting cases.

WHOSE BOY IS HE?—Springfield Messenger: A boy aged about 12 years, wearing a striped suit of clothes and carrying a light overcoat, spent Tuesday in the woods along the Willamette river, near J. A. Martin's residence, and from his actions, was apparently in hiding. At noon he slipped up to Mr. Martin's house and asked for something to eat stating he had had nothing to eat for twenty-four hours. He told Mrs. Martin that he was going to Portland. When given a lunch he moved in a cautious manner back into the timber where he stayed until late in the afternoon. He then went to Mr. Mulligan's house and was given something to satisfy his hunger after which he again made his way into the woods. Mr. Martin intended to watch for him Wednesday morning and have him arrested, but he could not be found.

WATER WORKS MEN.—The Salem Independent says: There are two or three gentlemen in town, one of whom is from San Francisco, whose ruinous business here is to try and get a charter from the city to allow them to build a water works that will furnish water from the Santiam. The gentlemen are merely looking over the field and are very reticent in the matter of their business. They intend visiting Albany and Eugene as well as Salem. They have the appearance and are credited with being men of considerable means.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.—Springfield Messenger: George, the 5-year-old child of John Law met with a painful accident Sunday afternoon. While playing in the yard with his little sisters, he fell on a piece of glass which penetrated the flesh at the knee over an inch. The glass broke off leaving a piece over three-fourths of an inch long in the knee.
