A CARD!

A Merchant is but a purchasing agent for his customers and neighbors and it is his urgent duty to look the world over and get the very best goods possible at the lowest possible price, and then turn them over to his customers at a small profit so as to make their money go as far as possible. This is my belief, and I try my very best to carry out my belief, and give my patrons the benefit of my great experience, which I assure you is recognized as the very best on this coast.

M. S. BARKER.

HEAR! HEAR!

Being desirous of handling Bicycles, as they have become a necessity instead of a luxury, I thought it best to be very cautious in the selection of a machine as I know the consequence of flooding the country with a poor class of goods.

Being an expert mechanic of the higher grade I have examined nearly all the so-called high grade Bicycles of the different makes and found several of them of very ordinary workmanship and material. These machines pass through several hands before the consumer reaches them, and you know each dealer must make a profit, consequently the very high price.

After all these investigations and examinations I have come to the conclusion that the GALE'S & GOTHAM Bicycles are the wheels that give the best value for the money. They are thoroughly first-class in every particular and warranted to be as represented. Prices are at the very bottom.

I give my customers the benefit of my very superior knowledge in this respect, which I assure you is of the utmost value. The reputation that I have for the best goods at the very lowest consistent prices will be carried out in the Cycle line.

Yours,
M. S. BARKER.

APPOINTED JUDGE.

Judge C. B. Bellinger, of Portland, appointed to succeed Judge Deady.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Hon. Chas. B. Bellinger, of Portland, has been appointed by President Cleveland, U. S. District Judge for Oregon.

Biographical Sketch.

Charles B. Bellinger was born in Mapton, Knox county, Ill., November 21, 1829, and at the age of 8 years came to Oregon with his parents and grand parents. After receiving the advantages of a common school education supplemented with some two years at the Willamette University, he began to read law at Salem in the office of Judge B. F. Bonham, and was admitted to the bar at the September term of the supreme court in 1863. He engaged in the practice of law with the late John C. Cartwright, who, at one time, was United States district attorney and commissioner of internal revenue for Oregon.

BECAME AN EDITOR.

Mr. Bellinger soon after gave up the law business and became the editor of a new democratic paper. The Arena, which had been founded by General John F. Miller, Joseph S. Smith and other pronounced democrats. Mr. Bellinger's health becoming impaired he retired from editorial work in 1866, and engaged in mercantile business at Munroe, in Benton county, until 1869, serving in the meantime, in 1868, a term in the legislature as a representative from Benton county. A year later he removed to Albany and began the practice of law, at the same time taking editorial control of the States Rights Democrat published there. He remained in charge of that paper until 1870, when he removed to Portland and began the practice of law. Since that time Judge Bellinger has made his home in that city.

IN THE MODOC WAR.

In 1872 Judge Bellinger was the nominee on the democratic ticket for prosecuting attorney in the fourth judicial district, his opponent being Geo. H. Durham, but was defeated. In 1873 Judge Bellinger went to the Modoc Indian war with General John F. Miller, major-general of the Oregon militia, in capacity of aid with rank of colonel, and remained in the service until the appointment of the peace commission suspended military operations. He was at the battle of the lava beds fought January 17, 1874, in which the United States troops under General Frank Wheaton, the Oregon volunteers and the California volunteers defeated Captain Jack with heavy loss. Judge Bellinger was upon General Wheaton's staff during the engagement, and received honorable mention in that officer's report of the battle.

AS STATE CIRCUIT JUDGE.

In 1873 he was appointed clerk of the supreme court. During 1876-77 he held the position of chairman of the democratic state central committee covering the exciting period of the Tilden presidential campaign. In the fall of 1878 he resigned the supreme court clerkship to accept the circuit judgeship of the fourth judicial district, then comprising the counties of Multnomah, Clackamas, Washington, Clatsop and Columbia. At the election in 1880, Judge Bellinger was a candidate for reelection, but was defeated by Judge Raleigh Stott. In that election he ran between 1100 and 1200 ahead of his ticket.

Upon retiring from the bench Judge Bellinger resumed the practice of law in partnership with John M. Gearin, and so continued until the fall of 1883, when he became a member of the firm of Dolph, Bellinger, Mallory & Simon. He was married early in life to Miss Margaret S. Johnson, of Linn county. Their children, four sons and three daughters, are all living, and with two exceptions are grown.

HIS EMINENT QUALIFICATIONS.

Judge Bellinger during his occupancy of the bench, was noted for his courtesy, industry and acuteness, as well as for learning and firmness. Polley had little, if anything, to do with his decisions, his conclusions being reached by critical analysis presented with legal and logical force. His experience as judge seemed to increase his powers of advocacy, and largely adds to his equipment as a lawyer.

In advocacy before the court he is nearly always severely logical, though when his case demands it, no one is better able than himself to substitute plausibility for logic to make the "worse appear the better reason." In his jury appeals his own intellectual rather than the heart, and hence his success in jury trials is greater with an intelligent than an ignorant panel. His wit is well known, and often has his antagonist at the bar winced under his incisiveness.

His mind is noted for alertness; in all his actions moral sense is predominant; he is a reader, student and thinker; he possesses unusual powers as a writer, and has talent in general that would make him conspicuous and bring him success in any station.

Killing at Yoncalla.

Roseburg Review, April 10: A fatal quarrel occurred at Yoncalla Saturday evening between two half breeds or Indians. But, owing to the absence of a telegraph office there, we have been unable to get any particulars. Al Morris, who came in on the freight last night, states that the parties to the affair were cousins, and he understood the name to be Fern. That one was 21 years and the other 18 years and that they resided on Thief creek. They had been to Oakland and were drinking and a quarrel ensued, during which the elder was killed by a blow with a rock on his head. He was lying in the road and Deputy Sheriff Dillard, who was in that section, discovered the body. His companion was arrested and is having his preliminary examination at Yoncalla today. The murderer was given a preliminary examination at Roseburg yesterday, and was held to await the action of the grand jury, without bonds.

DIED.

DIED.—S. M. St. John died yesterday at the residence of his son, five miles south of this city, of dropsy. Deceased was born April, 1810, thus making him 83 years old to day. He had lived in this county several years, having moved here from California.

Daily Guard, April 11.

INSANE.—Mrs. Wm. Partridge, of near Springfield, was examined yesterday evening before Judge Fisk by Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Potter and medical examiners D. A. Paine and A. Sharples. The only is of English birth, about middle age, and has been afflicted only about a month. She is suffering from melancholia and the disease at times takes a suicidal turn. The disease found its origin for the most part in stomach troubles of long standing.

The mayor and council of Baker City threaten to resign unless the citizens "pungle up" their taxes. Of $6000 due only $600 has been paid to the treasurer, and there is no fun in running a bankrupt corporation.
